F. D. R., CHURCHILL CHART KNOCKOUT BLOW AT JAPS

Talk in Alexandria; De Gaulle Snubs Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt, during a dramatic near east odyssey, has obtained from Prime Minister Churchill a new promise to "throw everything" at the Japanese after the defeat of Germany. He also got a snub from Gen. de Gaulle, chief of France's provisional government.

The White House today made public some details of the President's trip thru Egypt and Algeria and told how Mr. Roosevelt is adding by plane, motor, and ship some 14,000 miles to his stupendous travel.

To Strengthen Forces.

The fresh British pledge for fullest participation against Japan was given to the President by Churchill at Alexandria, Egypt. The White House narration said that "new and important" discussions of the Pacific situation were conducted there, topics that had to be passed over at the Big Three meeting because of Russia's nonaggression pact with Japan. The statement added:

"Mr. Churchill told the President in blunt words that his government was determined to throw everything it had at the Japs as soon as Germany has been defeated and, meanwhile, would do all it could to strengthen its forces already engaged in that conflict."

The announcement confirmed officially for the first time reports from abroad that De Gaulle and the President could not arrange a meeting. De Gaulle was invited to meet with the President at Algiers. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to discuss questions of "mutual interest and importance" to France and the United States. De Gaulle, supposedly miffed at being barred from the Big Three conferences, declined.

"Most Disappointed."

American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery presented the President's invitation for the meeting to De Gaulle six days before Mr. Roosevelt's arrival in the Algerian city.

"In his message," the announcement said, "the President told the general he hoped very much to meet him in continental France, but that time pressure made it impossible to get to Paris much as he would like to do so.

"He again expressed warm thanks for the invitation the government of France extended him when he was in Quebec attending the last conference there.

"As dispatched from Yalta, the President's invitation concluded with an expression of real hope that the alternative proposal for a meeting in Algiers would be satisfactory to the French leader.

Whereabouts Not Disclosed.

"The President was most disappointed when advised that official business did not permit the general to come to Algiers."

No dates were given in the official summary for security reasons. Reporters were asked not to speculate on the President's whereabouts or when he may arrive home. The summary, however, indicated the

PRESIDENT HOST TO THREE KINGS ON U. S. WARSHIP

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 [Special].—How President Roosevelt entertained the rulers of Egypt, Ethiopia, and Saudi Arabia in Egypt while returning from the recent Big Three conference in Yalta, Crimea, was told today in a White House statement. Here is the story:

"On his previous visit . . . the President went to see King Farouk [of Egypt], who was in a hospital recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. This time, however, his majesty was the President's first caller. He was received aboard a United States man-of-war at anchor in Great Bitter lake, thru which the Suez canal passes. The President was on deck to greet the king when he arrived shortly before noon. As soon as the formalities of the meeting were over, the two were deep in earnest discussion of many questions affecting American-Egyptian relationships. These continued thru luncheon. Guests included United States Minister S. Pinkney Tuck; Hassanein Pasha, chamberlain of the royal household; Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff; Mrs. John Boettiger, the President's daughter, and Harry Hopkins, special assistant to the President.

Selassie Received.

"Haile Selassie I., emperor of Ethiopia, and the members of his staff were received later in the afternoon. He was accompanied by United States Minister J. K. Caldwell; Ras Kassa, president of the crown council; Ato Aklilou Habte Wold, vice minister of foreign affairs; Ato Yilma Deressa, vice minister of finance, together with other advisers. The President conversed in French.

"In talking with the emperor, the President stressed communications between the United States and Ethiopia and said he hoped, with improvements of communications, particularly by air, the two countries would come to know each other better. The emperor told the President of the many improvements recently made in Abyssinia and enthusiastically indorsed the President's hope for closer relations.

Thanks Emperor.

"The President took advantage of the opportunity to thank the emperor in person for the site and building he and the empress gave the United States to use as a legation in Addis Ababa.

"In his conversations earlier in the day with King Farouk, the President referred to the purchase by the United States of large quantities of long-staple Egyptian cotton during the war and stressed the hope that greatly increased exchange of other commodities would be developed in the future. The importance

Poles at Front Protest Big 3 Ukase

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The Big Three decision on Poland at Yalta has had serious repercussions among the thousands of Poles fighting in the army, navy, and air force with the allies.

Since the decision has become known among these Poles, Polish circles in London have received hundreds of letters protesting against the proposed handling of the Polish question.

If reports reaching this country from Italy are to be believed, then Poles fighting under Gen. Anders there have taken the decision so badly that at least 30 soldiers have committed suicide in front of their units as a protest.

Inquiries in London show that many of these soldiers come from that part of Poland which will be taken over by Russia. Their suicide, it was said today, was understandable, for after being taken to Russia from Poland and subsequently freed to fight for a free and independent Poland, they now feel that they have no country to go back to when the war is over.

One Polish naval officer in a letter of protest ends with a play on those words spoken by Prime Minister Churchill after the battle of Britain. He says, "Never in the history of human conflict was the fate of so many decided so bluntly and by so few."

3d Army Wins Ten Towns in Moselle Drive

PARIS, Feb. 20 (AP).—The American 3d army, slashing into or beyond the Siegfried line on a 50 mile front, surged forward 2½ miles in rain and mud today and captured 10 towns and entered five others in a surprise new attack across the Moselle river.

Lt. Gen. Patton's doughboys stepped up the pressure along the major portion of the 3d army front, where four divisions ran their three day bag of prisoners to 4,500.

The Americans registered their best gains in the triangle formed by the Moselle and Saar rivers, smashing within four miles of Saarburg from two directions.

Armor Crosses River.

The 94th division captured Welten and pushed into Orscholz and Freudenburg to get within four miles of Saarburg on the south. This division had taken 210 prisoners by 4:30 p. m. today to bring its two day total to 1,036.

The armored units that crossed the Moselle early in the day deepened their bridgehead to nearly three miles, capturing Palzen and pushing within four miles of Saarburg in the vicinity of Rommelfangen. The town of Kirf, on high ground four miles southwest of Saarburg, also was captured.

Patton's forces fighting in the Echternach area to the north expanded their hold on Nazi soil to 12 miles wide and six miles deep.

5th Division Clears Town.

The 5th division cleared Hälsdorf on the Enz river, five miles north of Bollendorf, and bagged 215 prisoners to bring its three day total to 1,265.

The 80th division cleared Enzen, Seimerich, Korperich, and Obersgen and raised its three day prisoners total to 2,000.

The town of Bivels, two miles northwest of Vianden, was entered by mechanized cavalry units. Other troops of the 80th's left won a two mile stretch of the Dahen-Dasburg highway, cleaning out 34 Siegfried line pillboxes.

Still farther north, Sengerich and Binscheid, two towns about 10 miles southwest of Pruem, were entered by the 90th infantry.

7th Fights in Saar.

Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army, now fighting on the Saar front, captured Etzling, three and a half miles south of Saarbruecken and in clear view of the battered Saarland capital. High ground overlooking near-by Forbach also was seized.

At the northern end of the front Scottish forces of Gen. Crerar's Canadian 1st army cleared all of the Siegfried stronghold of Goch except a few isolated pockets, but this offensive appeared generally stalled in its 13th day by vicious enemy resistance.

Canadian troops fell back slightly in the flaming arc before Calcar, seven miles northeast of Goch, as the Germans hurled in one counter-attack after another to dent allied lines for the first time since the drive down the Maas-Rhine corridor began.

A front dispatch said fierce Nazi counter-attacks in the Moyland area just northwest of Calcar and along the Calcar-Goch highway had penetrated British and Canadian positions and had cut the highway.

DOG ROAMS 6,000 MI.; FINALLY LOCATES HIS OWNER IN SO. PACIFIC

Pittsburg, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—Joker, a black cocker spaniel, was desolate when his master, Capt. Stanley C. Raye, went off to war.

For 13 days he wandered restlessly around home, then disappeared.

But Joker knew where he was going—and got there.

Mrs. Raye this week received a letter from her husband—6,000 miles away on a South Pacific island. Joker is with him and as excited as the captain at the reunion.

The captain wrote that he was sitting in his tent on the island three months later when an officer came down the road leading a black cocker on a leash.

Raye shouted one word: "Joker!" It was enough. The little dog's frenzy of joy persuaded the foster owner to surrender title on the spot.

Capt. Raye said the officer told him he had found the dog trotting thru an army camp, hurriedly sniffing this way and that "as tho he were looking for some one." The officer adopted Joker and took him along with him to the Pacific.

A Sanity Case: Poet Jo-Jo vs. Poet M'Leish

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 [Special].—The verses of Archibald McLeish will have their day in court here tomorrow—at a sanity trial.

The sanity in question is that of Joseph [Jo-jo] Stinson, 60, a former state department attorney, who also writes poetry.

The entire poetic output of McLeish, the former librarian of congress who is now an assistant secretary of state, has been subpenaed by the defense, it was learned, at ammunition to offset the effect of Stinson's poesy on the jury.

A Poetry Guessing Game.

For every Stinson sonnet that the government reads on the theory that no sane man could have written it, James J. Laughlin, counsel for Stinson, will counter with an equal amount of McLeish verse, he said today.

For instance, said Laughlin, the jury may hear the following:

"Bathed in roseate hues—blush of dawn,
Glittering ice, and perpetual snows—
Mortmain of prehistoric, glacial age;
Resting on grey mountains from earth's first morn
An thousand feet in depth, crevasses below."

Or this:

"The gears turn: twitter: are Still now. The sound dies.
From the east with sun's rising
Daily are fewer whistles;
Many mornings listening
One less or two."

"My client wrote one of these selections and McLeish wrote the other," said Laughlin. "Which one of these would be most apt to convince a jury that the writer was loony?"

[Editor's note: Opus I., the pastoral item, by Jo-jo Stinson; Opus II., the twittering gears, by Archibald McLeish.]

Mrs. Roosevelt Was Traveling.

Stinson is to be tried as a result of his arrest recently at the home of Chief Justice Stone with what police said was a threatening letter but what Laughlin asserts was probably only a sheaf of poems. He is also said to have visited the White House with a letter.

"Why shouldn't he go to those places?" Laughlin asked. "He is an old friend of both the chief justice and Mrs. Roosevelt."

Laughlin said he had issued a subpena for Mrs. Roosevelt, but that the United States marshal who took it to 1600 Pennsylvania av. was told she was traveling.

THIRD OF TINY ISLAND WON DESPITE FIERCE RESISTANCE BY JAP FORCES

Luzon Casualties: 92,000 Japanese; 12,929 Yanks.

MANILA, Feb. 21 [Wednesday] (AP).—Japanese casualties of more than 92,000 in the six weeks of the Luzon campaign were reported today by Gen. MacArthur.

He listed American casualties for the six weeks at 12,929—2,676 killed, 245 missing, and 10,008 wounded.

These figures underscored the severity of the Manila fighting, which MacArthur said was still bitter. They showed an increase of 24,000 Japanese casualties and 3,246 American casualties in the last week alone.

Japanese cornered in the Intramuros area and its environs are being compressed into an area measuring 1,200 yards by 800.

The enemy, MacArthur declared, "is acting with the greatest savagery in his treatment of noncombatants and private property."

The general said a survey showed that practically all private possessions of any value were thoroly looted during enemy occupation of Manila and were apparently shipped to Japan.

Mopping Up Corregidor.

The Japanese commander in the Intramuros has not replied to an American offer to liberate the estimated 7,000 civilians inside in exchange for an honorable surrender.

Heavy howitzers, consequently, were wheeled across pontoon bridges spanning the Pasig river and began shelling the thick outer wall from as close as 500 yards range to make way for tanks and infantry men. Cutting an entrance way thru the medieval wall was a big job, however. The walls measure 40 feet thick at the base.

Yank artillery was firing into the Intramuros wall at a steady rate of a round per minute. The Americans have on call more than enough air power to pulverize everything and everybody inside, but are trying to save the civilians.

South of the Intramuros the Americans yesterday cleared enemy pockets on the university of the Philippines' campus in close quarter fighting and drove thru to the wrecked high commissioner's former residence on the bay front.

On Corregidor the Japanese, using deep tunnels and intercommunicating defenses, were making the mopping up job as dirty and fierce as any Yanks have been forced to undertake on Luzon.

Block Tunnel Entrances.

Medieval siege tactics with modern equipment were being employed on Corregidor as at the Intramuros. Both entrances to Corregidor's main tunnel have been blocked by explosives.

The Americans on the fortress were looking amid the rubble for the ventilation vent. When this is found the remaining Japanese troops will be completely sealed in and possibly remain buried within the caverns from which MacArthur and Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright directed the last tragic battles of the enemy invasion in 1942.

Chicagoan Escapes Mine Blast.

This is a small battlefield, but it is very real to the boys whose job is to clear up Corregidor.

Pvt. Sam Pernal, 4416 Whipple st., Chicago, was driving a duck [amphibious vehicle] which hit a mine, but none aboard it was injured.

Lt. George Durick, 3118 W. 38th st., Chicago, directs engineers uncovering the mines. He has 60 mines lined up in rows—dug from one small sector of the beach.

Pvt. Donald Messersmith, Princeville, Ill., spent 40 hours behind a rock only a little larger than his head. He was caught in the crossfire from two by-passed pillboxes.

Southeast of Manila, on Laguna de Bay, 11th air borne troops fighting in coöperation with guerrillas surrounded an enemy force at Mabato point, MacArthur reported.

He said "our patrols are probing to the east on the Marikina river line." This is northeast of Manila in a sector where the Japanese are reported gathering strength.

VEYSEY HAILS M'ARTHUR FOR WAR TRIUMPHS

An eyewitness report of the battle action he has covered in the Southwest Pacific and the Philippines will be given by Arthur Veysey, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, in an interview over W-G-N at 9:15 o'clock tonight.

A counter-blast against "sniping, petty minded, jealous gossips," who have sought to impair Gen. MacArthur's reputation and to draw attention away from the brilliance of his campaigns and their relatively small cost in American lives, was delivered in the Union League club yesterday by Arthur Veysey, Tribune war correspondent just returned from Manila.

"I suppose you may have heard the general referred to as Dugout Doug or Backtrack Mac," Veysey said in his talk. "You might as well call Mrs. Roosevelt a stay at home wall flower."

Egoism Charge Disproved.

The belief fostered by MacArthur's enemies that he is an egoist incapable of coöperation with others Veysey disposed of by pointing to the triumph of coördination that the successful campaigns in the Southwest Pacific represented.

Asserting that, if MacArthur is now sidetracked, "it will be one of the major tragedies of American history," Veysey gave example after example of the type of MacArthur strategy that has combined maximum military gains with minimum personnel losses.

Calls MacArthur THE General.

"When you think that in a little over a year MacArthur licked more than 200,000 Japs to reach the Philippines, and lost fewer than 5,000 men, maybe you can see why I'm a MacArthur fan," he said. "I think he is the general of the war."

Veysey covered 13 amphibious operations in the Pacific. He went to New Guinea immediately after his arrival in Australia in December, 1943, and followed the campaign northward till it culminated in the Philippines operation that began last fall.

Describes Manila Battle.

On Leyte, using captured Japanese paper and a crude hand press, he printed and distributed to the soldiers the first Philippines edition of THE OVERSEAS TRIBUNE.

Veysey's talk, which included not only the MacArthur material, but also vivid eyewitness descriptions of the burning of Manila and the arrival in American lines of the first American prisoners liberated in the Philippines, had been arranged by the Union League club's special events committee.

Planes, Warships Pound Foe Holed Up on Volcano.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Feb. 21 [Wednesday] — (AP). — The three day old invasion of Iwo is ahead of schedule despite the unprecedented ferocity of Japanese resistance, it was learned today.

The United States 5th marine corps achieved one of the invasion's main objectives by noon Tuesday, a little over 24 hours since the marines landed on the southeast coast, when they captured the three runway Motoyama bomber field No. 1, within fighter plane range of Tokyo, 750 miles to the north.

Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent, confirmed that the invasion plan called for seizure of the air field by tonight.

Tear Into Hill Positions.

Today the marines, still backed by one of the most concentrated ship bombardments in history, which in six days has pitched more than 8,000 tons of steel at the Nipponese, tore into enemy hill positions on the flanks after sealing off the south third of the island's eight square miles.

There is a terrific fight ahead against Japanese on the north end of the island, on a plateau overlooking the beachhead. The bulk of the Nipponese garrison is there.

As the marines consolidated their flanks yesterday, Dopking said they encountered "probably the stiffest enemy fire yet faced in the Pacific war."

Advance 200 Yards.

Controling the south end of the island, the rain drenched leathernecks advanced 200 yards beyond the air field on the north flank against Nipponese rocket, mortar, and artillery fire.

On the south flank, they attacked formidable enemy positions offering stiff opposition from the slopes of volcanic Mount Suribachi.

Viewing the action from a warship just off the American beachhead, Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of Pacific marines, said "the fight is the toughest we've run across in 168 years."

One war correspondent flying over Iwo described it as "eight square miles of unadulterated hell."

Planes Hit Japs.

Carrier aircraft continued their intensive attack on the island thruout yesterday afternoon, altho their operations were handicapped by rain, low clouds and poor visibility, Adm. Nimitz reported, and American warships for the sixth straight day supported the invasion.

Up to early today, no enemy plane has been able to penetrate the American combat patrol thrown around the island and the invasion armada.

The warships were concentrating "close-in" fire on caves and other underground strong points from which the Japanese were straffing the northern end of the American beachhead.

Supplies were pouring ashore "satisfactorily," Nimitz said. No estimate of casualties was available, he added.

Much Artillery Ashore.

Perhaps hinting that more satisfactory progress could be expected, Nimitz said:

"A large portion of our artillery now is ashore and in position to support both flanks of the beachhead."

The report that "slight gains" had been made north of the Motoyama bomber air field, substantiated earlier statements that the conquest of Iwo would be tougher than the invasion of Tarawa in the Gilbert Islands at the start of the central Pacific campaign in November, 1943.

Two days of hard fighting had given the marines a strong beachhead and the important bomber air field. They had cut off the Nipponese in strong positions on Suribachi and thrown back a ferocious counter-attack by 900 Japs before dawn Tuesday in which the enemy attempted to take back a portion of the air field.

Extremely tough going was being experienced on the right flank of the American line, curving northward from the northern slope of formidable Suribachi. This line traverses the northern end of the captured air field and then dips down to the upper or northern end of the beachhead.

The marines had cut a curving line across the south end of the island, giving them control of one-third of Iwo's eight square miles.

On the southeast coast, this wedge is more than two miles wide along the coast. A late report stated it has been extended for 2,000 yards along the southwest coast.

A dispatch from Morrie Landsberg, Associated Press war correspondent aboard the expeditionary flagship of Vice Adm. Richmond K. Turner, said the marines had obtained a strong toehold on the island. It was expected, he said, that the finale of the campaign would be in the rocky northern portion of the island.

After a flight over the battle scene, Arthur Primm, Mutual Broadcasting System war correspondent, said two enemy strongpoints on the flanks must be overcome to assure progress. One is Suribachi on the south. The other is a rock quarry on the north end of the east coast beachhead.

Primm saw enemy soldiers in action behind the marine advance forward positions, indicating a somewhat scrambled scene. However, some were enemy groups isolated at the south end when the leathernecks drove the wedge across the island shank from the east to the west shore.

Casualties "More Numerous."

Marine casualties in the south were light but on the open unprotected slopes east of the captured air field—just inland from the invasion beachhead—they were "more numerous."

The wording of one bulletin indicated clearly that "bloody" was no misnomer. Reports of intense mortar and artillery fire and small boats plying between the shore and the white hospital ships off the beachheads told a clear story.

The fact that "heavy" naval gunfire continued to batter the Japanese in their cave and tunnel positions emphasized the fierceness of the struggle for this important half way station between Saipan and Tokyo. Soon it will be a main station for the mounting American blows against the Japanese homeland.

JAPANESE REPORTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

United States task force 58 appeared Monday in the waters of the Bonin Islands, north of Iwo, Domei news agency reported, and "since the enemy is roaming waters which are only about 650 miles from the Japanese mainland there are indications he may approach our mainland and support another air raid with his carrier borne planes."

Domei claimed yesterday that the Americans lost three cruisers, three warcraft of undetermined category, two patrol boats and four transports in the operations against Iwo.

A new American landing somewhere along the northern shores of Iwo also was reported yesterday in a Tokyo broadcast. Tokyo said the landing was made Monday night north of the main American beachhead on the southeastern shores.

Land at High Cliffs.

Marines, the broadcast said, landed where the cliffs were from "10 to 15 meters high" [30 to 40 feet] and were "intercepted at the water's edge and furious fighting is at present in progress."

Earlier Japanese broadcasts warned "with the landing on Iwo the homeland has become a battleground."

The influential newspaper Mainichi was quoted as saying:

"We must now realize that it is not impossible for the enemy to attempt a landing on the homeland. . . . The battlefront has gradually narrowed down from the gigantic and elastic defense structure that was won at the outset of the war until now the homeland has indeed become a fighting front."

HELL AT NIGHT

BY JAMES S. LINDSLEY.

AMERICAN BEACHHEAD ON IWO, Volcano Islands, Feb. 20 (AP)—[Via navy radio].—I spent yesterday afternoon and last night amid a hell of mortar and shell fire on Iwo's beachhead with the 4th marine division's 23d regiment. It was all a ghastly mistake so far as I am concerned.

I was with Capt. John W. Thomason III., whose wife lives in Washington, D. C. We wanted to land on Yellow beach, one of the central portions of Iwo's east coast, and had heard conditions were fairly well stabilized there.

Aboard a landing craft bearing part of a new battalion we hit the shore with a bang—literally. We found a marine battalion dug in with mortar shells bursting around them. We dived into a near-by shell crater and quickly proceeded to make it bigger.

Pinned Down Four Hours.

"It doesn't look like its stabilized," Thomason commented calmly. There was nothing calm about my reply—"It looks unstabilized as hell, and what am I doing here?"

We were pinned down from 1:30 p. m. to about 5:30 p. m.

Mortar shells and 75s came down in hideous regularity from a ridge several hundred yards away.

I saw a landing craft hit directly and blown almost in two. The mate was standing two feet away from where the shell hit and dived, apparently unhurt, from the burning craft.

Many dug in marines were hit. Thomason rallied a group of corpsmen and personally aided in carrying several to cover amid fire.

We decided to risk going up the hill from the beach and digging in for the night. We did so with a nasty Jap sniper biting angrily at our heels en route.

Mortars Fire All Night.

I dug in with Thomason and Tech. Sgt. H. Nell Gillespie, marine combat photographer, of Greenville, S. C. We were soon joined by Staff Sgt. John T. McCampbell Jr., son of the managing editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Express.

Lee Weber of Seattle, Wash., combat photographer, also joined us.

Mortar fire continued sporadically all night. It was a peculiar as well as terrifying experience.

The night finally wore out. There were many marine casualties around us, but Providence was with us and none of us was hit. Early in the morning Thomason and I made a mad dash for the beach. I wanted to get to the ship to send this story. Thomason and the others are still out there and if guts help they'll get along all right.

THERE'S DEATH IN BURMA, TOO, AND VULTURES WAIT

Indians Battle on Long Road to Mandalay.

BY ALFRED WAGG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE INDIAN 19TH INFANTRY DIVISION, Burma, Feb. 20.—All night and early this morning Japanese artillery has turned the battle for Mandalay in this area into an active duel for control of roads approaching Burma's second city.

Backing up the Jap shelling along this 12 mile front, small parties of the enemy have been infiltrating into our lines, trying to break up convoys with harassing attacks. Wounded Indian troops were reported slaughtered by these enemy parties.

Japs Try to Grab Jeeps.

An American ambulance driver was the object of an unsuccessful Jap ambush. It is a favorite trick of the Japs to try to get close enough to one of our jeeps, jujitsu the driver and dash off with the vehicle. But so far our boys have been handier with their big jungle knives than the Japs with their jujitsu.

Troops in this sector have found life a little more enjoyable. For instance, there are large stores of peanuts which is a major vitamin ration given to Jap soldiers. British soldiers fish in the Irrawaddy river, or scrounge chickens and tomatoes from the local populace.

Enemy Sets Woods Afire.

Jap artillery and patrols have set nearby woods afire. There has not been a breeze for over 18 hours, and the powdery dust, which rises in clouds from the roads and countryside, makes visibility almost nil. The red glow from the forest fires piercing thru this dust haze casts an eerie atmosphere over the battlefield.

The task before this division is to clear the way from the north to Mandalay while other allied troops drive on the city from the south. The 19th division is now 36 miles from Mandalay on the main road after capturing the villages of Kanpha, Ywathitgale, and Sizion. The fighting has been severe, and vultures circle overhead, waiting for their chance to get at the bodies of the dead.

On the veranda of a house a dressing room was set up. Interrupted in his work, a doctor looked up and said: "They die here, too, you know."

500 JAPS KILLED IN FIGHTING FOR CHINA RAILWAY

CHUNGKING, Feb. 20 (AP).—More than 500 Japanese troops have been killed in fighting west of the Canton-Hankow railroad near the Hunan-Kwangtung border, the Chinese high command said tonight.

The announcement said Chinese forces attacked the Japanese 10 to 15 miles east of Ichang and about 105 miles south of Hengyang and that heavy fighting is continuing. A Japanese attack 12 miles northeast of Ichang was repulsed. Reinforcements have been thrown in by both sides in the battle east of the railroad town of Chenhsien, 80 miles south of Hengyang.

The Chinese made surprise attacks northeast of Pingkiang, 50 miles northeast of Changsha, the high command said, and they have cleared all the Japanese from the north bank of the Namlwi river in the Yunnan-Burma border area. Fighter planes of the Chinese-American wing of the 14th air force attacked Japanese rail lines, river communications and ammunition dumps in north China yesterday.

BRITISH, CHINESE GAIN ON 6 BURMA BATTLE FRONTS

CALCUTTA, Feb. 20 (AP).—On six major battlefields in Burma, British and Chinese troops moved forward today in the general direction of Mandalay, a key city in the Japanese defense system of Burma.

In northeast Burma Chinese troops battered their way to a position 32 miles from Lashio. The British 36th division on the Chinese right flank beat off an 18 hour counter-attack in which Japanese infantry charged with flame throwers. One Japanese battalion was wiped out and 350 Japanese were killed. Other British troops in the Singu bridgehead north of Mandalay ground out another few yards, advancing thru a network of Japanese pillboxes hidden in the jungle.

On the Irrawaddy bridgehead west of Mandalay British artillery ferried across a mile and a half wide river and joined infantry in defending an ever widening foothold 35 miles from Mandalay. Far to the southwest British and Indian troops in Arakan cleared the Kangaw sector of Japanese and joined forces of West Africans driving south from the Kaladan valley.

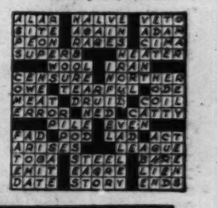
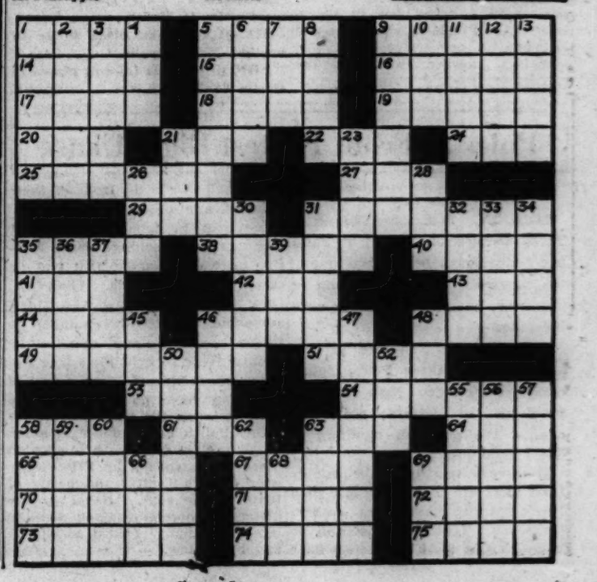
Puzzle of Tuesday, February 20, Solved





43 NEW PARKS PROPOSED IN 60 MILLION PLAN

No New Taxes Required, Dunham Says.

Plans for a 60 million dollar extension and improvement program which would enable the Chicago park dirtrict to serve every community in the city and which the park board asserts can be carried out without increasing taxes were announced yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, president, and the board of commissioners.

The program calls for 20 new parks eight acres in size, 20 new parks of 16 acres, three new parks of 23 acres, 18 new fieldhouses, and other improvements in existing parks. Extension of Lincoln park from Foster av. north to the city limits also is planned.

Propose Referendum Vote.

Dunham said the park district board, which now is retiring its funded debt at a rate in excess of 6 million dollars a year, proposed submitting a 60 million dollar bond issue to finance the program to a referendum election next June 5.

"The entire program is definitely tied up with slum clearance and the juvenile delinquency problem," Dunham said. The park board's plans are based on a survey by its recreation division. V. K. Brown, a veteran of 35 years with the old South Park board and the Chicago park district, heads this division.

Since the park district has retired 6 million or more in bonds bearing 4 per cent interest each year, it can, beginning in 1946, issue 6 million in bonds annually for 10 years at lower interest rates, it was explained. Thus the present debt can be retired without increasing the total debt. Over a period of 30 years the park district can pay off its present outstanding bonds and the proposed bond issue as well.

Interest Lowest in History.

This is possible, Dunham said, because the nation now has a controled money market and will continue to have such a market after the war if interest is to be paid on the national debt. As a result, he said, money now can be borrowed at the lowest interest rate in history.

Municipal bond experts, consulted by the park district board, have advised the board that it can expect to issue bonds for the first three years at 2 per cent, for the next three years at 2½ per cent, and for the last four years at 3 per cent, Dunham explained.

"If we had all the money now we wouldn't know what to do with it, because we can't get the work done for some time," Dunham said. "By issuing the bonds, we may be able to start construction work by 1947 if the war is in its final stage then."

Most post-war projects thruout the country anticipate aid from the federal government, but the park board proposes to finance its own plan and still be in a position to accept federal aid if it should be offered, Dunham said.

Optimistic on Bond Issue.

However, because congress has permitted a controled inflation it will have to maintain this condition after the war to keep the employment level up and keep all employable persons at work without government sponsored work projects, Dunham asserted. He does not expect congress to be in any mood for gigantic make-work schemes.

"Why, congress reduced the President's request for 78 million dollars for municipalities to plan post-war projects to five millions, and that was to be loaned to the cities, not given to them," Dunham said.

The park board believes the bond issue will be accepted at the referendum election because of the trend in other large cities which have submitted bond issues to the voters in recent months. For years any bond issue virtually was assured of defeat, but now the trend has changed, the park board believes.

Each new park planned by the board would contain a fieldhouse with a gymnasium, assembly hall and meeting rooms, an athletic field, children's playgrounds and equipment, swimming and wading pools; tennis, handball, and horseshoe courts, and a picnic area.

Other Plan Details.

The eight acre parks would cost an average of $834,500 each; the 16 acre parks would cost $1,193,800 each, and the 23 acre parks would cost $883,000 each. The low cost of the larger parks is because they will be in outlying areas where the land is cheaper. Cost of the extension of Lincoln park from Foster av. to the city limits, exclusive of an outer drive extension, is estimated at $8,467,500.

Improvements in existing parks call for, besides the 18 new fieldhouses, remodeling of 30 buildings, added outdoor play facilities in 39 parks, 18 new swimming pools, remodeling of 17 swimming pools, and 17 new wading pools. All improvements would cost a total of $8,307,000.

The board has not yet decided how many parks will be placed in any given area to serve communities that previously lacked such facilities, Dunham said. The parks will be located where the need is greatest and the most people will be benefitted, he said.

Will Aid Blight Areas.

Ralph H. Burke, the park district chief engineer, said a park would not be located in a blighted area merely to provide a start on slum clearance or in the hope that such action would follow construction of the park. Plans for the park locations will be integrated, however, with any government program or private projects to provide relief in the blighted areas.

The board's outstanding bonds now amount to $66,114,000, and of this 9 millions is on hand in sinking funds, Dunham said.

POSTPONE WORK ON SUSPENSION OF LOCAL OPTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20. — The house elections committee today postponed for a week consideration of the emergency bill to declare a war time moratorium on local option elections. Sponsors said the delay would not prevent it from becoming effective in time to stop wet and dry referenda planned for April in 130 Illinois communities.

"This is not a question of whether we are wet or dry, but whether we will wait until several hundred thousand service men come home and have a voice in deciding what kind of a state they want to live in," said Rep. L. C. Harris [D., Granite City], who sponsored the bill.

R. D. Dexheimer, superintendent of the Anti-saloon league of Illinois, served notice that he would have a big lobby on hand next week in an effort to slow up the bill.

ANNOUNCE $12,500 PRIZES FOR IDEAS ON FARM PRICES

Cash awards totaling $12,500 for suggestions on constructive post-war price policies for agriculture were announced yesterday by the American Farm Economic association. L. J. Norton of the University of Illinois, president of the association, said the suggestions may include any needed changes in the present parity price formula. There will be three major awards of $5,000, $2,500, and $1,250, and 15 prizes of $250 each. Information about entries, which must be in by July 15, may be obtained from Dr. Asher Hobson, secretary-treasurer of the association, at the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin at Madison.

U. S. CIGARETS PLENTIFUL IN ROME—AT $1.40

ROME, Feb. 20 (AP).—Despite somewhat more stringent controls imposed on the sources of supply lately, Rome's black market is well stocked with both American and British cigarets sent to Italy for the allied armies.

How these supplies reach the black market is now the subject of investigation, but so far responsibility has not been fixed publicly.

Black market prices for standard brand American cigarets run from 140 to 150 lire [$1.40 to $1.50] a pack. English brands usually are about $1.20.

'CON CON' HOPES DIMMED BY FEAR OF INCOME TAX

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—Legislative approval of a proposal to call a constitutional convention, regarded as almost certain until now, today was said to be extremely doubtful. One Republican leader admitted that defeat for "con con" is likely.

These views were reported to have been expressed at a conference in the governor's mansion which lasted into the early morning. News of the change in atmosphere heartened friends of the Illinois constitution of 1870 who maintain that the state has benefited tremendously from the stability of its basic law.

Fear State Income Tax.

Factors which have caused the "con con" movement to lose ground are fears of a state income tax and of senatorial reapportionment which might give Cook county control of the legislature. Should the latter event take place, it would be equivalent to handing control over to one man because the successful political party in Chicago is usually boss-controled, opponents of "con con" declared.

Also influencing the shift away from "con con" is the division in organized labor ranks on the subject. The CIO wants a revised constitution and has many schemes to be incorporated in any new draft, as disclosed by the communist newspaper, the Daily Worker.

But the Illinois State Federation of Labor has declared it would be dangerous to true American liberalism to write a new constitution until at least five years after the end of the war. The AFL affiliate is campaigning actively against "con-con," recalling the leading role it played in defeating the proposed constitution of 1922.

Two-Third Vote Required.

Altho two-thirds majorities in both house and senate are required for adoption of a resolution to place "con-con" on the 1946 general election ballot, it had been thought this hurdle could be cleared easily because of the Kelly-Green agreement on the subject.

As No. 1 leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties, Mayor Kelly of Chicago and Gov. Green have both indorsed "con-con." However, in making public their cooperation in several fields, both leaders emphasized they would not wield the whip of patronage on legislators to get their measures thru.

It is said that Gov. Green at last night's late conference made his position clear on this point to spokesmen for the Republican majorities in house and senate. This was considered the clinching reason why "con con" faces defeat in the house.

Discount Hue and Cry.

The hue and cry for "con con" has been discounted by astute legislators, who recognized that sources were vocal far beyond the proportion of the population they represent. The Illinois League of Women Voters, City Club of Chicago, and Chicago Bar association are supporting "con con."

"You couldn't find 10 votes in a barrel of that noise," one Democratic house member said. "But they're telling me to vote myself out of a job."

Rep. Mioduski [D., Chicago] today introduced the first house measure for senatorial [executive] reapportionment. It would give Cook county 25 of the 51 legislative districts. [It now has 19.] Under changes of the district lines, Mioduski would no longer have to run in the same district with Rep. Ryan, Democrat.

By a vote of 44 to 0, the senate adopted a resolution calling for appointment of a senate-house committee to investigate the state's needs for its own office building in Chicago. Majority Leader Laughlin [R., Freeport] said the state's rental expenditures are great.

"A Chicago statehouse," would result in economic and public convenience, he said.

Newsprint of Rome Dailies Cut Down by One-Third

ROME, Feb. 20 (AP).—Because of paper shortage, the Italian press commission today reduced the newsprint allotment of all Rome dailies by 33 per cent, and revoked the permits of six of seven newspapers which began publication this year. The exception was made for Lavoro, organ of the Italian federation of labor.

Police Magnets

Director Charles M. Wilson of police crime detection laboratory demonstrates lifting power of new electro-magnet.

Smaller electro-magnet for use in sewers. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

A new type magnet that will lift nearly 175 pounds and will be used to recover revolvers and other weapons from the river or lake has been developed by Charles M. Wilson, director of the Chicago police crime detection laboratory.

Principal element in the device is an alloy compounded of aluminum, nickel, and cobalt, and known as alnico. It lends itself ideally to magnetization, and once charged, retains its magnetic power for six months or so, after which it can be remagnitized. With the aid of the Jensen Radio Manufacturing company, Wilson has made one magnet 28 inches long, 5 inches wide, and 4 inches thick, and another one 10 inches long.

The larger one has lifted a 90 pound electric saw, with motor and stand. It can lift nearly twice that weight, Wilson said, and will easily pick up revolvers, rifles, shotguns, or knives from a river bed. The larger magnet weighs only 35 pounds, and can be lowered by line from a rowboat. Heretofore, the police have had to use cumbersome electro-magnets which have a lift of only 40 pounds. The new ones were suggested by Chief John Prendergast of the uniformed police.

LLOYD GEORGE, 82, REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

CRICCIETH, Carnarvon, Wales, Feb. 20 (AP).—David Lloyd George, 82, former British prime minister and spark plug of the empire's fight in the last war, was reported critically ill tonight at his home near here.

A bulletin from his physicians said the white haired Liberal was suffering from "increasing physical weakness" which was causing anxiety among his family and friends. A later bulletin, however, said the patient was "more comfortable."

A week ago Lloyd George was reported suffering from a mild attack of influenza, but he was understood then to be getting along nicely. Today's bulletin made no reference to any specific ailment, but it was noted that one of the attending physicians, Dr. S. W. Patterson, is a heart specialist.

BILL TO CREATE CANAL HIGHWAY BOARD IS PASSED

BY ROBERT HOWARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—Creation of a special Illinois and Michigan canal commission, the first step toward construction of a modern super-highway across Chicago's southwest side, was given final approval by the legislature today.

Rep. J. Ward Smith [R., Ottawa], expected to be chairman of the commission, said he hoped for early hearings in Chicago and in downstate cities to determine what steps the state government should take to retain control of the abandoned waterway and to make it a great asset of the state.

Gov. Green is expected to sign the bill and appoint the commissioners —five members of each house and a group of administrative officials.

Agree on Amendment.

The bill passed the house on a 128 to 11 roll call, and then got unanimous senate concurrence in a house amendment. It was sponsored in the senate by Sen. Daley [D., Chicago], minority leader.

Rep. Smith told the house the canal route eventually can be utilized as a 96 mile expressway thru Lockport, Joliet, Morris, Marseilles, Ottawa, Utica, and La Salle, to Peru. The proposed super-highway would make the state parks in La Salle county more accessible to motorists. It would take Chicagoans half way to Peoria and the Rock Island-Moline area.

Construction of a super-highway from Ashland av., where the canal terminates in the Chicago river's south branch, to Summit or beyond, is to be the first step.

Green Calls for Survey.

Gov. Green has asked state highway engineers to make a survey and the project has been indorsed by Mayor Kelly and civic leaders. Connected with the loop district, the canal super-highway would permit faster access to Chicago's municipal airport.

Financing of the super-highway thru collection of tolls, to be supplemented by state or federal appropriations, has been recommended by a report to the special toll road commission.

Smith said the other governmental agencies have urged that the legislature decide the future status of the old Illinois and Michigan canal, which, built with federal grants starting in 1822, helped Chicago become the nation's transportation center and fell into disuse upon completion of the paralleling Illinois deep waterway.

Canal Called Eyesore.

Smith described the present condition of the canal—mosquito pools, collapsing banks, and overflowed farm land. He recounted how the state constitution prohibits the appropriation of public funds for canal maintenance. He told of the necessity of getting congress to cede the state full title to the 90 foot reserve strips along the 60 foot canal bed. He said that parkway, recreation, and conservation possibilities in some areas might supplement highway plans.

Chicago Marine Is Killed in North Carolina Crash

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 20 (AP).—An officer and an enlisted marine were killed in a crash of a navy plane three miles south of Pollocksville, N. C., yesterday, 5th naval headquarters announced today. One of those killed was Corp. Aldo Gasparucci, son of Pasqualena Gasparucci, 3306 N. Kilbourn av., Chicago.

FREEDOM OF PRESS RESOLUTION FILED IN ILLINOIS SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—A resolution asking the Illinois legislature to memorialize congress to try to spread a measure of freedom of the press among the allied nations was introduced in the senate today by Sen. Schwartz [D., Chicago]. It was referred to the executive committee by Lt. Gov. Cross and probably will be taken up next week.

"The United States is expected to participate extensively and intensively in world affairs," the resolution states. "For a democracy to so function in world affairs, it is essential that its people be accurately and fully informed as to what is going on in the world. This information can only be obtained by the news services when they have freedom to gather and transmit news from all of the countries of the world.

"Announcements from the meetings of the representatives of the United States, Great Britain, and Russia failed to mention a provision which would guarantee this freedom to gather and transmit news. Therefore be it resolved: . . . That we memorialize congress to take appropriate action to secure in the peace treaty a provision assuring freedom to gather and transmit news in the territories of nations subscribing to the pact."

SECRET ARMY AGENTS TESTIFY IN LOOTING CASE

PARIS, Feb. 20 (AP).—Maj. Walter H. Marlin, former commander of the 716th United States army railway operating battalion, who is charged with neglect of duty, heard army undercover agents testify today that looting and black market operations were so widespread in his outfit that the men themselves called it "the million-dollar battalion." One agent testified he saw poker games among men of the battalion in which as much as 100,000 francs [$2,000] was on the table.

More than 100 enlisted men and two officers who were under Marlin's command when military police raided the battalion in November have since been sentenced to terms ranging from three to 50 years.

Several enlisted men testified today that loot from army trains was sold openly in the street in front of the barracks. Other enlisted men testified they heard Martin tell battalion men to help themselves to rations off the train since "they won't issue us anything."

HEROIC ADVANCE THRU MINE FIELD PACES U. S. PUSH

Charge Across, Onward to Reach Hilltop.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 94TH DIVISION IN GERMANY, Feb. 20.—Men of the "Fighting 94th" today continued their advance which has not halted since it began yesterday with a predawn surprise attack along the entire divisional front.

Among the heroic highlights was the advance thru known mine fields, which cost them heavy casualties but resulted in the swift capture of a strategic ridge and then two towns.

The 94th is driving east and north in an area lying roughly east of Remich, Luxemburg, and across the Moselle river from that town. The Yanks are pushing thru countryside which the Germans have dedicated to war. Everywhere pointed concrete "dragon's teeth" stretch across the rolling fields side by side with deep zigzag anti-tank ditches, or huge concrete and steel bunkers. Some bunkers still apparently are undamaged. Others were blown into fantastic heaps of rubble by explosive charges of a thousand pounds of TNT — the minimum amount that will really wreck these Siegfried strong points.

Roads Churned Into Mud.

In a few places the roads were reasonably good, but in others they have been churned into mud. Dead horses and pigs lie here and there and a dead German soldier is sprawled beside the road, unheeded as tanks, guns, and trucks rumble by. White tapes line the roads as a warning against stepping into the peaceful looking fields, where death awaits in buried mines. The only symbol of quiet was a couple of plows standing in a furrow, but you had the feeling that their owner, like Cincinnatus, was summoned to the wars.

Ober Leuken, which was taken yesterday, was in ruins. At Munzingen, where a regimental command post was overrun, a number of prisoners were taken in the ruins. Faha, where 50 prisoners were taken at a cost of two American casualties, also was in ruins.

But when a German town is smashed it isn't sad like when a French or Belgian town is smashed. You have a sense of destiny being fulfilled, as tho German towns were built solely for the war to roll over like in a Hollywood set—at least in the countryside where even the turnip fields have managed to take on the appearance of miniature dragon's teeth.

Mines Cause Heaviest Loss.

In one town Col. Roy Hagerty of Angola, Ind., said: "Our casualties yesterday were almost entirely caused by mines."

While he was speaking an open truck drove up with perhaps a dozen American bodies piled in the back. When the truck moved they moved a little as tho trying not to be dead. Col. Hagerty asked the officer in charge whether all bodies had been picked up from the mine field. He was told all but one, a body surrounded by unexploded mines that would first have to be cleared. The truck moved away.

"There's the heart breaking part of war," the colonel said. He moved a few feet aside, whistling softly. There were tears in his eyes.

"And I'm supposed to be a hard boiled regular," said the colonel, whose high regard for his men is widely known in the division.

"Well," he went on, "the men were told where the minefield was, how to recognize it, and given TNT to throw and blow the mine up. But the field was so big they couldn't get them all. They had been ordered to reach the hilltop by daylight so they said, 'To hell with the mines,' and away they went. The best officer I ever had lost his foot there."

Engineers Clear Path.

Asked whether many medical aid men were hurt trying to get the wounded out, the colonel said at first some were lost and then the rescue work was halted until engineers were sent ahead of each litter squad to clear a path.

"Did you get the story about the officer who came in the night before the attack as a replacement and by last night was company commander?" Col. Hagerty asked. "His name is Lt. Johnson [2d Lt. Howard V. Johnson, Athens, Ill.]. During the attack he grabbed a submachine gun and charged three machine gun nests by himself. And it was his first time under fire!"

The colonel said the men who made yesterday's attack were still pushing and had just waded waist deep thru the river.

Nazis taken prisoner include engineers fighting as riflemen, some men who had just been released from hospitals, and many from widely varied units thrown into battle helter-skelter as indicated by the fact one group of 20 included men from seven units. Their morale is understandably low.

Among midwesterners seen today was Col. Earl C. Bergquist, divisional chief of staff.

R. A. F. HEAVIES BOMB DORTMUND; YANKS BLAST AT NUERNBERG

LONDON, Feb. 21 [Wednesday]—(AP).—British heavy bombers struck a heavy blow last night at Dortmund, important western front traffic center, while R. A. F. Mosquitos made two sharp attacks on Berlin, the air ministry announced today.

More than 1,200 planes took part in the overnight operations, which carried the mighty nonstop allied aerial offensive against Germany into its ninth day.

Nuernberg, center of the former Nazi party propaganda spectacles and one of Germany's most important rail junctions, yesterday shook under its heaviest daylight bombing of the war as 900 United States Fortresses dumped thousands of tons of explosives and incendiaries into clogged yards and repair shops.

This vital junction of main east-west and north-south rail lines in south-central Germany lies 100 miles north of Munich, about 150 miles behind the western front, and 225 miles from the eastern front. German ministries are reported to have moved there under the Red army's threat to Berlin.

Heavy bombers of the 15th air force operating from Italy returned to the Vienna area today, attacking the Lobau and Schwechat oil refineries southeast of Vienna.

PILLBOX TAKEN BY CHICAGOAN'S DARING SQUAD

WITH U. S. 90TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE, Feb. 20 (AP).—The captured German regimental commander called it a "simply ridiculous operation," but to the 90th division doughboys it was a slick job of pillbox busting.

Slipping thru the darkness past German outposts the Americans infiltrated a group of four pillboxes housing the enemy's regimental headquarters. They walked into three of them, roused 43 sleeping occupants, including the commander, and took them prisoner.

With the guidance of one of the captives, a squad led by Sgt. Daniel R. McCarthy, 4920 Montana st., Chicago, found a fourth pillbox and laid siege with grenades plunked into ventilators and bazooka bursts aimed at the door. Between explosions the Americans heard a German officer inside telephoning for artillery. The call was answered by a concentration of shells which began bursting around the Americans. Two doughboys decided it would be better to be on the inside looking out, so they dashed into the pillbox thru a door blown open by a bazooka shot. Twenty startled Germans, thinking the pillbox was being stormed, surrendered and their officer called a halt to the barrage. The doughboys then spliced German lines into their own communications and reported the position captured. Meanwhile, two German linemen attempting to trace the break in the wires came up and were seized.

JOHN WARNER TALKS ABOUT BALDNESS

In a talk over the radio, John E. Warner, foremost scalp specialist, said: "Take care of your hair while you have it, for baldness is a permanent condition. Nearly every day I am asked to regrow hair for someone who has waited too long—and, of course, I have to tell such individuals that I can't help them. The man who is losing his hair can, in such cases as I accept, be reasonably sure of saving and improving his hair through progressive steps of medication and treatment."

Thousands of men and women have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private examination and consultation—and in every case honest advice is given as to whether or not treatment can be helpful.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There are separate departments for men and women.

FORRESTAL ASKS POWERFUL NAVY AFTER WAR ENDS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Post-war retention by the United States and its allies of fleets capable of controling the world's oceans was demanded today by Navy Secretary Forrestal in an annual report to the President.

"Such power is not inconsistent with plans for international collaboration," the report said.

The report said America's contribution to world peace must be threefold, as follows:

"Participation in a society of nations dedicated to a peaceful, just and decent ordering of world affairs.

Must Be "Willing to Fight."

"Willingness among our people to fight, if necessary, for a world order in which our way of life can endure.

"Retention of the weapons with which to fight if we must—because the means to conduct war must be in the hands of those who hate war."

"By the end of the 1944 fiscal year the United States navy was the largest in the world," Forrestal said. "Why, then, do we plan to build more ships in 1945, 1946, and 1947?

"Of course, we must forearm ourselves against heavier losses as we approach Japan, fighting not only her navy but also her air power. But there is another and more profitable reason for continuing naval construction.

"We must maintain and increase the tremendous margin which we now have, the margin which has enabled us to conduct almost simultaneous operations against the Japanese. The navy's operations in this war resemble the use of multiple teams in football—one team on the field, another on the sidelines, a new, fresh, ready one to go in and exploit weaknesses that become apparent."

"Peak" Production Described.

Reviewing naval production accomplishments, the secretary said by June, 1944, production for the navy "had reached a peak which probably need not be exceeded. In some fields, peaks were established which will not be equaled during the remainder of the war."

The secretary said personnel problems, other than training, will demand an increasing share of attention."

Among these he listed the rotation of personnel so officers and men who have served overseas for long periods may be returned home on furlough and particular attention to offering the able reserve officers and enlisted men status, opportunity, and prestige in the permanent service.

CARE FOR YANKS IN AMPUTATIONS CALLED 'FINEST'

'Only Best' Wooden Legs Are Used.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20. — Amputation surgery and care now given service men is "unmatched in medical history," an army physician has informed Rep. Kilburn [R., N. Y.].

The statement was contained in a letter to the congressman by Capt. M. M. Kissane of Lawson general hospital, Atlanta, Ga. Kilburn said the letter, which he inserted in today's Congressional Record, was in reply to "published and unfounded criticism of the army's treatment of amputation cases."

Asserting every effort is made to supply the soldier amputee "the finest artificial limb possible," Kissane described it as "custom built from beginning to end."

Careful Fitting Provided.

"When completed," he wrote, "the fitting of the limb is carefully supervised by a surgeon in cooperation with the limb maker and each patient is urged to call to our attention any defect or any other fact about the limb which he does not like. We then make every effort to completely satisfy the patient.

"He is given a prolonged and carefully supervised course of instruction in the use of the new limb, and only upon completion of such a course of instruction is he granted a furlough—where we urge him to give [the limb] every known test and hardship so that any defect will become evident.

Results Checked.

"Then, upon his return, the limb is checked for any sign of wear or breakage. He then has another complete examination with particular emphasis placed on the condition of his stump, the fit of his leg [or arm], and the ability of the patient to use the limb."

Kissane said that only when the surgeon, the limb makers, the instructors in physiotherapy, and the patient himself "are completely satisfied with the results," is the patient ready for discharge.

The physician said that altho he hears regularly "from many of the boys we have cared for," he has yet to receive "even a hint of a complaint" concerning their new limbs.

Nova Scotia Miners Vote to Go on Strike April 1

GLACE BAY, N. S., Feb. 20 (AP).—Miners of district 26 of the United Mine Workers of America today voted in favor of striking April 1 to enforce wage demands rejected by the national war labor board. With all returns in except those from Minto, N. B., which will not be available until tomorrow, the miners voted 5,838 in favor of the strike and 1,843 against.

U. S. PRISONERS IN REICH HERDED SOUTH IN COLD

New York, Feb. 20 [Special].—American prisoners of war in Germany, most of whom were kept in the Danzig area, are being marched deeper into the Reich thru temperatures of 30 degrees below zero without proper clothing, Richard F. Allen, vice chairman of the American National Red Cross in charge of insular and foreign operations, reported today.

"Those of you who have some one in the German prison camps must be ready for bad news," Allen declared. "I am sorry to tell you that with the structure of Germany breaking up, there is real cause for concern for our prisoners of war."

The Red Cross official, who recently returned from a tour of the organization's facilities in Europe and the Pacific, spoke at a luncheon in Brooklyn marking the 40th anniversary of the founding of the Brooklyn Red Cross chapter.

"The further Germany breaks down, the worse our service to prisoners of war is bound to become," Allen explained. "They are being marched 12½ miles a day, as provided in the Geneva convention. But they have not been provided with the proper clothing for that much marching in weather of 30 degrees below zero."

He said the American prisoners presumably were being moved toward southern Germany.

MILITARY SUPPLIES SPEEDED BY TRUCK LINE FROM ANTWERP

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Feb. 20. —Approximately 100,000 tons of war supplies and equipment have been moved from Antwerp to forward depots during the first two months of operation of the new "ABC victory route"—a truck express highway comparable to the famous Red Ball express, it was revealed today.

The movement of truck convoys in December and January was said to be the most hazardous in ABC operations. Despite strafing from enemy planes and intermittent flying bomb attacks and ice and snow-bound roads, which created a constant danger of accidents, the convoys maintained an uninterrupted stream of supplies to the front.

The German offensive in December caused a reduction in ABC activities but operations were resumed full speed by the 16 truck companies as soon as forward depots were open for shipments.

9,050 Believed Lost in Sinking of Nazi Liner

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 20 (AP).—The Svenska Dagbladet, quoting information from Gdynia, said today that only 950 passengers of at least 10,000 packed on the 25,000 ton German liner Wilhelm Gustloff had been rescued when the ship was torpedoed two hours after leaving Gdynia. A Finnish radio broadcast Sunday said the liner was sunk while evacuating refugees and sailors from Danzig, a few miles below Gdynia.

LOOT OF BURGLARS TOTALS $799.

ARGENTINA TO BILL NAZIS FOR SUNKEN SHIPS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Feb. 20 (AP).—The government announced today that Germany would be required to pay for the loss of two torpedoed Argentine ships and their cargoes and for damage to another. The government also said Germany must indemnify Argentina for the cost of interning the crew of the pocket battleship Graf Spee which the Germans sunk off Montevideo in 1941 after it was put out of action by the British fleet.

[A Reuters dispatch said the government has frozen all German funds in Argentina.]

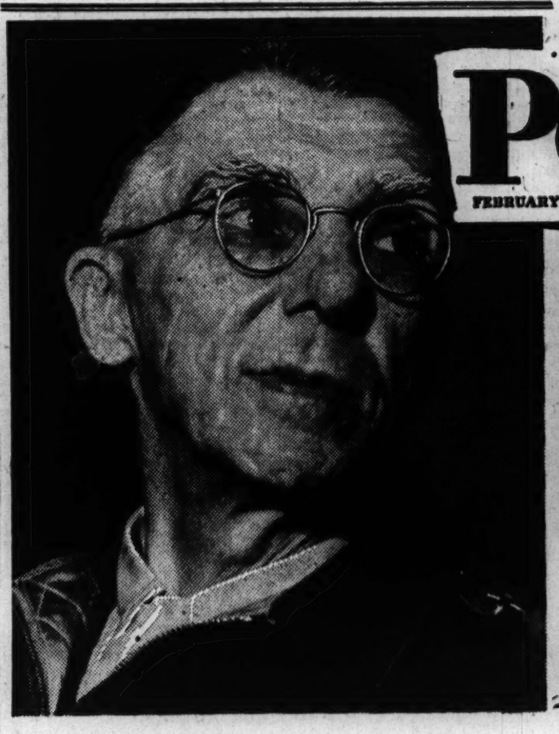
FEBRUARY 24, 1945 10¢



THE GENERAL: "An intense worker, quick-minded, he had a disconcerting way of coming directly to the point, without diplomatic windups."

THE POST REVEALS
THE FACTS BEHIND STILWELL'S RECALL!

MILLIONS know of the recall of four-star General Joseph W. Stilwell—but until now, the facts behind his return have remained obscure. They are given in this revealing article—exclusively in the Post.

To get these facts—a Post correspondent flew the hump of ballyhoo and censorship in China—spoke to American, Chinese and British officials—met with White House, State, War and Navy officials—and came back with an account that reveals the reasons for China's prolonged and determined weakness.

It is a record of the only front in the world where allied forces are not victorious—of defeats that may profoundly influence the length of the war against Japan.

It is the kind of reporting that millions have come to expect on the pages of the Post—a Post exclusive—not to be missed!

HOW MacARTHUR WON IN PACIFIC TOLD BY VEYSEY

Tribune Writer Relates Great Campaigns.

Following are excerpts from the talk delivered in the Union League club yesterday by Arthur Veysey, Tribune war correspondent who since December, 1943, has been covering Gen. MacArthur's campaigns in the Southwest Pacific and in the Philippines:

"I suppose you have heard lots of talk about Gen. MacArthur. I'd like to give you my opinions about MacArthur the man and MacArthur the general. First about MacArthur the man. And here I'd like to tell you a story. It's about MacArthur's mansion in Dutch New Guinea.

A Story About MacArthur.

"The story is this: When MacArthur decided to move his headquarters into Dutch New Guinea he ordered a house built for him and his family. He wanted it atop a 1,000 foot hill where there was a cool breeze to keep the mosquitoes away. So, according to the story, all the engineers were taken off the airstrips and the highways and the docks and the camps and put to work on the mansion. They built a two lane highway winding up the slopes to the top of the mountain. They built a mansion with 16 rooms and six tiled baths, all insulated and air conditioned.

"As a result of the mansion all the engineers and lots of other soldiers canceled their war bond deductions.

Story Widely Told.

"I like that story first because it is so widely known, I like it secondly because it concerns a subject everybody can understand—a mighty general saying to hell with everybody else as long as I get what I want. I like it, too, because it debunks a hero and there never was a newspaper man, or very few others, maybe, who do not like to debunk heroes. But I like it most of all because it is not true.

"May I repeat, it is not true. Not one word of it. Or maybe a few words are true, MacArthur did have a house, but it was a big shack with a wood floor, a tin roof and walls of screening. It was atop a hill, but so was the entire headquarters, the navy headquarters as well as lots of other installations. You didn't have to drive very long on the road to discover there was no concrete. The six tiled baths were really one old fashioned flush toilet. Sadly, it probably is true that many soldiers, once they heard the story, canceled their war bond deductions. That's what sniping, petty minded, jealous gossips can do for the war.

"I suppose you may have heard the general referred to as Dugout Doug or Backtrack Mac. You might as well call Mrs. Roosevelt a stay at home wallflower.

"How about MacArthur as a publicity hound? Listen. In all the time I was overseas he never once held a press conference. Every day on Luzon he was at one of the fronts, but never would he let a reporter accompany him. He was on every major invasion in his theater the last year and always he limited his press coverage to one man.

"MacArthur is an actor, many say. Read his utterances if you doubt it. Well, I doubt it. Some say nobody could speak or write naturally with the apparently studied rhetoric that MacArthur's statements show. Well, maybe nobody could, but MacArthur does.

Cites Coöperative Triumphs.

"Some say MacArthur is the supreme egoist, that he can't subordinate himself to others, that he can't coöperate. Yet look at how he coöperated with Australians, a difficult task. I'm sure Gen. Krueger, who as 6th army commander was directly in charge of all the Southwest Pacific invasions, would be the first to deny that MacArthur doesn't coöperate, that he won't take suggestions. Which takes us up to MacArthur the general.

"When I left for the Southwest Pacific in November a year ago, there were 200,000 well supplied Jap troops between MacArthur's men and the Philippines—in New Guinea, New Britain, and the Halmahera spice islands. Just before I arrived MacArthur staged an invasion. This mighty force consisted of 31 Higgins boats, two overgrown Higgins boats each of which could carry one jeep, and the navy covering force consisted of two PT boats. The troops were Australian. And that was almost two years after Pearl Harbor. Thirty-one Higgins boats and MacArthur were on the offensive.

"In late 1943 supplies began to arrive. On the day after Christmas the navy loaned MacArthur the 1st marine division and he put them on the first of his amphibious craft and took them to Gloucester.

Wins Without a Loss.

"Ah, he's striking toward Rabaul. Soon he will take it, the military analysts said. The Gloucester strike was aimed at Rabaul all right, but not in the way most people expected. Here MacArthur used for the first time his policy of hitting the Japs where they ain't. He landed at Gloucester without a shot being fired on the beach, got himself a 10 mile square beachhead, built an air strip, brought in PT boats.

"That was the beginning of the end for Rabaul. Now our ships could pass Gloucester without worrying about Jap planes from Rabaul. On the day after New Year's, the same amphibious craft took part of the 32d division into Saidor. Again not a shot was fired on the beach and soon MacArthur had another airfield and the planes from Wewak and Madang up the New Guinea coast were shut off. On the last day in February he shot part of the 1st cavalry up to the Admiralties and the Bismarck sea was ours.

"The Japs began to worry. Wewak and Madang were their main bases in New Guinea. They were big bases, with at least 60,000 Japs. They were so heavily loaded with guns and ammunition that the Japs there still fire at our planes as they fly past. The Japs wondered if maybe we would bypass them. MacArthur encouraged their worries. He helped them think he would land halfway between the two bases, at Hansa bay. He even sent in small patrols which scattered maps of invasion beaches on the shore where the Japs would be sure to find them.

Again Hardly a Shot.

"The subterfuge worked so well that in mid-April the Japs took their only division from Hollandia, their main rear base in Dutch New Guinea, and sent it into Hansa bay. So a week later MacArthur loaded up two divisions and sailed them right past both Madang and Wewak and up the coast to Hollandia and again landed with hardly a shot.

"At Hollandia for the first time we had air superiority in the Southwest Pacific after smashing the Jap air force on three air fields at Hollandia. Early in April we and the Japs had about the same number of planes in New Guinea. Theirs were at Hollandia. Ours were at Nadzab. The Japs had the jump on us because they could stage planes from Hollandia thru Wewak and Madang. We had to go all the way from Nadzab.

"But one day in mid-April MacArthur and Gen. Kenny put into the air everything that would fly and sent it up to Hollandia. They repeated the treatment the next day. This greatest Southwest Pacific air force consisted of less than 300 planes. Europe was already numbering its raids by the thousands of planes. Remember how MacArthur begged for supplies?

Plane Wreckage Proves It.

"In the two days Kenny's air forces claimed they had damaged 288 planes on the ground at Hollandia. The cynics, including myself, snickered. But when we got to Hollandia we found the wreckage of more than 330 Jap planes. That taught me to respect MacArthur's communiques.

"From Hollandia there was an average of one invasion a month. Nearly all landings were bloodless. We came ashore, dug in, and then let the Japs come to us. It was a wonderful strategy. One regiment on Biak killed by actual count of the bodies 800 some odd Japs—I forget the exact figure—while losing two men. It was at Biak, incidentally, that had MacArthur chosen to assault from the sea the Jap defenses around the airstrips which we wanted, perhaps half of the invading troops would have been killed, so expert were the defenses. Instead MacArthur landed five miles up the beach and not one man was hurt.

Ever Guess Leyte?

"Look at the Philippines campaign. Do you do any armchair generaling? I do. Did you ever guess Leyte? I didn't even know there was such an island. I doubt if the Japs did either. And then Mindoro? I'd never heard of Mindoro. But looking back I can see how the Mindoro airbases provide perfect air cover for convoys moving up to Lingayen gulf. Or how about Lingayen? Did you think we would dare send an invasion convoy past Manila, past Corregidor, and up the Luzon coast, where for an entire day they would be within sight of land, and then cut into Lingayen? It sounds foolhardy. But it worked.

"Maybe I'm getting too ardent. I'll admit I'm a MacArthur fan. Week by week I became more and more ardent. When you think that in a little over a year MacArthur licked more than 200,000 Japs to reach the Philippines, and lost fewer than 5,000 men, maybe you can see why I'm a MacArthur fan.

"The General of the War."

"I think he is the general of the war. Of course all I know about the other parts of the world is what I read or hear. But I am certain that no one could have accomplished the return to Manila with any greater success or any fewer losses.

"Will MacArthur continue or will he remain in the Philippines? Frankly, I don't know. I could pretend to be an expert and give you arguments by the yard on one side or the other. But of one thing I am certain. It is this: That if MacArthur is sidetracked, it will be one of the major tragedies of American history.

"Two weeks ago last night I was sitting with the Juan David family on the roof of their new house in Manila watching the city burn.

"By dark the entire heart of the city was afire—a district probably one mile wide and two miles long. Besides, another blaze was leveling the railroad station and yards in north Manila, a third was wiping out Chinatown, with God knows how many of its 20,000 Chinese, and a fourth was ripping thru the residential district on the bay north of the river.

"Now any one who does any thinking will have to admit that Manila burned because of the return of the Americans. But the Filipinos harbor no ill will. As a matter of fact, the next morning as troops moved into the burned area, Filipinos sorting over the embers of their years of work stood and clapped, and, as they have ever since the first day we set foot on their islands, shouted 'Victoree.' Their faith in America is a challenge. I only hope we can live part way up to their expectations.

"The Filipinos ask only consideration and kindliness. But they would not be sad if the world soon had another fire, a big one, one that would turn Tokyo into ashes. All of Tokyo. Or even all of Japan. I'd like to see that fire myself. That's one of the reasons I'd like to go back to the Pacific.

"There is another group who would like to see Tokyo burn. They are the men and women and children whom the Japanese starved and bullied for three years in Santo Tomas. You would be a hard man if you could look at these people and not want to cry, cry in pity for them and cry in anger with the Japs. I spent a large part of three days in Santo Tomas. I'd like to tell you something about the place.

"Santo Tomas was a university. Its campus covered about six square blocks, all surrounded by a high wall. It had three main buildings, buildings which once held the classes and a gymnasium. These buildings were to be for three years the homes for 3,700 men, women, and children. Including halls and all, there was not even cot space for each of the internees. Cot space, I said. That implies each had cots. That is wrong. At the last many were sleeping on planks or sheets of bamboo slats.

Teacup of Rice Per Day.

"In the early days the Japs permitted Filipinos to come into the prison and sell food. The Japs at first let the Americans send purchasing agents thru the city gathering food. But the last year the Japs banned that. All the Americans had to eat was the Jap ration of less than a teacup of rice per day per person plus what meager amounts of canned foods the Americans had been able to hoard.

"A cup of rice a day! And at home we scream about rationing. A cup of rice a day! Barely enough to sustain life. In some cases not enough. One kind old lady took to scraping the garbage barrels that came out of the Jap garrison kitchen. She wasn't squeamish about her food like the rich old Manila business man. But he is dead, starved despite his millions.

"Yes, the people of Santo Tomas can tell you about shortages in war time. If you want to learn of the horrors of war with the Japs, you should see the boys from Cabanatuan or Bilibid. Cabanatuan was the prison camp in the central Luzon plain from which the Rangers, in a story book night raid, sprang 511 prisoners of war, mostly American soldiers. Bilibid was the prison in Manila.

"First Cabanatuan: Even before we came to Luzon we heard American soldiers were still being held in Cabanatuan. The information was indefinite. We were 25 miles from the camp before we knew for sure that Americans were being held there. The number was put at about 500.

Fear Japs Will Kill Them.

"You can be sure their presence caused much worry. For the general staff the problem was how to free them without the Japs first killing them. It was feared if troops overran Cabanatuan in their normal drive down Luzon valley, the Japs, before fleeing, would kill the prisoners.

"So the prison break was set up. And it is probably the classic for all time. Ninety-six Rangers were chosen for the job. Little had been heard previously about the Rangers. They did fancy jobs which were so fancy they remained secret for long. Like the time they scaled the cliff of a tiny island off Leyte to eliminate the Jap lookout garrison stationed in what in peace time was a lighthouse.

"To the 96 were added a few radiomen and the Rangers' surgeon, Capt. James Fisher, the son of novelist Dorothy Canfield. They set out late one Sunday afternoon to march across country 25 miles. They were to be within 4 miles of the camp at dawn. Scouts were to creep up within sight of the camp and watch developments during the day. Case the joint, I guess, is the technical term for their job. Then at dusk the Rangers were to strike.

Radio Word of Delay.

"The Rangers wanted no dead timber with them so no reporters could go along. We had to wait for them to come back. Monday passed. The little radio the Rangers carried was silent. Late Monday night there came a message. New developments, it said. A 24 hour delay. We wondered what had happened.

"Tuesday dragged. It was exactly 11:06 that night when the message came. 'Mission accomplished,' it said. We got together trucks and ambulances. At dawn we set out to meet the Rangers and the prisoners. During the two days our lines had advanced some 10 miles. But that morning we went another five or so thru unscouted country so the prisoners would not have to walk back so far.

"The prisoners made an unforgettable sight. At every village Filipinos had added their carabao drawn carts to the procession. In the hay in the little carts lay prisoners who were too weak or too sick to walk. They were a ragged lot. But to get back to the beginning.

Find Japs and Tanks.

"The Rangers made their 20 mile march the first night all right. Once while crossing a road they had to hide while a Jap truck convoy went past. The next morning the scouts reached the fields around the camp. There they struck a snag. Cabanatuan prison was lousy with Japs. Several hundred were camped in and around the camp. With them were several tanks. With them there a prison break undoubtedly would end in death for not only the Rangers but the prisoners, too.

"The Rangers could only hope for a change. So they sat and waited. That night the Japs moved out. Other columns came up the highway past the camp but continued on. At dawn only about 100 Japs remained. All day the road was empty. At 4 o'clock the Ranger chief, Col. Mucci, ordered his men forward. At dusk they were only 1,000 yards away. The time for the break was at hand.

"This is what happened:

"Cabanatuan camp was about 400 yards wide and 600 yards long. It contained some 30 frame barracks—the camp had been built for the Filipino army. It was surrounded by a triple barbed wire fence. Another fence ran down the middle of the camp. The Americans lived in the left half, the Japs in the right. At the front left-hand corner was a look-out tower and pillbox.

"Two groups of Filipino guerrillas—about 100 in each group—moved onto the highway about 1,000 yards each side of the camp. It was their job to see no Japs came up or down the road and interfered with the break. The Rangers split up into four groups. One was to creep around the rear, another was to take care of the watchtower and pillbox, and a third was to break down the front gate and attack the Jap garrison. The fourth was to follow thru the broken gate, cut the fence into the American enclosure, and round up the Americans.

Everything Happens at Once.

"Once as the men were getting into place the lookout in the tower thought he saw something move and shouted a challenge. The Rangers dropped silently and waited until the lookout convinced himself he was seeing dreams. Everything happened at once. The men from the rear sent cross-fire into the Jap barracks. The lookout men virtually sawed the tower in half with their bullets. The three Japs in the pillbox never knew what hit them.

"A big Ranger tried to shatter the padlock on the gate with his carbine, but the lock held. He drew his pistol to shoot the lock off. A Jap sentry fired and knocked the pistol from the Ranger's hand. The Ranger picked up the gun, shot the lock to pieces, and then as his buddies rushed thru he did likewise with the Jap sentry.

Doctor Hit by Shrapnel.

"They poured so much lead into the barracks only a few Japs were able even to start an investigation of all the noise. One jumped from a window and was dead before he hit the ground. A couple more stood up behind a sandbagged barricade and tommy guns virtually cut them in half. Another ran from a door. He took about two steps.

"Some Japs somewhere managed to get a couple of mortars. Apparently they had been set up to repel a break, for they landed near the front gate. Dr. Fisher was just coming thru to help round up the prisoners and shrapnel gravely injured him.

"The prisoners were a scared lot. They thought the Jap guards had turned on them. The Rangers had to shout several times before the prisoners realized that freedom had come at last. Then they hobbled as best they could out thru the cut fence."

$20,000 CHURCH FIRE ON SOUTH SIDE STIRS VANDALISM INQUIRY

Recent reports of vandalism in the Zion Lutheran church, 113th st. and Edbrooke av., were studied by police last night after fire caused damage estimated by Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney at $20,000 to the roof and attic of the three story brick building. The pastor, the Rev. Carl Pfotenhauer, 11321 Indiana av., said damage to stained glass windows and the church organ would raise the loss to $50,000.

Kensington police said three reports of vandalism had been received in three weeks. Once sheet music was found scattered over the floor. Another time a fire extinguisher was damaged. Then the parochial school adjacent to the church was burglarized.

Last night's fire was discovered by the pastor's two sons, David, 15, and Fred, 12, who were in the church basement. David attempted to beat out the fire, which started in the rear of the altar, while Fred ran for help. The boys said the window to the vestry was open when they discovered the fire.

BATAAN FIGHT SAVED AUSTRALIA, PREMIER CURTIN DECLARES

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 20 (AP).—Prime Minister John Curtin, indorsing Gen. MacArthur's tribute to the men who fought delaying actions at Bataan and Corregidor, said today that time had been bought for the allies by the gallant dead.

"As far as I am able to judge strategy," he said, "I believe the delay of Japan's southward drive by the gallant men of Bataan and Corregidor gave a breathing space vital to us. I indorse MacArthur's tribute to the men who died.

"This brings us to consider all men whose lives have been sacrificed in delaying and holding the enemy in this global war when we were weak and unprepared."

FREE EX-CONVICT AND 8 HELD IN JOB SLOWDOWN

Angelo Inciso, ex-convict international representative of the United Automobile Workers' union [AFL], and eight members of the union who were arrested Feb. 1 by Capt. George Barnes and Sgt. Harold Enger of the police labor detail, were discharged in South State st. court yesterday by Judge Jay A. Schiller. Capt. Barnes alleged the men had caused a slowdown of war production work in the John Wood Manufacturing company, 4435 S. Western av.

Judge Schiller ruled that the unionists were improperly booked on charges of disorderly conduct and a state charge of interference with workers. Capt. Barnes explained that no city or state law covered slowdowns of war production.

He vowed after court yesterday that he would continue to make arrests where workers failed to produce at their maximum skill. He said he would confer with State's Atty. Tuohy and United States Atty. Woll to determine the correct charges to be made in future arrests.

ASYLUM DEATH HELD ACCIDENT DESPITE FIGHT

A Kankakee county coroner's jury, which investigated the fatal beating of Louis Field, 35, Chicago Negro inmate of the Manteno State hospital, has returned a verdict finding that Field suffered the injuries in a fight on Feb. 13 with two other inmates, Coroner Ed Madison said last night.

Because all involved were inmates of the mental institution the jury offered no recommendations. As a further result the cause of death was entered in the death certificate as accidental. Transcripts of the evidence will be sent to State's Atty. J. T. Tolson and to the state department of public welfare.

One witness was Joseph Oxford, an attendant, who said he tried to break up the fight. Oxford and his wife, Ann, also a hospital employe, have tendered their resignations to Dr. Edward Ross, hospital director, on the ground that a help shortage made the work too burdensome. Dr. Ross said the hospital has 6,400 patients and only 240 attendants. There are openings for 300 more, Dr. Ross said.

80 PLACES FALL IN RED DRIVE ON BERLIN'S FLANK

Crossen, Oder River Fort, Taken by Russians.

LONDON, Feb. 21 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Russian 1st Ukraine army forces drove some 10 miles northwest and west in Germany's Brandenburg province yesterday, capturing more than 80 communities in the face of persistent counter-attacks by which the Nazis strove to hold the vital southeastern approaches to Berlin, 57 miles away. Crossen, Bobersberg, and Christianstadt were among the places captured.

Moscow's nightly bulletin, announcing these gains, said about 1,000 Germans were captured in that sector northeast and east of Guben, while some 100 miles to the southeast fighting continued for the annihilation of the German garrison in the besieged Silesian capital of Breslau.

German radio accounts, agreeing essentially with the Russian announcements on the conflict in Brandenburg east of Guben, said also that the soviets had broken into Breslau and Glogau but had been thrown out and that the Breslau garrison had spurned a surrender ultimatum.

Line from Guben to Lauban.

More vital to the immediate defense of the reich was the 65 mile front where Marshal Konev's 1st Ukraine troops were attacking and the Germans counter-attacking.

German broadcasts described the line as extending from Guben, 51 miles southeast of Berlin, thru Sorau down to Lauban, 61 miles east of Dresden and only 13 miles from the border of Saxony province.

Moscow's bulletin did not disclose fighting as far south as Lauban but did announce Konev's capture of the strongpoint cities of Crossen, at the confluence of the Oder and Bober rivers, 57 miles southeast of Berlin and 17 miles northeast of Guben; Bobersberg, 13 miles east of Guben, and Christianstadt, 11 miles east of Sommerfeld.

A supplement of the bulletin this morning said more than 1,000 Germans were killed and 32 tanks knocked out in a vain enemy counter-attack at Christianstadt.

Salient Being Consolidated.

Konev was consolidating his salient, which already outflanked German fortifications erected along the central Oder river to face Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army group.

There was no letup in the struggle in East Prussia, with the Germans reporting that soviet troops were attacking heavily on the Samland peninsula west of Koenigsberg and that German warships were shelling the attackers.

On the northern front Moscow announced gains up to 13 miles and capture of 50 Polish corridor towns by the 2d White Russian army. Advancing northward on a 20 mile wide front, these forces were within 33 miles south of Danzig, once free Baltic port.

On the southern end of the long eastern front the Russians announced capture of 60 odd Czechoslovakian towns in a drive that carried northwestward within 13 miles of Banska Bystricia, and told of repelling determined German counter-attacks in Hungary on the north bank of the Danube east of Komarom.

Soldier Owes Life to Fountain Pen

Pvt. Henry Roon shows his wife the slight scar in his neck, a result of incision by medical corpsman who inserted a fountain pen barrel so Roon could breathe after being wounded in France.

STRIKE LEADER, NAMED AS RED, IS ARMY OFFICER

New York, Feb. 20 [Special].—Austin Hogan, former president of the CIO transport workers' union, whom witnesses before the Dies committee described as a Communist, is now a second lieutenant in the army engineering corps, it was learned today. His name originally was Gustav Dilloughry.

Disclosure of Hogan's status came two days after the revelation by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE that the war department had issued a directive permitting the commissioning of Communists.

At the offices of the TWU it was said today that Hogan obtained his commission in January after completing a course at Fort Belvoir, Va. It was stated that the former union leader has been granted opportunity to earn a commission after months of combat duty in various Pacific battle areas.

The night before his induction he was guest of honor at a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Commodore. Among the orators were Joseph Curran, who was president of the CIO council in New York, vice president of the national CIO organization, and president of the Communist-dominated national maritime union, and Harry Bridges, Pacific coast labor leader who has been ordered deported as a Communist.

Lt. Hogan was among the group who organized the TWU in 1934 and in 1941 he led the union's 11 day bus strike.

Wife Has Pen

Pvt. Henry Roon of Grand Rapids, Mich., whose life was saved Nov. 11 near Metz, France, when a medical corpsman performed a battlefield operation with a penknife and inserted a fountain pen in Roon's throat, enabling him to breathe after he had been wounded by shrapnel, was on his way home last night from Gardiner General hospital. One of Roon's vocal chords is paralyzed as a result of his wound, but he is able to talk.

Roon left the hospital yesterday on a three-day pass in company with his wife, Ada, who is saving the fountain pen as a souvenir. Roon arrived at the hospital Saturday. The shrapnel fragment which made the emergency operation necessary still is in his throat. An operation will be performed later to remove it.

Roon said he has written two letters to the medical corpsman, Duane N. Kinman, whose home is in College Place, Wash., but has not received a reply. He said he understands that Kinman himself subsequently was wounded, and that he was awarded a silver star.

Nazis Claim Planes Sink 10 Ships in Allied Convoy

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP).—The Berlin radio asserted tonight that German torpedo carrying planes had sunk eight cargo ships totaling 57,000 tons and two destroyers out of an England bound convoy from Murmansk. There was no immediate allied confirmation.

SMEARER OF DIES SEEKS TO WRECK SUBVERSIVE QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—As the new house committee on un-American activities prepared to hold its first meeting tomorrow, it was learned today that an undercover campaign to impede the group's probe of subversive activities is growing in intensity.

Leader of the drive to hamper the investigation is Rep. Hook [D., Mich.], who figured in the forged letter conspiracy intended to smear former committee Chairman Dies [D., Tex.], which was exposed in the house several years ago.

Hook put into the Congressional Record letters purporting to link William Dudley Pelley, Silver Shirt leader now serving a 15 year term for sedition, and Dies. The letters were later shown to be forgeries and they were expunged from the Record by the house in a signal rebuke to the Michigan member.

Seeks to Eliminate Probe.

Retired for two years from public life by his constituents after that incident, Hook won back his seat in the election last November. He has devoted his efforts to an attempt to reverse the action by which the house on opening day made the committee on un-American activities permanent.

Hook first introduced a resolution calling for repeal of the house action. Ten days ago he mailed letters to members of congress and prominent citizens asking comment on a second bill he is sponsoring which limits the powers of legislative investigating committees.

Among those solicited for opinions were such leftists as Secretary of the Interior Ickes, former Vice President Wallace, Philip Murray, head of the CIO; Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard law school, Marshall Field, publisher; R. J. Thomas, head of the CIO United Automobile Workers; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, and Dorothy Thompson, columnist. All have denounced the committee's inquiry in the past.

Assails "Bias" of Group.

Opinions were also solicited from some prominent persons not opposed to an investigation of subversive operations. Hook's letter contained a violent denunciation of the "bias and malpractice" of the former Dies committee, which was intended, according to reports, to discourage answers from this group.

Hook's office said today he was assembling the replies for use in a speech which he will deliver in the house in the near future.

Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.], ranking majority member of the un-American activities committee, said Hook's bill was comparable to "taking the gun out of the hands of a policeman tracking down an armed bandit."

The committee's first meeting tomorrow, according to Chairman Hart [D., N. J.], will concern itself with the setting up of an investigating staff.

Marie McDonald, movie star, stopped in Chicago yesterday on her way to Hollywood from New York, where she attended the first showing of her new picture. Between trains she visited an army hospital. Recalling her last Chicago visit, when she kissed service men at the service men's center, arousing the ire of the hostesses, who are forbidden by the rules to dispense affection, the actress said: "There will be no kissing today. I contracted measles from one of the boys last time."

MOSCOW GREETS 5 MORE FREED YANK OFFICERS

MOSCOW, Feb. 20 (AP).—Five more American officers—liberated by the Red army from German prison camps in Poland—joined three already in Moscow today and said many others were on the way.

The five are Capt. Frank Olevsky, Camden, N. J.; Capt. Eugene Witt, Richland, Mich.; Lt. Bill Everett, Sweetwater, Tex.; 2d Lt. Alvin G. McCormick, Livonia, N. Y., and 2d Lt. James F. Schildt, Long Island City, N. Y.

The swift Red army advance freed many American officers and men from Nazi prison camps despite German attempts to move prisoners from threatened areas. Numbers of British and Canadian soldiers also were understood to have reached the Moscow area. The eight American officers now in Moscow were enjoying the city's hospitality. They went to the ballet, and were guests of Ambassador W. Averell Harriman at lunch today.

FRANCE TO SEND DELEGATION TO SAN FRANCISCO

Tells De Gaullist Side of Snub to F. D. R.

PARIS, Feb. 20 (AP).—The French government announced tonight it was actively pursuing an exchange of views on the Big Three Crimean conference despite the inability of Gen. de Gaulle and President Roosevelt to hold a meeting.

Spokesmen for the foreign office also said France definitely intends to take part in the united nations conference at San Francisco, Cal., April 25.

The reports came as the French public heard for the first time of De Gaulle's refusal to meet the President at Algiers. A bulletin issued tonight giving the official account of the invitation to De Gaulle and its rejection, said that on Feb. 12 American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery gave De Gaulle a message from Roosevelt expressing regret that he could not come to Paris as he had been invited to do last November and inviting De Gaulle to meet him in Algiers at a date to be set later.

"Came Unexpectedly."

De Gaulle, it said, told Caffery that the invitation from the President "came unexpectedly at a moment when many pressing affairs demanded his presence in Paris" and followed the Crimean conference "on whose objectives she [France] still was without information."

"Gen. de Gaulle asked the ambassador to assure President Roosevelt that he still hoped to see him come to Paris, where the government and the whole population would be at any time extremely happy to see him," the bulletin continued.

"It is well known that since that date the French government and services have worked actively in the necessary exchange of views between France and the allied governments on the subject of conclusions of the Yalta conference."

Backed by Cabinet.

The newspaper Combat said Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and some other ministers wanted De Gaulle to forget national pride and meet with Roosevelt despite the latter's declining to come to France, but the head of the government was sustained in his refusal by a majority of the cabinet. There was no denial that the situation stemmed from France's disappointment at being left out of the Big Three meeting at Yalta.

It was considered certain that the President originally had intended to visit France because the American army made elaborate preparations for his stay. That which impelled him to decide against coming here was not known here, however.

While the French foreign office is withholding formal acceptance of an invitation to the San Francisco meeting pending a study of the decisions made by the Big Three in the Crimea, officials said there never had been any question of her refusing a place at the allied nations table.

Occupation Zones a Question.

The foreign office particularly wants to study the decisions of Roosevelt, Premier Marshal Stalin, and Prime Minister Churchill concerning the definition of zones of occupation in Germany.

[Authoritative French quarters in London indicated that France would insist on an equal share in the occupation of Austria and gave the impression that France would not let the United States have bases in French Indo-China after the war. The French policy, however, appeared to be that they would not object to international bases in Indo-China for use by vessels of United States or any other of the allies which happened to get into trouble in that area.]

Moscow, Washington and London have been asked to supply information on the Crimean conference and then the cabinet will vote France's acceptance of the invitation to attend the San Francisco meeting, it was said.

U. S. AID PLEDGED IN HEMISPHERE BY STETTINIUS

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20 (AP).—Secretary of State Stettinius brought a whirlwind of optimism today to the inter-American conference which he said he confidently expects to equal the success of the Big Three Crimean meeting. The secretary arrived aboard a four motored transport and brought to the meeting of all the American nations except Argentina a strong link with United States-British-Russian plans for a peaceful world.

On the plane with him were Foreign Ministers Pedro Leao Velloso of Brazil and Enrique Munoz Meany of Guatemala, completing the roster of delegation heads here. Fifty-one other American delegates arrived this morning on a special train from Washington, D. C.

The American secretary of state issued a brief statement, in which he promised full United States support in the conference, opening tomorrow, for moves toward strengthening inter-American relations.

The inaugural session of the conference will be opened at 6 p. m. tomorrow by President Avila Camacho with a speech in which he will set forth the purposes of the meeting. The session will be held in the hall of the chamber of deputies.

President took about six days to get to Algiers, his last stopping place, after leaving Yalta, where the Big Three meeting concluded Feb. 11. He did not go either to Rome or Paris as had been indicated in some quarters.

The President and his party left by motor from the Livadia palace, Black sea home of the czars where he lived during the Big Three meeting, and traveled over mountain roads to Sevastopol, bombed out port across the tip of the Crimean peninsula.

There, he saw the "stark destruction," of the besieged city, almost leveled "except for walls of homes and buildings left standing like billboards, mute testimony of horrorful, wanton Nazi vengeance."

Before daylight the next day he motored to an air field where Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia and a guard of honor bade him farewell. American army air transport planes took the party to Egypt, over snow capped mountains of the Crimea and desert sands of the Nile in five and one-half hours.

Receives Egypt's King.

The President stopped within a few minutes' air reach of Cairo. His first caller was King Farouk of Egypt. Later Mr. Roosevelt received Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia and King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia.

The White House announcement said Secretary of State Stettinius, en route from Moscow to make official calls in Liberia, southwest Africa, Brazil, and then to the inter-American conference in Mexico City, was waiting to see the President in Alexandria where he reported on "altogether satisfactory" conferences with Molotov in Moscow.

Ambassador Winant also met the President in the middle east, traveling by air from London. Two more ambassadors, Caffery from Paris and Alexander Kirk from Rome, were met by the President in Algiers.

Britons Will Sail Lakes Ships They Condemned

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 20 (AP).—Fifty-seven British seamen who recently refused to ferry three Great Lakes tankers across the Atlantic because, they said, they were "unseaworthy" have agreed to take the ships to sea after certain modifications of existing agreements, George Thompson, special organizer of the National Union of Seamen for the United States and Canada, said the men decided to sign new articles of agreement after he had conducted negotiations between the British ministry of war transport and the crew members.

EDEN TELLS LONDON POLES RECOGNITION GOES TO NEW REGIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Details of the Big Three decisions on Poland today were conveyed by Foreign Secretary Eden to former Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk and former Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer, both of whom are expected in diplomatic circles here to leave soon for Warsaw to accept cabinet posts in the new Polish government being shaped in Moscow.

At the same time, Eden received Polish Ambassador Count Edward Raczynski and informed him the British government would withdraw its recognition of the London emigre government as soon as the new Polish government, composed of members of the Lublin committee and certain Poles from London and occupied Poland, has been set up.

Eden also saw French Ambassador Rene Massigli.

of two-way future trade was stressed. Tourist travel to Egypt, the President said, was certain to become greater after the war than before. He predicted thousands of Americans would visit Egypt and the Nile region after the war, by ship and by air.

"King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia was received by the President amid colorful and impressive ceremonies. They met during the afternoon of the day following the President's reception of King Farouk and Emperor Haile Selassie.

"The Arabian monarch had traveled more than 800 miles from the Red sea port of Jidda in order that he might meet the President. It was the first time in his life that he had left his country's soil, and this was interpreted by members of his party as an unprecedented honor for the visiting chief executive of the United States.

Warship Lent by United States.

"The occasion, howevr, was notable in many other ways. A destroyer had been put at the king's disposal for the trip, and it was said to be the first warship in history to enter the port of Jidda, as well as the first United States vessel of its kind to pass thru the Suez canal during World War II. The destroyer decks were covered with rich oriental rugs, while gilded chairs gave added touches of unusual splendor, as, also, did the flowing robes and accessories that make the Arabian dress so strikingly picturesque.

"While a cabin was prepared for the king aboard his ship, he preferred to live out of doors. A tent, therefore, was set up on the forecastle deck and he lived in it as if he were making a pilgrimage somewhere in the vast desert regions of Arabia. The king's entourage numbered 48, comprising his brother, Emir Abdullah; Emir Mohammed and Emir Mansour, sons of the king; Sheikh Abdullah Es-Suleiman, minister of finance, Sheikh Yussef Yassin, deputy foreign minister; Sheikh Hafiz Wahba, minister to London, and others.

Colonel with King.

"Col. William A. Eddy, marine corps, retired, now serving as American minister to Saudi Arabia, also accompanied the king.

"The President, seated on the forward gun deck of his ship, received the royal visitors as the crew manned the rails, bugle calls sounded, and the shrill notes of the boatswain's pipe kept all hands standing rigidly at attention.

"The President and the king continued their talks long after the luncheon hour.

"The discussions were in line with the President's desire that heads of government thruout the world get together whenever possible to talk as friends and exchange views in order to better understand the problems of one another."

Flies to Cairo

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—With dates omitted for security reasons, the White House today gave this itinerary of President Roosevelt since conclusion of the Big Three meeting at Yalta, Crimea, on Feb. 11:

Motored from Livadia palace to Sevastopol, where he toured war ruins left by the Germans.

Continued by motor the next morning to an unidentified air field where Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia and a guard of honor saw him off to Egypt by plane.

Arrived 5½ hours later, stopping near Cairo.

Went aboard American man-of-war at anchor in Great Bitter lake in the Suez canal, where before noon he received King Farouk of Egypt.

Received Emperor Haile Selassie I. of Ethiopia the same afternoon.

The next afternoon he received King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia while seated on the forward gun deck of his ship.

Conferred almost four hours with Prime Minister Churchill at Alexandria; also saw Secretary of State Stettinius there, as well as John G. Winant, American ambassador to London.

Visited Algiers, French North Africa, where he conferred with Ambassadors Jefferson Caffery from Paris and Alexander Kirk from Rome.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Prime Minister Churchill's attitude in the house of commons debate next week on the Crimea decisions will be "back me or sack me," it was reported in political circles tonight.

Any vote taken by the house will be treated by the government as a vote of confidence, it was said. Foreign Secretary Eden, announcing the debate for Tuesday and Wednesday, said a statement would be made later as to the form the debate would take.

Churchill told commons today that "affairs abroad were running smoother." It was his first public appearance since the recent Big Three conference in the Crimea.

ALLIED WRITERS GET RUNAROUND IN YUGOSLAVIA

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 20.—American and British correspondents and public relations officers are puzzled by the attitude taken by the Marshal Tito government on the question of permitting allied correspondents to enter Yugoslavia.

On the one hand, Tito spokesmen declare publicly his government welcomes allied journalists and deny emphatically there have been any developments they prefer to cloak in secrecy. But on the other hand, altho some writers have been admitted, many correspondents of prominent newspapers and news services have been trying vainly for several months to obtain permission to visit Belgrade.

At present in Belgrade there are four allied correspondents—one Reuters man, two Canadian newspapermen, and a representative of the Free French agency. The Tito government also tentatively approved the entry of five others.

Still not admitted, however, are the following: THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Associated Press, United Press, New York Times, London Daily Herald, and a representative of an Australian newspaper.

U. S. 'ANNEXES' MEXICO IN SLIP BY STETTINIUS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20.—A secretary's error gave Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr. a bad start at the airport here when he arrived at the end of his 26,000 mile air trip from Yalta and Moscow for the inter-American conference.

Reading a prepared statement to the press, Stettinius said: "The United States looks upon Mexico as a good neighbor, a strong upholder of democratic traditions in this hemisphere, and a country we are proud to call our own."

At the words, "our own," he faltered, but went on. A secretary went around and substituted the word "friend" for "own."

CHURCHILL AND MIDDLE EAST RULERS CONFER

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 20 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill, who conferred in Egypt with President Roosevelt, had long talks with King Farouk of Egypt, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, and King Ibn Saud of Saudia Arabia. He also conferred with Al Sayed Shukri Al Kuwatly, president of the Syrian republic. Foreign Secretary Eden took part in these discussions. Details were not disclosed.

[A London dispatch said the announcement of these conferences was issued "amid persistent reports that Britain was taking the leading role in a move to settle middle east problems thru formation of a single Arab state and creation of a separate Jewish state comprising most of Palestine."]

Bigger Role to Middle East.

It is obvious that the importance of the middle east, both from military and political standpoints, has increased greatly as a result of the Yalta talks. Undoubtedly both President Roosevelt and the prime minister were given fullest information on the progress of the current Pan-Arabian league conference and its program, policies, and intentions.

The discussions probably concerned some of the decisions reached at Yalta relating to the war against Japan, in which the middle east will play a vital role as a transit center and probably as a gigantic staging area.

Ibn Saud met with Churchill at a desert oasis 50 miles from the pyramids.

Ibn Saud and his two sons and his brother, all princes, were waiting beside Lake Fayoum when the prime minister's car arrived. The king wore the red and gold robes he uses only for important ceremonial occasions. Glittering bands of gold encircled his headdress.

After an exchange of greetings the king and Churchill went to the former's quarters. Eden and an interpreter accompanied them. They were closeted more than an hour before lunch, which was served overlooking the lake. The meal was Arab style, with a single dish, "kabab."

Gifts Exchanged.

The two conferees exchanged gifts. Ibn Saud's servants approached the prime minister one by one, bearing packages. The first was a golden sword encrusted with jewels and a matching dagger. Another servant presented a similar gift to Eden. Other bearers placed before Churchill Arab ceremonial robes in a heavy leather case.

Churchill told the interpreter:

"Tell the king I shall always treasure these not only because of the magnificent workmanship but as a delightful memory of our meeting."

There was a moment of expectancy and then his gifts to Ibn Saud were brought forward. They consisted of two large and elegantly built boxes. The king's face plainly showed a pleased curiosity as he opened them. Each contained six bottles of perfume, concentrated essences of amber, musk, mimosa, jasmine, and others.

GEORGE TO HELP FIGHT WILLIAMS FOR R. E. A. CHIEF

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Sen. George [D., Ga.] lined up today with senate opponents of confirming Aubrey Williams as rural electrification administrator.

The Georgian told reporters that he would not vote for "any more third and fourth rate administrators for federal posts." Indications are that Williams' nomination will not get action by the agricultural committee for about 10 days.

The nomination flared in the house today with an assertion by Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.] that Williams' confirmation "would have a paralyzing effect" on public power development in this country.

F. D. R. SLAVE BILL SIDETRACKED BY SENATE GROUP

Committee Backs Milder Substitute for Bill.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The New Deal's "work or jail" bill was put on ice today by the senate military affairs committee which voted 12 to 6 to consider a substitute measure giving War Man Power Chairman McNutt power to dictate the number and type of workers any business or industry may employ.

The committee's action was taken in the face of a request from President Roosevelt for "legislation embracing the May [work or jail] bill." The President's message was addressed to Senate Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.], who delivered it to the military committee this morning.

Defeat of May Bill Seen.

Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.], on whose motion the committee decided to take up the substitute measure, told reporters the committee's vote spelled defeat of the May bill, which has passed the house.

The May bill would have empowered local draft boards to direct men between 18 and 45 to apply for war work if they were not already employed in essential industry. It provided fines and imprisonment or induction for military service, as penalties for non-compliance.

The substitute bill would put teeth in the regulations of the WMC and enable McNutt to prescribe employment ceilings in designated areas, activities, or places of employment, to fix the maximum number of workers by age, sex, or occupational qualification, and to prohibit or regulate the hiring or recruiting of workers.

Penalties on Employers.

Sanctions under the bill would be imposed on employers. Any wages paid for services rendered in violation of the measure, or regulations of the WMC, would not be allowed as deductions for computing taxes, nor for determining the amount to be paid or recovered under contracts with the federal government.

The bill also provided that employers violating provisions of the bill or regulations of the WMC could be cited for contempt under the second war powers act.

The individual worker's penalty for violating WMC regulations would be inability to get a job, leading one senator to term the substitute measure as the "work or go into business for yourself bill."

A Bar on Employment.

No worker could be employed in war work, under the bill's provisions, unless he held a certificate of availability, and he could be barred from employment in other activities by McNutt imposing employment ceilings on nonessential establishments, such as pool halls and bars.

The substitute bill was sponsored by Senators O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], Kilgore [D., W. Va.], Wagner [D., N. Y.], Ferguson [R., Mich.], and Ball [R., Minn.]. It contains most of the provisions of a bill offered last week by Kilgore and which was reported to have been prepared by the CIO political action committee.

Chairman Thomas [D., Utah] of the senate military committee told reporters the bill gave McNutt unlimited power to close any business, but that he thought such power would not be abused. "If any government administrator acts in an arbitrary manner, there are ways to correct him," Thomas said.

The committee vote on Chandler's motion to take up the substitute bill was:

Democrats for: Johnson [Colo.], Downey [Cal.], Chandler [Ky.], Kilgore [W. Va.], Murray [Mont.], O'Mahoney [Wyo.], Wagner [N. Y.]. Republicans for: Burton [O.], Thomas [Idaho], Wilson [Ia.], Revercomb [W. Va.], Bridges [N. H.].

Democrats against: Thomas [Utah], Hill [Ala.], Stewart [Tenn.], Maybank [S. C.]. Republicans against: Austin [Vt.], Gurney [S. C.].

It's tough on Bob Becker since the government restricted the sale of ammunition to civilians.

WLB Grants Pay Revisions for Meat, Textile Workers

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—The war labor board announced its willingness tonight to fatten pay envelopes of 145,000 meat packers and 50,000 textile workers, if it wins its policy fight with Economic Stabilizer Vinson.

The board released its long awaited decisions in these two cases, but held up the money items until it has settled the squabble with Vinson who wants to give the OPA powers over wage adjustments if they necessitate price increases.

Strikes Threatened.

The decisions came as the two industries were threatened with far-reaching strikes. Emil Rieve, president of the CIO textile workers, had just released his 100,000 members from further obligation to adhere to their no-strike pledge. He charged that "political connivance had deprived the NWLB of its independent nature," and claimed that textile manufacturers had high pressured War Mobilizer Byrnes into blocking wage increases.

In its decision today the WLB increased the textile workers' minimum wage from 50 to 55 cents, and granted a flat 5 cent increase to preserve the present differentials. These were allowable in the board's eyes because they would adjust substandard wages.

The meat packers were told to establish a commission to set up, for the first time, a standard wage structure for the industry. Clothing, tools, and sharpening of tools are to be company expenses, also for the first time.

All nonmoney items can be negotiated immediately between the companies and the workers.

CIO Unions Involved.

Principal unions involved are the CIO packinghouse workers, representing 125,000 employes of Swift, Armour, Wilson, Cudahy, and John Morrell packing firms, and the CIO textile workers. The latter represents employes of 23 southern, 25 New England, and six New York-Pennsylvania textile mills.

Since the clothing and tools clauses of the meat packing decision involve some compensation changes, the parties would have to negotiate on how to allow for these items, whether in money or in actual clothes and tools.

The guaranteed work week at all companies would be increased from 32 to 36 hours. When more than five hours are worked after the first meal at Armour and Wilson, the companies would be required to pay for a second meal and to allow a 20 minute lunch period with pay.

Made Retroactive to 1943.

The board made all features of the orders retroactive to the date of expiration of the contract, Aug. 11, 1943, but directed the parties to bargain collectively on this point first.

Tonight's decision in the packinghouse case involves so-called "fringe" demands rather than general increases. In this case, the WLB said the general 10 per cent wage boost is to be shelved until President Roosevelt decides whether to lift the ceiling limiting increases to 15 per cent over 1941 levels.

Lewis J. Clark, president of the CIO Packing House Workers' union, said that as a result of the order "we are requesting the packers immediately to enter into negotiations."

BILL FOR NURSE DRAFT APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—A bill authorizing the draft of unmarried women nurses 20 thru 44 years old was approved today by the house military affairs committee.

In reporting the measure, 21 to 4, the committee overrode protests by a minority of Republican members, who charged it would give draft authorities even more drastic powers over nurses than selective service has over men subject to military service.

One committee member, Rep. Elston [R., O.], declared the bill grants "dictatorial" authority to a procurement and assignment bureau assigned by the measure to supervise the nurse draft. The bureau would be named by the President.

Bill Bars Appeals.

Elston said the proposed legislation would require draft boards to induct nurses designated by the procurement service. Those so designated, he explained, would have no right of appeal for deferment on grounds of essentiality, no matter how necessary the civilian nursing they are doing.

The only appeals from draft board orders permitted under the bill are for dependency or physical unfitness. Elston said he will demand an amendment in the house giving nurses the same appeal rights thru selective service machinery as male draftees have.

The bill would require all unmarried graduate nurses in the 20-44 age group to register with local draft boards at a date to be fixed by administrative authorities. There are approximately 243,000 graduate nurses, of whom some 60,000 are in the army and the navy. No estimate of the number unmarried was available.

Cadets Face First Call.

Local boards would be required to draft available nurses graduating from the federally financed cadet nurses training program before calling others. The present system of procuring nurses from volunteers is specifically authorized to be continued by the bill.

Drafted nurses presumably would be commissioned second lieutenants in the army and given comparable ranks in other services, as are present volunteers. The bill, however, provides only that they shall be assigned to duties "in which their professional nursing skills and training will be used in accordance with military requirements."

Training Base Broadened.

The bill also provides that draft boards shall not reject nurses on the ground their training has been confined to small institutions. The original bill outlawed nurses with experience exclusively in hospitals of fewer than 50 beds.

The measure is expected to reach the house floor next week. Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.], a member of the military committee, declared the measure is loosely drawn without adequate safeguards to protect essential nursing facilities in civilian institutions. He said he will support Elston's proposed amendment and demand inclusion of standards to prevent wholesale "raiding" of hospitals.

CHICAGO LAG REPORTED.

Headquarters in Chicago of the army nurse corps in the 6th service command had no comment yesterday on proposed legislation to draft nurses. Col. Don G. Hildrup, surgeon of the command, said that altho there has been some improvement in the campaign to recruit nurses for army duty, the drive has not come up to expectations. The national goal is 18,000 more recruits for the army nurse corps, with no individual quota for Illinois.

Three Fined on Charges of Short Weight in Meat

John L. Hollen, butcher at 4356 Milwaukee av., was fined $40; Charles Lewis, 109 E. Garfield blvd., was fined $25, and George Zimmerman, 2552 N. Clark st., was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Erwin J. Hasten in Municipal court on charges of short weight sales of meat.

MRS. LUCE TELLS HOW A BRAVE DOG LOST HIS MEDAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 [Special].—Blaze, Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt's bull mastiff that flew cross country on an A priority, and Fala, the White House pet, were contrasted today by Rep. Luce [R., Conn.] with a "gallant warrior dog in Sicily named Chips."

Speaking in the house, Rep. Luce took issue with Rep. Bennett [R., Mo.], who recently charged the Purple Heart had been awarded improperly to Chips. Asserting that it was the silver star, rather than the Purple Heart, that was given to Chips and then revoked, she added:

"If one compares the doggish deeds of Chips with the adventures of Blaze, there can be no question as to which of those two—a sheer dog—deserves public approbation.

Comparison with Fala.

"Or compare the origin of the wounds of Chips the warrior, which he, no doubt, sustained in the military action for which he was decorated, with the origin of those sustained so recently by Fala, the beau gallant, when he was hospitalized at Walter Reed as the result of an ill-fated nuptial encounter."

Chips was injured by machine gun fire in Sicily when he broke from his handler, dashed into a hut, and attacked an enemy gun crew. The crew surrendered while Chips dashed for the throat of the leader.

Fala Goes to Country.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said Fala was in the country and "we hope he's having a wedding." Fala subsequently appeared in a government hospital for sick and wounded army personnel and veterans. A Washington newspaper said the wedding was a flop and "the lady bit him."

"Is there any doubt," Mrs. Luce asked, "that if it were proper to award decorations to dogs Chips was a worthy recipient?"

She reported, however, that General of the Army Marshall had ordered that no decoration could be given to other than human beings, altho "an animal or fowl" might be cited in unit orders.

Clergy to Aid Red Cross Appeal for Funds in Drive

Martin H. Kennelly, chairman of the Red Cross war fund drive in the Chicago district, yesterday announced that clergymen will coöperate in the campaign by appealing to congregations on March 4 to make contributions to the drive, which will open March 1. The campaign will be conducted in Cook and Du Page counties and the southern half of Lake county, with a goal of $11,300,000 to be attained by March 31.

NEW DEAL BEGINS STASSEN G. O. P. DRIVE FOR 1948

Ex-Governor Agrees to Be 'One World' Delegate.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The New Deal's buildup of Comdr. Harold E. Stassen as a potential Republican candidate for the Presidency in 1948 was initiated under navy department auspices today with the 38 year old ex-governor of Minnesota announcing acceptance of President Roosevelt's appointment as delegate to the allied nations conference at San Francisco, Cal., April 25.

Harold E. Stassen.

Stassen, assistant chief of staff and flag secretary to Adm. Halsey, commander of the 3d fleet in the far Pacific, told a large press conference he regarded participation in the conference as a "political liability from a Republican viewpoint." He did not amplify this assertion but refused to concede the appointment was, in fact, a political asset.

Plans Publicity Drive.

Regarded as Mr. Roosevelt's choice for leader of the 1948 opposition because of his advocacy of a world superstate, Stassen will take advantage of a leave, he announced, to keep himself in the public eye with the following program:

1. A nation-wide address, probably next month, outlining "a strong world policy for America on a new and higher level with a united nations basis."

2. Conferences with Gov. Dewey of New York, the defeated Republican candidate for the Presidency, and Republican congressional leaders including Senators Vandenberg [Mich.], Austin [Vt.], Saltonstall [Mass.], Ball [Minn.], White [Me.], House Minority Leader Martin [Mass.], and Rep. Judd [Minn.].

3. Service at the allied nations conference "in civilian clothes, with freedom to speak, act, and think as I see fit."

Backs "Work or Jail" Bill.

Stassen gave what he termed "a general indorsement" of the administration's work-or-jail bill. The men on the fighting fronts are entitled to the complete backing of the home front, he remarked, and when Gen. Marshall and Adm. King say the legislation is necessary, it must be worked out.

He reserved opinions on compulsory military training and maintenance of our navy at its present strength, saying he would give his viewpoint on these and other subjects in his speech next month.

"I hope the San Francisco conference will mean to the world what Constitution hall in Philadelphia has meant to America," he declared. "It cannot give the final answers but should provide a framework upon which we can build for peace and the progress of the people. That means a world government. The support of the people and of congress must, of course, be taken into consideration of any decision.

"The Dumbarton Oaks program appears to be a small step in the right direction but a very important step."

Stassen Gets Legion of Merit.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, Feb. 21 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Comdr. Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, has been awarded the Legion of Merit by Adm. Halsey for "exceptionally meritorious service" while serving as assistant chief of staff and aide and flag secretary on the staff of the commander of the 3d fleet, Adm. Nimitz said today at a press conference.

JAP-AMERICAN GIRL THIEF WINS COURT LENIENCY

Miss Sandra T. Kawakubo, 18, of 4943 Sheridan rd., American born of Japanese ancestry, complained to Judge Francis Borrelli in Felony court yesterday that she was being "persecuted" because she was a Japanese. She had been arraigned on a charge of stealing $600 from Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Spiegel of the same address.

Mrs. Spiegel testified that Miss Kawakubo had taken the money while engaged to take care of the two Spiegel children, Leon, 3, and Mary, 8 months old.

Miss Kawakubo said she took the money because she needed it for doctor bills and baby clothes. The father of her expected baby, she said, is an American sailor overseas, probably fighting the Japanese. She said she had paid back $300, and that people picked on her because of her ancestry.

"To prove we don't do that in this country," Judge Borrelli said, "I'm going to put you on probation for one year provided you return the rest of the money."

Lyons Grocer Fined $50 for Having Illegal Fish

Alvin Urbenak, 7919 Ogden av., Lyons, a grocer, was fined $50 and costs yesterday by Justice of the Peace Miles E. Cunat in Riverside for illegal possession of blue gill fish. Frank Chitty and Merrill Soennichsen, conservation officers, charged Urbenak had in his possession 40 pounds of blue gills and crappies and had sold another 40 pounds before his arrest. Urbenak said he bought the fish from an itinerant peddler.

Bomber and Bride

Lt. W. E. Hayden of Yorkville, home from aerial action over Europe, with his bride, the former Patricia Young of Vincennes, Ind.

Flying experiences encountered on 65 bombing missions over France and Germany as a member of the 8th air force were recounted yesterday before Aviation post, American Legion, by Lt. William E. Hayden, 24, Yorkville, a B-26 pilot who wears the air medal with 12 clusters. He returned to the United States only last week and was accompanied to Chicago by his bride of four days, the former Patricia Young of Vincennes, Ind.

Lt. Hayden was a member of a bombing squadron known as the bridge busters because of the large number of bridges destroyed in France and Germany. He also flew many missions against German rocket bomb launching installations.

The Legionnaires also heard Chief Robert McKinney, 29, a cousin and stepbrother of Lt. Hayden, tell about his experiences as an aerial photographer in reconnaissance and aerial mapping in advance of the Sicily and Salerno invasions.

YANK, GIRL LOSE APPEALS FROM DEATH SENTENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, 22, of Boston, American paratrooper, and Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, 18, British strip tease dancer, today lost their appeals from death sentences for the robbery slaying last October of George Heath, London taxi driver.

Unless the defense takes the only course still open and seeks permission to carry an appeal to the house of lords, the fates of the only American ever sentenced by a British court to die for murder and the young dancer will be decided by Home Secretary Herbert Morrison. It is Morrison's duty to fix the execution date unless he decides to reprieve the couple or accept the jury's recommendation of mercy and commute sentence for the young widow of a British air borne trooper who died at Arnhem.

When the court this afternoon upheld their death sentences, passed last month, Mrs. Jones almost collapsed, but Hulten remained impassive. The verdict was delivered before a courtroom packed with curiosity seekers, who had stood in line most of last night to gain entry.

G. I. Who Beat His Wife to Death Found Insane

A jury in the Criminal court of Chief Justice Harold G. Ward yesterday found insane Pvt. Michael Ogliore, 30, of 3332 Washington blvd., who on Jan. 30 beat and killed his wife Pearl, 20. Dr. William H. Haines, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, testified that Ogliore suffered from dementia praecox and was incapable of coöperating with counsel. Dr. Haines said Ogliore would be committed to the Illinois Security hospital at Chester.

Industrialist Divorced on Ground of Cruelty

Mrs. Geraldine B. Klein, 28, of 5555 Sheridan rd., was granted a divorce on the ground of cruelty yesterday from Paul Klein, 32, executive vice president of the Empire Box company, 919 N. Michigan av. The decree was entered by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court.

AFL AND CIO JOIN HANDS IN FIGHT ON RACE BIGOTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations joined hands today in distributing pamphlets designed to curb racial and religious intolerance.

The pamphlets, prepared by the Jewish labor committee, contain resolutions against intolerance and racial bigotry adopted at recent conventions of the two embattled labor factions.

Also included in the pamphlets are statements by William Green, AFL president, and Philip Murray, CIO president, offering coöperation of their groups in fighting religious intolerance

Green Commends Committee.

In a letter to various AFL affiliates Green commended the Jewish labor committee as worthy of "confidence and support." He said that "unfortunately" there are other agencies and committees, which claim to be engaged in the same kind of work as the labor committee, and urged that before affiliates coöperate with these they clear the organizations thru the Jewish labor committee.

This was regarded as a thrust at various groups which have been organized recently by Communists ostensibly to work for tolerance but in reality to seek to win converts to the Communist cause.

As part of this program the Jewish labor committee has been denounced in the Communist press as reactionary.

Job Termed "Splendid."

"The Jewish labor committee, with whose work I have been personally acquainted since its very inception, has done a splendid job to speed up the educational process so vital to wipe out intolerance and racial discrimination in America," Green said.

"You may count on the millions of members of the American Federation of Labor to work with you in close coöperation toward the elimination of intolerance and bigotry in the United States."

Murray said: "I have been acquainted, for a number of years, with the work of the Jewish labor committee, and I know of the lasting contributions it has made to the American way of life. The six million members of the CIO pledge their full support and aid to the Jewish trade unionists in the fight against racial intolerance and for the democratic way of life."

COMMUNICATION PLAN FOR PEACE TO BE DRAFTED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Sen. McFarland [D., Ariz.] was designated today to head a congressional inquiry designed to help formulate a post-war policy in the all important field of international communications.

Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] asked McFarland to guide an interstate commerce subcommitte preliminary stury to provide a background for ultimate policy decisions on:

1. How to bring about cheaper international communication rates that will encourage a freer exchange of news between the United States and other nations.

Safeguard U. S. Interests.

2. The type of international communications that will best serve American interests. This would embrace decisions on the advisability of [a] an overall one company or association operation, [b] competitive companies, and [c] the extent of government interest and regulation.

Other phases of the inquiry will call for a determination of the future disposition of radio stations, most of them erected by the army, which the government now has at far-flung foreign posts.

Wheeler Stays as Chairman.

While Wheeler will retain chairmanship of the subcommittee, he informed McFarland he would be unable to give the study the attention it requires.

He told McFarland he picked him because of his work which led to the merger of domestic telegraph companies.

McFarland said he would call the subcommittee together this week. Other members are Senators White [R., Me.] and Austin [R., Vt.].

2 SLEEPERS LAID OFF A DAY; 212 STRIKE AT DODGE B-29 PLANT

Because two electricians were given a one day lay-off Monday for sleeping on the job at the Dodge Chicago plant, where engines for B-29 Super Fortresses are produced, 212 electricians, helpers, and oilers were on strike yesterday.

The strike started Monday when 67 electricians, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, left their jobs because of the penalty imposed.

The two penalized workers' suspensions ended yesterday, but they joined the strikers and remained away, too, company officials said.

QUARREL TOLD IN STAB DEATH AT GREAT LAKES

The fatal stabbing Oct. 6 of Coxswain Eugene Roberts, 21, of Miami, Fla., in a shower room at the Great Lakes naval training center had been preceded by a quarrel which began when Roberts addressed Henry Combs Walston, 18, Negro steward's mate as "Hya, Jack," Seaman Joseph T. Hardin, 21, testified yesterday before Federal Judge William J. Campbell, where Walston is on trial for murder. Harden said that Walston answered that his name was "not Jack but Walston," and that Roberts retorted: "You're Jack to me."

RED CROSS BOON TO WOUNDED AND WEARY IN BRITAIN

American Staff Aided by Many Britons.

DRIVE STARTS MARCH 1
The national Red Cross war fund drive starts March 1 with a goal of $200,000,000. The Chicago area quota is $11,300,000. The following story is one in a series of objective, factual surveys being made by Tribune correspondents.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Altho a number of Red Cross units have moved to France since D-day, an American staff of 3,000, aided by 24,000 British workers, of whom half are unpaid volunteers, continues a widespread program of activities thruout the United Kingdom.

Much of the organization's work now is among American casualties sent back here from continental battlefields.

There are 127 service clubs in the United Kingdom where officers and men may obtain a bed for 40 cents and meals for 25 cents. These clubs, popular with men on leave, who find it difficult to get into Britain's crowded hotels, offer many services to Americans in a strange land. They provide a cashier, where money and valuables may be deposited, information on trains, sightseeing tours, shopping centers, theaters, and movies. They provide facilities for sending cables home, and have barber shops, pressing services, and shoe shine parlors.

Arrange Entertainments.

Entertainment programs at the clubs include dances, movies, cabaret shows, discussion groups, music, and, in the summer, picnics, swimming parties, and other outings are organized, as well as a wide range of sporting events.

One hundred and eighteen field clubs offer similar facilities to the men in the field, altho they don't provide sleeping accommodations or serve full meals. Designed for use by troops in their leisure time, they offer entertainment, snack bars, reading and writing facilities.

There are 46 "doughnut dugouts" at minor military installations, where coffee, soft drinks, and doughnuts are served.

Sixty clubmobiles travel from unit to unit, dispensing coffee and doughtnuts, as well as gum, cigarets, and matches, and providing music from a phonograph.

Travel About Britain.

Nine entertainment units travel about Britain, doing as many as eight shows daily in hospital wards and recreation huts. Consisting of singers, accordion players, and comedians, the groups tour two weeks, rest four days, then hit the road again. Twenty eight cinemobiles carry the latest movies to remote posts. Five hostesses organize musical programs at the aeroclubs.

Rest home projects are becoming increasingly important as casualties grow. There are 17 air force rest homes and two convalescent homes for ground troops.

HELEN HAYES TO STAR IN NEW W-G-N DRAMAS

Programs Devoted to Nurse Recruitment.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Helen Hayes, the distinguished actress, will star in a new radio dramatic series to be introduced over W-G-N and Mutual at 9:15 p. m. next Sunday. The program will be devoted to nurse recruitment for the military services. On the first broadcast, which will come from W-G-N studios, Miss Hayes will appear in a drama about Maj. Flora Fellmeth of the army nurse corps, the last army nurse to leave Manila before the Japanese captured the city. Maj. Fellmeth is now stationed in Chicago. Miss Hayes is now on tour as star of "Harriet."

Wounded veterans in all American base hospitals have been invited by Kate Smith to tell tall tales, the best of which she will read on her Sunday evening show. For the best whopper of the week she will give $250, and there will be 10 extra awards each week of $10 each. On her final broadcast of the year she will give $1,000 for the tallest tale of the year.

RECAPTURE TWO WHO FLED FROM STATE SCHOOL

Robert Anderson, 16, of Rockford, and William Cordts, 17, of 2329 Washington blvd., inmates of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, escaped yesterday while working in the dairy barn by climbing up inside the 40 foot silo and then climbing down the outside. Both were recaptured an hour and a half later in Geneva. Anderson, a parole violator, was sent to the school originally in August, 1939, for truancy. Cordts was sent to the school last Oct. 27 on a charge of auto theft.

ADMITS SETTING 75 NORTH SIDE HOMES ON FIRE

Walter Haag, 37, of 1744 Barry av., driver of a soft drink company truck, who was arrested yesterday, admitted that he started 75 fires in the last four years at homes in his neighborhood, Chief of Detectives Walter Storms said last night. The damage caused by the fires was estimated at $100,000 by Earle Downes, city fire attorney. He said there were no casualties in the fires. Haag pointed out to police 40 homes where he said he started fires.

Walter Haag.

Haag's usual practice, he told police, was to pour oil on waste in a bushel basket, place it on a back porch, then drop a match into the oil. He would run a block or more and then would experience what he called "elation," police said. He was arrested by Detectives Frank Grady and James Garvey from the detective bureau.

Haag, who lives with his mother, told police he was released from the Elgin state hospital several years ago, and previously had been committed to the state hospitals at Lincoln and Dixon for sex crimes.

Which of his two wives will he come home to . . . Mrs. "Gay" or Mrs. "Glum"?

We Also Need FOOD!

AMERICA'S FARM MANPOWER has been stretched . . . and stretched. There isn't any more stretch left. It's at the breaking point!

Further losses in farm manpower are bringing losses in production—food production for our fighting men . . . food for our fighting allies . . . food for our own tables!

It's like this: When manpower is critical on the farm, dairy products are the first to suffer. Cows must be milked twice daily—7 days a week—and it takes skilled labor to do it.

In terms of milk on the farm, 39% of the food of American soldiers consists of milk, butter, cheese, evaporated and powdered milk, and ice cream. Our armed forces eat more dairy products than any other kind of food!

Despite lack of equipment . . . despite worn-out machinery . . . despite manpower shortages . . . despite hundreds of thousands of farm boys now enlisted in the armed services . . . America's farmers have broken food production records.

They've never struck . . . never hoarded labor . . . never called quits. They won't now.

But with manpower at the breaking point . . . it is now time to invoke the full protection of farm manpower that our Congress wisely afforded to maintain the food supply of all the nation! Everyone agrees—the armed forces must be fed—and fed right! Food for the home front is also vital. A balance must be struck, in manpower and production. Farms are No. 1 War Plants. America owes it to its fighting men . . . as well as its families and children . . . to see that the farmer who is essential to war production, and who cannot be replaced, is KEPT PRODUCING FOOD!

MR. BYRNES' AUSTERITY CAMPAIGN.

War Mobilization Director Byrnes has ordered a midnight curfew for all places of amusement, including saloons, night clubs, bowling alleys, and theaters.

He gives as his principal excuse the fuel shortage, asserting that the move is designed to save coal used for heating and electric current, but added that the closing would also be useful in the transportation, man power, and other fields. A case might be made for closing saloons and amusement centers at midnight in order to get war workers and others to their jobs in the morning with a full night's sleep. If that is desirable, however, Mr. Byrnes has not explained why the step was not taken three years ago instead of now, when the demand for war products has either reached its peak or perhaps passed it.

There is a coal shortage. To a large extent it seems to be a lack of coal in the right places rather than a shortage in the total supply of fuel. The usual yardstick for the visible supply of coal in the country is the number of days that it would last if production stopped. There was a 45 day supply on Jan. 1, which was six days' supply less than on Dec. 1 but three days' supply more than was in sight on Jan. 1 last year. The coal shortage is largely related to the railroad tie-ups in the eastern part of the country, caused by unusually severe blizzards, and the peak of that crisis is already passed.

Mr. Byrnes' main excuse for his order may become invalid in a few weeks, but he gives no assurances that the curfew will be called off at the end of that period. Instead, he talks of collateral benefits, including man power gains. Just how man power is to be made available by his order he does not explain, unless it is to be expected that the curfew will force a considerable number of saloons or amusement spots to go out of business entirely. Certainly the fact that employes quit work at midnight instead of one, or two, or four a. m. is not going to make much more man power available.

In common with other promulgators of New Deal edicts, Mr. Byrnes has been making some rather grandiose estimates of the beneficial results that will flow from his restrictive orders. He has been specific in no instance. At no time has he made even an estimate of the number of tons of coal that would be saved by his various orders, or of the number of employes who would be freed for war work or fighting.

Congress should require that he make such estimates, if only to determine whether he knows what he is talking about. It should go further and demand that he report back within a very short period on the amount of coal he has actually saved and the number of people he has actually made available for more essential jobs. Failing such control, there would be no limit to the extent to which he could discommode citizens by the exercise of arbitrary and often extralegal power.

The curfew cannot be regarded as an isolated incident. It is part of a pattern of austerity which the New Deal, led generally by Mr. Byrnes, has been seeking to impose on the people ever since Mr. Roosevelt got safely over the fourth term hump.

There is a shameful contrast between all these orders and the carefree pre-election utterances that the war was virtually won, industry could start reconverting and Mr. Roosevelt was going to spend the fourth term writing the peace and providing 60 million jobs.

There are, beyond doubt, a great many people within the New Deal who do not deem the casualty lists sufficient to impress on the people the gravity of the war. They think it necessary to think up as many annoyances as they can in order to make the civilian public realize that we are fighting a bloody war.

But this alone does not explain Mr. Byrnes' latest order. The administration is using every device on which it can lay its hands to pass the labor draft bill, which would subject every worker in American industry to burocratic slavery. Mr. Byrnes' latest order, like Secretary Stimson's radio maunderings of the previous evening, is part of a propaganda campaign to convince the public that the situation is more serious than we think; so serious, in fact, that we must ignore the 13th amendment in order to win the four freedoms.

This is the New Dealers' last chance to put their chains on every working man in America. They recognize that if they do not put across the work or jail bill before Berlin's fall, they will never be able to get away with it.

CONGRESS IN TRANSITION.

The house has passed the bill divorcing the federal lending agencies from the department of commerce. The measure, known as the George bill, had already been approved by the senate and the President is expected to sign it. He wishes he didn't have to, but he recognizes the obvious fact that the majority in the senate won't confirm Mr. Wallace's appointment as secretary of commerce on any other terms.

There the matter rests for the moment. Mr. Wallace's appointment to the cabinet will be considered by the senate about March 1. Experienced reporters in Washington predict that there will be a battle, but that Mr. Wallace will be confirmed.

What does all this mean? Does it suggest that congress is ready to support the advanced New Dealers in their plans to socialize the nation? Does it indicate the contrary? In our view it provides no clear answer. Congress has yet to make up its mind.

All that is clear is that a substantial minority of the Democrats and a very large majority of the Republicans resent the PAC's influence in the administration and will coöperate—up to a point—in counteracting it. Whether this alliance will grow in solidarity and determination remains to be seen. It is already strong enough in both houses to force the President to accept the George bill. It was almost strong enough in each house to force the consideration of the Wallace appointment at once and if that had been done there is no doubt that he would have been rejected. The change of one vote in the senate or of five votes in the house would have been enough to bring this result about.

As matters stand, Mr. Wallace, the darling of the Socialists and Communists, seems likely to get his chair in the cabinet. He may yet get his hands on the billions that are in possession of the government's lending agencies. Mr. Taft brought this out clearly in the memorable debate in the senate on Feb. 1. As he said, the President, under the war powers act, is free to transfer agencies hither and yon within the administration. The day after Mr. Wallace is confirmed as secretary of commerce, "the President could place in his charge the foreign economic administration which has the Export-Import bank, which controls the United States Commercial company with a capital of $1,000,000,000. The day after that he could tell whoever was in charge of the RFC to give the United States Commercial company another $5,000,000,000, and a man appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate could not well refuse to carry out such an order."

Recent events in congress have shown that there is a substantial majority desirous of preserving the Republic and its institutions. This majority is divided between the two parties and coöperation is not easily achieved. Perhaps with practice the two elements will learn to work together more effectively. Otherwise, the formation of a new party, dedicated to the preservation of constitutional government and free enterprise, seems inevitable.

SECRET DIPLOMACY.

The state department has refused to confirm or deny the authenticity of the purported allied armistice terms to Italy which were placed in the Congressional Record by Sen. Styles Bridges.

The armistice terms quoted by Sen. Bridges were first published in the International Law review of Geneva, Switzerland, edited by Dr. Antoine Sottile, professor at the Academy of International Law at The Hague and a permanent delegate to the league of nations. The source is reputable and the terms as given are not likely to be exaggerated.

The armistice terms were accepted in behalf of Italy by Marshal Badoglio in September, 1943, and a year and a half later are still an official secret. Last October, in a statement nicely timed to influence Italian-American votes in the election, Mr. Roosevelt suggested to Secretary of War Stimson that the daily bread ration in American occupied Italy be increased from 200 to 300 grams. Congress received a complaint just the other day that the increase was never carried out, but Mr. Roosevelt had again shown himself to be the great humanitarian and had demonstrated his love for the Italians.

It now develops from the armistice terms submitted by Sen. Bridges that harsher exactions could hardly have been imposed upon a defeated nation. Labor levies involving 2 million Italian workers are said to be part of the terms; 800,000 of these to be transported to Russia, and 200,000 each to Britain, Australia, South Africa, Brazil, and the United States. Mr. Grew says there is no provision for exporting laborers. At any rate, none of the four last named countries has suffered any war damage, and what we would do after the war with 200,000 immigrants is a mystery. Maybe the New Deal intends to fit them into that program of 60 million jobs.

The territorial clauses are quite consonant with the historic British custom of acquiring a little real estate here and there, providing as they do for the cession of Pantelleria and Lampedusa and leaving the fate of the Italian colonies in Africa to later decision. Greece, which Mr. Churchill has purged of what he calls Trotskyites, will get the Aegean Islands; Yugoslavia will pick up Istria and the cities of Fiume and Zara, and France, in line with Gen. de Gaulle's conception of her imperial destiny, is also declaring herself in. We may expect the Italians, who raised a considerable commotion over the Tyrol in days gone by, to return to the cry of "Italia Irredenta," with an occasional reference to Articles 1, 2, and 3 of the Atlantic Charter, now thoroly submerged in the soup.

Anglo-American control is recognized over Italian banks and heavy industry, according to the Geneva document, which states that "after the war 50 per cent of the capital of these Italian enterprises shall be in the hands of the Anglo-Saxon countries." If this is the fact, we have the reason why Wall street and/or the state department are keeping mum, and also an explanation of what all those Wall streeters are doing in Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet and the state department.

The motives behind the defections of Secretary Stimson and the late Secretary of the Navy Knox from the Republican party, and the reasons for the nomination at the behest of Wall street of two internationalists of such proved fidelity as Mr. Willkie and Gov. Dewey become crystal clear from this perspective. There's gold in that war, and apparently our slogan is to be, "One world, one Wall street, and fancy pickings for the insiders."

Sen. Bridges has rendered a valuable service in bringing the Geneva disclosures to the attention of the American people at this time, when the deceit of Dumbarton Oaks is to be given a permanent charter at San Francisco, at the international conference convening April 25. The hyphenated Americans have become raucous in plans that mask the rankest sort of self-interest in hypocritical rhetoric about the new world order. Patriots now given a vision of the interests and motives of those who stand to profit enormously must not allow themselves to be intimidated by these semi-foreigners.

A prediction that the Nazis will make the last stand at Munich evokes a stirring picture of the original beer hall boys backed against the bar mirror with bung-starters drawn.—Detroit News.

MINOR DISCOVERIES.

Hitler's much-mentioned retreat in the Bavarian Alps at Berchtesgaden, facetiously named Mon Délire in this column, actually has a name. Our first glimpse of it in print came a few days ago when a kind reader sent us a book he had bought there as a tourist in 1936. This name, running true to summer villa form, is Haus Wachenfeld. Our idea of an idiomatic translation is Lookout Meadow.

Iwo Island, now of first page importance, was Sulphur Island until Nippon annexed it in 1891, and it has two neighbors whose names appear to mean North Iwo and South Iwo. Their pre-Japanese names were San Alessandro and San Augustino. Before this war the small archipelago was lacking in nonmilitary interest except to vulcanologists, who could easily find bigger and better volcanoes elsewhere.

The German town of Xanten, marked on the daily maps that have been showing the British-Canadian advance southeast of Kleve, is supposed to be the birthplace of Siegfried, hero of Teutonic mythology, after whom Wagner named an opera and Hitler a zone of military defense. The Niebelungenlied itself is authority for this tradition. (In addition to this bit of glamor, Xanten offered to peace time tourists St. Victor's cathedral, with a lavishly decorated interior, an art pottery works, and the Kleve gate, built in 1393, containing a collection of antique gems. In the vicinity is a Roman camp, excavated in 1905, which served as headquarters for campaigns on the lower Rhine, and also an amphitheater where the legions of Julius Caesar and Germanicus improved their morale for frontier service.

FOUR STAR SHOW.

Spring comes dancing down the hillside,
Apple blossoms in her hair;
Sylvan-slender, poised on tiptoe,
Drifting fragrance everywhere.

Summer, deep in petaled rose drift;
Languorous, her subtle charms
Luring lovers to their wooing,
Swoons at last in Autumn's arms.

Autumn, wrapped in russet mantle,
Waits in cool, defiant stance;
Challenging with flaming color
Winter's ermine white advance.

Winter whistles thru his fingers;
Stamps his feet to make them warm;
Howls like some unholy banshee;
Rides the world in ice and storm.

When the final curtain falters
On life's theater, and we Pass reluctant thru the exit
To the street—and destiny—
Who can doubt the all-wise Author
Of the seasonal tableau,
"Spring and Summer, Autumn, Winter,"
Has for us a greater Show?

How to Lose Faith in the Masses.

Linemaster: On the corner of Van Buren and Dearborn sts. is a newsstand which, for quite some time, has been unattended. I gather that the owner must be a patient, trusting soul, because every day for a long spell he placed the papers on the stand and then tended to other interests, trusting that the masses would be honest.

Evidently the masses are not honest, for soon there appeared an invitation in the form of an empty cigar box. This device was too discreet, however, and the next invitation was a small sign which listed prices. Nor did this work. A second sign soon appeared, reading "Kindly deposit money for newspapers in this cigar box."

I am now convinced that the man has lost all faith in human nature. He has added a postscript which is a fearful denunciation of the human race. It says: "Kindly deposit money for newspapers in this cigar box—don't not!"

IF SPRING IS SLOW.

And what if spring is slow to come this year?
You need not mind, for half of beauty lies
In the anticipation of surprise,
In the expectancy of its career.
So long as one remembers other springs—
The spice of wild plum blossoms, and the flutes
Of hermit thrush and quail, the restless roots,
And dragon flies trying their jeweled wings—
So long as one has not forgotten how
April can startle you upon return
And take your breath away as you discern
The shape of life designing vine and bough,
Lean back and wait in patient quietude
And spring will come to meet you thru your mood.

Flossie, cutting thru a downtown store, was amazed to see a lineup of about 50 people. She dashed madly into line, shouting gleefully, "Cigarets! ! ! ???" To which the dim-wit ahead of her replied, "Naw, not cigarets. Bananas. Teehee!" Flossie says if this keeps up, we may be known to future generations as the Line Age.

A. R. S. writes: "My husband was killed in action in December, 1944, and I have received insurance benefit papers to fill out. Since I am 35, it appears I will receive benefits according to a table for that age. However, there appears to be a choice of two methods of receiving payment, but I cannot find any one to tell me which to take. Can you give a simple explanation of how they work out?"

If a beneficiary in the age group 30 to 69, elects the first choice, regular monthly payments will be made during the entire life of the first beneficiary. At the same time, the government guarantees that at least 120 such payments will be made either to the named beneficiary, a contingent beneficiary if named, or to the next of kin within the permitted class of beneficiaries. If the first beneficiary dies before all the guaranteed payments have been made, however, the government will make the remainder of the 120 payments to the next beneficiary and no more.

If the second choice is made, the rate of payment is lower, but the government guarantees to pay out at least the full face value of the policy if there is any one within the permitted class of beneficiaries to receive the payments. We have a data sheet "Insurance Benefit Payments" based on official information. We will send it on request accompanied by a stamped envelope. It explains in simple language and by example how these choices work out.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

FIND THE IRRITANT IN ECZEMA.

It scarcely seems possible that the battle against a disfiguring eruption so prone to attack babes—eczema—was initiated but 50 years ago. Of course, there were vague hints. But it was not until the late '90s that research workers began to understand that the malady bore some relationship to food. About this time, the effects of egg and milk proteins were studied and many a youngster was deprived of these important edibles because he was unable to take them without developing severe reactions on the epidermis.

But the greatest progress has been made within the last dozen or 15 years, altho the condition has not yet been conquered completely. Now and then the disorder will yield to a very simple change in the menus or to protection from an external irritant. Countless tots have been saved a long and distressing bout because parents coöperated fully and followed directions explicitly.

Once the allergy is recognized, mothers are instructed to handle the tiny sufferer only when absolutely necessary [change of diapers, etc.]. The sleeping room should be devoid of rugs, drapes, and plants. Neither birds nor other animals are allowed anywhere on the premises, and scrupulous cleanliness is the order of the day. When it comes to the bedding, even the mattress is filled with cotton or kapok. No woolen garments or blankets are permitted, and all quilts should be prepared from nonallergic materials. Sheets must be specially laundered so that not an atom of soap will remain in the fabric.

With some victims, soap is not recommended; with others, it may be used safely. In the majority of cases, however, plain Castile [unperfumed] will probably do no harm. It would be ideal if distilled water could be utilized. At any rate, the fluid should be boiled and then set aside to cool, in order to clear away disinfectants that may have been added.

Mention should be made of the fact that nervousness will accentuate the ailment and that excitability or anger on the part of those in charge will be reflected in the child's disposition and increase the severity of the lesions. Finally, it should be kept in mind that some visitors may be dangerous, particularly those who have employed nail polish or certain types of perfume and face powders; as well as those who wear silk, wool, or furs.

If the culprit can be found and eliminated, the problem is solved. But it is usually well to start local treatments without delay, and here, the services of a skilled specialist will be needed. There are so many remedies, each with a specific reason for its administration, that the experience of an expert is required.

An illustration of milk sensitivity is cited by H. M. Robinson. The condition was recognized early—at the age of one month. Later, all milk and eggs were removed from the diet. While some improvement occurred, total disappearance of the blemishes did not take place until a year or more had elapsed, when the brand of bakery bread which had been used was changed. It appears that milk had been mixed in the dough and only when a milk-free bread was substituted, was the lad placed on the road to recovery. Today he is 18 years old and is possessed of an abiding loathing for dairy products in any form.

ORIGINAL TERM.

Mrs. R. writes: We never hear about prontosil any more. Several years ago it was hailed as a miracle drug.

REPLY.

Prontosil is one of the early trade names for sulfanilamide. It has been superseded largely by newer compounds, which cause fewer reactions.

"CATCHING" FLU.

F. L. writes: Is influenza caused by becoming chilled?

REPLY.

Chilling lowers resistance and may invite any species of "bug" to flourish. A filtrable virus is thought to be responsible for "flu." It is not necessarily the principle cause but it may be a precipitating factor.

A NEGATIVE PROCESS.

J. A. writes: Are indigestion and dyspepsia the same?

REPLY.

Yes, altho the term "indigestion" covers the failure of the process of digestion anywhere along the alimentary canal; while "dyspepsia" is usually confined to the stomach.

JUST THE SAME.

A. N. writes: Can tears flow from an eye that is totally blind?

REPLY.

Yes. No relationship between the tear ducts and blindness.

My Son.

ILLINOIS SUNFLOWER.

Mrs. Burbank at Large.

Word has just come this way of a dear, considerate lady who went to a movie last Saturday night. She had a cold and a hacking cough, so, rather than drive the other cash customers nutty, she reached in her home medicine cabinet before she left, took out a box of cough drops, and slipped it into her bag. As always happens when one goes forearmed, she didn't cough at all, but a lady in front of her did. She reached forward, tapped her on the shoulder, and offered the cougher a drop. The cougher took it gratefully and coughed no more. Every one was happy. Late that night as the solicitous one prepared to go to bed, she opened her medicine cabinet. There lay the box of cough drops. In utter panic she rushed to her bag. In it was a box of Vigoro tablets, those pellets you drop in with the flowers and pray they'll grow. The thought of what she had done to the movie cougher was intolerable. She tried to sleep, but could not. Finally she called the druggist. "Will it hurt her?" she asked frantically. "No, ma'am, it won't hurt her," the druggist soothed, "but it may make her sick. You fed her about two spades full of manure."

Straws in the Wind.

The war must be nearing an end. The war department now is disposing of such indispensables to armed belligerency as wooden rifles, onion bags, bathroom scales, plywood portfolios, and explorers.

These and 231 other classifications of items were offered for public bidding as surplus to war by the salvage officer of the Miami Beach service base last month. He found them all in his warehouse, including the 76 explorers described only as "assorted sizes." The inventory came our way this week, a month, alas, too late, and is the best explanation offered to date of why so many intrepid citizens have flaunted famine, flood, and pestilential trains to make the Florida trek. There, if diligent, they found leavening for their winter of discontent, for among the surplus were 1,765 pairs of stockings [WAC], 280 panties [WAC], 1,100 shower curtains, 230 fancy sun goggles, one sewing machine [incomplete], one garden hose, 500 water hoses, one hot water tank, one eight day wall clock, and 650 aluminum kitchen utensils, all articles long denied the civilian.

At this writing a few items still bother us, such as the 679 hats, described as H. B. T.; the 11 snips, aviation, and the 500 pounds of Ozark, scrap, but from intensive study of the others you can get a smattering of why this war costs so much. For example, the inventory lists five wire bird cages but only one bird cage stand. It lists 24 football inflators, but only 21 footballs and only 14 football bladders. It lists 24 mop handles, but no mops; 133 ping-pong paddles, two ping-pong nets [with braces], but no ping-pong balls; 42 baseballs, but only 15 baseball bats [broken], and six couch pillows, but no couch. O, yes, and one toastmaster, incomplete; 12 grease guns, incomplete; 550 pounds of rusty barb wire, and one metal flower stand, but no flowers.

The army does strange things [who was the first to say that?], so think nothing at all of the quixotic manner in which it lists cotton sox and raincoats by the pound [565 pounds of sox, 615 pounds of raincoats] instead of the piece, for army regulations also demand that the date be in backhand. [See: 21 Feb., 1945.] Disregard, too, the soft ball masks and gas mask carriers, but no gas masks, with which it is winding up this war, the eight rear end housings, the six trays of upper and lower teeth, the wooden plane, and the bridge table. The path of war is difficult, the approach devious. But is it possible for any one with the facts at his command to explain how a manicure table got into our total war?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE FUEHRERPRINZIP.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 13.—President Roosevelt's message to congress dated Feb. 12, on Bretton Woods proposals, contains one phrase that is revealing and significant. He says, "They [the peoples of the world] are eager to go to work again, and to create again with their own hands and under their own leaders the necessary physical basis of their own lives." That phrase, "under their own leaders," reveals the completely reactionary Tory of the late 18th century. The American people do not want to do anything whatever under any leader. On the rare occasion [I hope] when we recognize the need for a "leader" [i. e.: fuehrer, duce] it is to follow him into battle. In peace time we not only repudiate the mere thought of being "under" any one, but we consider the men who constitute the state as the servants of the people. Being "under" any one means servitude, subserviency at best, and it is entirely foreign to the liberal revolution, two of whose great fruits were the French revolution and the American Constitution. The socialist counter-revolution, which has been under way all over the world under the guise of interventionism in this country, thru more extreme interventionism in England, socialism in Sweden, national socialism [Zwangswirtschaft] in Germany, to the extreme of pseudo-communism in Russia, has as its cornerstone this idea of the people being "under" their "leaders," meaning "masters"—and who is our master to be, but big government, the omnipotent state?

Mr. Roosevelt also points out that the representatives of 44 nations, of all kinds of ideologies, agreed on the Bretton Woods proposals. Bearing in mind the impossibility of getting agreement between more than any two components of the British commonwealth of nations, or of any three men at a prize-fight, to say nothing of the intransigeance of European and South American countries, one is forced to suspect that the basic point on which this miraculous agreement was reached was to let Uncle Sam pay for it. H. E. S.

A BILL TO HELP SIDNEY.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 14.—I have heard a lot about the "Work or Jail" bill now before the senate, but as yet no one has put his finger on the real reason behind the purported shortage of labor in war plants.

After the election was over, a lot of people, believing what Mr. Roosevelt implied—namely: that the war was just about over and the only reason he wanted to be elected was to write the peace—quit their war jobs. They wanted to get into a job with post-war prospects and they were tired of paying tribute to Sidney Hillman and his gang. The paramount objective behind this bill is that the more people forced into war plants, the more tribute they will pay to Sidney Hillman and his gang. The more they collect the more they can contribute to the PAC to spend in behalf of the New Deal. The American people, if told the truth, do not have to have any kind of a law to force them to support their country.

COMPETITION IN AVIATION.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14—For some months I have been up to my neck in work with Eddie Rickenbacker and others to get across adequately to the public and to congress the proposition that in planning our United States air transports for overseas we need not surrender to the monopolists, or follow in the lead of the British or any foreign country, or do anything but drive along in true American fashion. We are for competition, and I always knew that THE TRIBUNE was.

I am delighted to have it brought home so forcefully as was the case in your issues of Jan. 28 and Feb. 5 in two fine editorials, one called "Overseas Aviation" and the other "Air Line Competition."

With such help, we plan to go forward, but we cannot feel that the battle is won so long as smooth words are being passed around to the effect that thru the use of a single "chosen instrument" or "community company" we can better meet the foreigners.

ALEXANDER B. ROYCE,
Chairman, Air Lines Committee for United States Air Policy.

SITTERS' LAMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—If there is a man power shortage in the Chicago area, some one should inform congress that all the man power they want is hanging around the various United States employment service offices, where civilians, as well as vets, of which I am one, are given the run-around. We are allowed to spend most of a full day or maybe two days in quest of a job while the personnel of the USES shoot spit balls and rubber bands at each other for want of excitement.

Four other vets and I finally started to sing an adaption of the song "I'm Getting Corns for My Country Dancing at the Hollywood Canteen." We changed the words slightly to conform to sitting around the USES. A VET.

JOINING THE NEW DEAL?

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Have Vandenburg and Dewey decided to become a part of a one-party system of government in this country? Have the leaders of the Republican party given up and adopted an old slogan of the south, "If you cain't beat 'em, jine 'em?"

IGNORANCE IS BLISS.

KUM BUM FOUND GUILTY; JUDGE FREES TWO AIDS

Hearing Granted on Plea for New Trial.

Hugh Greer Carruthers, the bearded Kum Bum of the Neological foundation, 185 N. Wabash av., was found guilty of mail fraud on 34 counts yesterday by a federal jury of seven women and five men. A motion for a new trial was entered and Judge Philip L. Sullivan set the hearing for March 9.

The jury also returned a verdict of guilty against the two co-defendants, Miss Mary Morel, 42, and Miss Evelyn Kroell, 39, but the women won their freedom when Judge Sullivan ruled in favor of a motion of acquittal which was made long before the jury made its finding and which he had held under advisement several days.

Judge Sullivan invoked the unusual procedure when he denied a motion for a directed verdict in favor of the defendants, but announced he would accept a seldom offered motion for a judgment of acquittal instead. Walter Bachrach and Edward J. Hess, defense attorneys, so moved, and Judge Sullivan reserved his ruling until after the jury's report.

Gives Reasons for Ruling.

The judge explained his reasons for ruling in favor of acquittal by stating that the two co-defendants had not shared in the fruits of the fraud, for they received only their salaries, and that the two occupied the same position as several government witnesses who were formerly employed by Carruthers.

"These two women have been hypnotized the same as the witnesses who have testified here," he said.

Asst. United States Atty. Francis McGreal objected to the acquittals and contended that Carruthers should be taken into custody and his bond of $8,000 doubled.

"This faker is now and has been during the trial collecting money from innocent people, and should be put in jail before he starts soliciting funds for a new trial," McGreal said. "I also understand he may not be available for the hearing March 9 because of legal action contemplated in regard to his marriages."

Refers to Marriages.

The government counsel was referring to the defendant's marriage in 1908 to Mrs. Minnette Boerum, the mother of his twin daughters and a soldier son, who is in the South Pacific, and his subsequent marriage in 1933 to Mildred Simpson, a former Pittsburgh, Pa., school teacher.

The second wife is now living with Carruthers in Bangor, Mich., altho the government contends he never was divorced from the first.

During the three hour wait for a verdict, Carruthers sat smiling at the defense table, or strolled up and down the hall receiving encouraging handshakes and pats on the back from his faithful followers. Many of his followers testified at the trial that they were benefited by his neological teachings, including the positive and negative lessons on breathing, the silence treatment, and lessons on success.

Silent over Verdict.

Judge Sullivan warned against any demonstration over reading of the verdict, which was received with expressionless faces by the two women defendants. The Kum Bum refused to comment on the verdict. He faces maximum penalties of 167 years in the penitentiary and $70,000 in fines.

During the three weeks trial the government introduced 52 witnesses who testified they had been swindled of various amounts invested in a shampoo, Nan-Gene and a laxative, Happy Hearts.

TROLLEY PILOT K.O.'D; CARGOES FOR WILD RIDE

A westbound street car on Armitage av. sped across the busy Ashland av. intersection yesterday out of control of the motorman, George Hoijer, who was unconscious from a blow struck on the back of his head by a drunken passenger.

Policeman Harry Martin swung aboard the car two blocks west of Ashland av., as Hoijer was rising groggily to his feet. The motorman said he was knocked out as his car was crossing Elston av., a block and a half east of Ashland av.

Arvo Walitalo, a deputy sheriff from Baraga, Mich., was arrested by Policeman Martin. Hoijer said Walitalo hit him from behind. Walitalo became unruly after getting on the car at Lincoln av. and Clark st., and at Clybourn av. he punched a passenger in the stomach, Hoijer said. Walitalo was fined $100 by Municipal Judge Michael Tremko for disorderly conduct.

10,000 Gallons

The office staff of the United States employment service at 308 N. Michigan av., used mops and pails instead of pencils and typewriters when they came to work yesterday morning. Upon arrival they found the four story building drenched and water an inch deep on the floors after a 10,000 gallon water tank on the roof had unleashed a flood when a pipe froze and broke during the night. Hundreds of applicants for jobs were forced to wait until the offices were cleaned. Repairs were begun immediately.

Col. Charles J. Kraft, 55, owner of the Kraft Appraisal and Engineering company, was reported named in 10 true bills charging embezzlement voted yesterday by the grand jury. Kraft was indicted last week on the complaint of Mrs. Grace Maynard of Glencoe that he had swindled her of $1,859. Kraft was arraigned on the first indictment yesterday before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in Criminal court, but requested a continuance until his attorney, Harold Levy, returned to Chicago. Judge Harrington continued the hearing until March 20.

BABY KIDNAPING LAID TO MENTAL LAPSE OF WIFE

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 20 [Special].—Mrs. Melba Branson, 19, was temporarily out of her mind when she kidnaped Milly McGill, 2 months old, from a hotel here last Jan. 9, according to medical testimony offered today in her defense at her trial on kidnaping charges. The case is expected to reach the jury before noon tomorrow.

Mrs. Branson and the baby's mother, Mrs. Velma McGill, 19, have become friends since the kidnaping. Mrs. McGill recently sued her husband for divorce and asked that Mrs. Branson be given Milly's custody. The women sat side by side in court today and took turns holding the baby.

Testifying in behalf of his wife, Lt. C. E. Branson, a B-29 pilot from the Laredo army air field, said she became moody in December after losing an expected baby of her own.

VET WHO KILLED RAPER OF WIFE GETS 7-15 YEARS

Marine Pleads Guilty to Manslaughter.

Watertown, N. Y., Feb. 20 [Special].—While his wife sobbed brokenly, Marine Corp. Arthur D. Foster, 28, today stoically accepted a prison sentence of 7½ to 15 years on his guilty plea to a charge of manslaughter in the knife slaying of a man she said had raped her while her husband was overseas.

Sentence was pronounced by County Judge Howard B. Donaldson after an hour and a half plea for leniency was made by Claude H. Dunk, defense attorney.

Foster, a veteran of Pacific warfare, remained expressionless, but his wife, Lilybell, 26, mother of three, heard the sentence with tears streaming down her cheeks. Afterward she followed Foster into an anteroom, where they talked before he was taken away in the sheriff's car.

The week old trial, in which nine jurors had been chosen, was suddenly interrupted yesterday when Foster was allowed to plead guilty to a charge of first degree manslaughter. District Atty. Carl J. Hynes recommended acceptance of the plea, expressing the belief it would be impossible to convict Foster of murder, the original charge against him, because of the community's sympathy for him.

Foster's victim was Robert E. Hodkinson, 35, married and the father of five children. The corporal stabbed him to death in a restaurant here last Nov. 16 after Mrs. Foster pointed him out as "the man who raped me."

JURY CONVICTS GRAVEDIGGER IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 20 [Special].—A Circuit court jury deliberated only 15 minutes late today before convicting John Thompson, 56, a gravedigger, of the murder of Mrs. Mary Silger, 28, Leland housewife and mother of two children. The jury fixed the penalty at life imprisonment. The state had asked for death.

Thompson had been arrested last August and placed under a peace bond after Mrs. Silger complained he had molested her in trying to make dates. On Oct. 29 her husband, a truck driver, came home and found her nude and beaten body in the bedroom.

Police later found a bloodstained flashlight, which the state contended was used in the slaying, and bloodstained clothes, some Thompson's and some belonging to Mrs. Silger, in the gravedigger's quarters in a rooming house.

2-GUN GAMBLER HUNTED IN HOTEL BATHTUB DEATH

Police studied a hatful of minor clews in the bathtub death of Mrs. Blanche Zimmerman, 38, of 4025 W. 16th st., in the Atlantic hotel last Saturday as they pushed a search yesterday for a two-gun carrying dice game addict who apparently first met Mrs. Zimmerman in the Silver Bar, State and Van Buren sts., on Feb. 7, and continued to see her frequently until her death.

Mrs. Lillian Snett.

From information provided by Elmer Joseph, 30, bartender at the Victoria Tap, 334 S. Clark st., and Mrs. Lillian Snett, 36, of 1506 S. Kolin av., a friend of Mrs. Zimmerman, police were able to broadcast a "wanted message" for Mrs. Zimmerman's male companion.

Object of Search Described.

The man who registered as J. H. Hanan, Dallas, Tex., and who left the Atlantic hotel two hours before Mrs. Zimmerman's body was found in a tub of still warm water, was described by police as being more than six feet tall, weighing 170 pounds, having a ruddy complexion and being a liberal tipper. He wore a wide brimmed hat, carried a police revolver in a shoulder holster and a snub-nosed revolver in his coat pocket. He also carried a police badge.

Mrs. Snett, who was subjected to a lie detector test Monday, pointed to a confidence man—Walter Wilson—from a batch of photographs, and said, "That's not Hanan, but it looks like him," police reported.

In her story to police, Mrs. Snett said she and Mrs. Zimmerman met Hanan in the Silver Bar on Feb. 7. Hanan introduced himself, bought them several drinks, and then asked them to accompany him to several other taverns, she said. Mrs. Snett said she believed the couple may have met previously.

Await Analysis Report.

Meanwhile, Coroner Brodie said he would investigate the possibility of electrocution as the cause of Mrs. Zimmerman's death, but admitted that a solution probably would not be found until a report of a chemical analysis of the woman's vital organs was received—if then.

Lt. Phil Breitzke, of the detective bureau, disclosed last night that Mrs. Grace Kinson, 35, of 7630 Blackstone av., a friend and co-worker at the Illinois Bell Telephone company of Mrs. Zimmerman, who has been missing since Saturday, was due to arrive yesterday in Mexico City, Mexico.

He said that Mrs. Kinson had attempted to make reservations on Jan. 23 but had been given reservations for last Saturday instead. She left St. Louis, Mo., via the Missouri-Pacific lines on that date. A note to that effect has been found by Mrs. Kinson's husband, Lt. Breitzke said.

U. S. AGENCIES IN DARK ABOUT CURFEW ORDER

Night Life Moguls Ask Details, Get None.

The midnight curfew decreed by War Mobilization Director Byrnes for all places of amusement and entertainment, effective next Monday, brought confusion to Chicago's night life yesterday with no one—least of all the federal agencies—knowing precisely how the order will be enforced or what its ultimate effect would be.

Most speculation concerned the possibility that speakeasies, beer flats and "backrooms" would return as a feature of the city's night life. The prediction was made by Thomas Rosenberg, attorney for the Chicago Cafe Owners' association, which represents the majority of important night clubs and cafes in Chicago.

Predicts Many Forced Closings.

Rosenberg said all members of the association had been urged to begin scheduling earlier floor shows and dinners while the association sought further details from war agencies in Chicago. He said most of the legitimate night clubs and cafes would comply with the order, but predicted many might be forced to close, since most night club profits are made after midnight.

The war agencies to which the operators turned for advice professed ignorance of official enforcement details.

The war production board office here called Washington, D. C., to find out what it was expected to do, and the war man power commission, the office of price administration, and the office of defense transportation said they were uninformed as to the part they will play in enforcing the mandate.

Mayor Promises City's Aid.

Violators, however, observers said, face these possible penalties: Denial of employes by the WMC, shutting off of electricity by the WPB, a ban on delivery of supplies by the ODT, the loss of rationing privileges by the OPA, as well as efforts by local and state authorities who are asked to coöperate in the move.

Mayor Kelly, reached last night at Eagle River, Wis., said:

"If the government asks us to enforce this order, of course we will enforce it."

He declined to say what steps might be taken, but observed that he didn't believe much enforcement would be necessary.

"People are patriotic," he said. "They'll do what the government wants without being compelled to."

County to Enforce Order.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, and Sheriff Mulcahy said the county highway police force will enforce the order in the unincorporated sections of the county where 315 places hold liquor licenses. Most suburban police chiefs and city officials indicated they would coöperate as soon as requests are received for action.

The Greater Chicago Hotel association will meet tomorrow afternoon in the Morrison hotel to discuss compliance with the order, said Joseph I. McDonnell, president of the organization.

N.Y. CLUBS BLAME DRY LOBBY FOR BYRNES' CURFEW

Fear Plan to Revive Prohibiton.

New York, Feb. 20 [Special].—A "multi-million dollar prohibition lobby in Washington" was responsible for the midnight curfew for entertainment places, scheduled to go into effect next Monday, Billy Rose, vice president of the Cafe Owners' guild and owner of the Diamond Horseshoe, charged today.

Rose, speaking at the Cafe Zanzibar at an emergency meeting of night club owners, including operators from Boston, Chicago, and Philadelphia, said the curfew was only one of a series of steps designed to "slip complete prohibition" over on America.

He told the guild, which sponsored the meeting and which has a membership of 25 of the largest night club operators in New York, that War Mobilizer Byrnes might have been "steered into this thing."

Face Post-War Fight.

He proposed that after the emergency is over "we will fight those elements that slipped prohibition over us after the last war." He said the drys had already succeeded in bringing prohibition to several states.

The city's night club owners were furious over the curfew, and they showed it. Operators at the meeting were about evenly divided as to whether they should close their clubs or operate on a modified plan, whereby floor shows would be curtailed.

After some wrangling, they voted to stay open. They said they'll test out the modified plan for four weeks. They said they intend to launch an advertising campaign pledging coöperation with Uncle Sam but denouncing the prohibitionists.

Club Owners' Problems.

The Byrnes order presented the club owners with a number of problems:

1. Curtailment of floor shows. Curtail a floor show and you curtail your performers, and then you get the American Guild of Variety Artists on your tail. The AGVA is in no mood to permit contracts between its members and the clubs to be canceled.

2. Cancelation of blanket contracts with broadcasting stations that put on remote control programs which are broadcast after midnight.

3. The hotel situation. Club owners at the Zanzibar meeting complained that the hotels are rushing in to snatch the big bands now performing in clubs. Big booking agencies are being flooded with calls from hotel managers.

At city hall, Mayor Fiorello La-guardia announced that he will go to Washington tomorrow and talk over the curfew order with Byrnes. He said he spoke by phone today, but wouldn't say what they discussed.

Claire Beneke and Bertrand Goldberg Wed

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE announcement of the marriage yesterday of Miss Claire Beneke and Bertrand Goldberg will come as a surprise to their many friends, not because it was unexpected but because the ceremony was arranged so suddenly. Miss Beneke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beneke of Highland Park, and Mr. Goldberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Goldberg of E. 55th st., were married quietly at 4 p. m. in the Thorndike Hilton Memorial chapel at the University of Chicago, and afterward Mr. and Mrs. Beneke gave a small reception in the Drake hotel.

Only a few of the bride's many Chicago relatives—she has 72 second cousins—and only a handful of intimate friends were present at the reception. Mr. Goldberg's parents were not present as they had left a few days ago for California, nor were the bride's brothers, Henry Jr. and Edward Uihlein Beneke, but her sister, Mrs. Olga Beneke Taylor, was there. The Edward Benekes are living in Columbia, Miss., and Mr. Beneke Jr., is serving with the naval reserve in New Jersey.

Mr. Goldberg and his bride will live in Richmond, Va., where he is engaged in war work. The former Miss Beneke, a member of the Chicago Junior league, was educated at Rosemary Hall and Lake Forest college. Mr. Goldberg, an architect, is a graduate of Harvard university and of the Bauhaus in Germany. He has a sister, Mrs. Harold Strauss.

Suits Are Made Distinctive by New Blouses

BY REA SEEGER.

Blouses that really make a suit a costume of distinction are those shown in the current collections, assembled for the blouse departments only. Clever and most unusual prints are of paramount importance, first, because of the unusual colors and, secondly, because of the prints or designs. The smartest models have white or pale pastel colored backgrounds, with the interesting print designs in fine outline effects, widely spaced to show much more of the background color than the print.

The long sleeved blouses head the list for shopping popularity this spring. Sleeves are full and have for contrast a narrow band cuff neatly buttoned or tied with a bow of the self print material or of contrasting colored grosgrain or satin ribbon. Tucked panels in front or rows of dainty narrow ruffles make the blouses especially decorative for suit jackets of the one-button type, thereby allowing the entire front panel of the blouse to show.

Pale pink as a successful contestant for white is one of the most flattering as well as feminine colors. Both sheers and heavier rayons are plentiful. Intricately fashioned sheers with appliqued motifs of satin or motifs of embroidery or trim of pale pink lace are quite the most tempting models in the "pink" showing.

Fine sheer white blouses of the lingerie type are arriving, in time for the spring rush into navy blue suits. Cascades of lace, jabots, and frilled bosom ruffles edged with either fine lace or embroidered edging make them effective. Striped cottons of strong white and colored contrast, such as green, bright-blue, gold, red, and copper with alternate stripes of white, also are coming in. These are short sleeved affairs with a choice of high round necklines or deep vees and convertible collarlines.

Miss Hellman's Play Is Dull, So Are Its Actors

"THE SEARCHING WIND."

Play by Lillian Hellman, staged by Herman Shumlin, with settings by Howard Bay and costumes by Aline Bernstein. Presented by Mr. Shumlin at the Erlanger Tuesday evening, Feb. 20, 1945.

THE CAST.

Moses Taney	Dudley Digges
Samuel Hazen	Henry Barnard
Ponette	Walter Kohler
Sophronia	Mercedes Gilbert
Emily Hazen	Cornelia Otis Skinner
Alexander Hazen	Dennis King
Catherine Bowman	Barbara O'Neil
First Waiter	Sylvestre Lamont
Second Waiter	Aldo Aldi
Hotel Manager	Anthony Carlo
Eppler	Walter Palm
Edward Halsey	William Marceau
James Sears	Donald Foster
Count Max Von Stammer	William F. Schoeller

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

From where I sat in the Erlanger last night, "The Searching Wind," hailed by at least one Broadway reviewer as a dramatic thunderbolt, was more nearly a tempest in an inkpot, which was too bad, considering that the inkpot belongs to Lillian Hellman, who wrote "The Little Foxes" and "Watch on the Rhine." The new one sounded in advance like a provocative play, something to stir deep audience response.

Miss Hellman, we were told, had with the rest of us looked at the world we live in and asked, "How did we get in this mess and what can we do to keep it from happening again?" No questions are more vital, no answers more eagerly awaited. But her reply is a tepid tale of compromise and appeasement with a half-baked solution of youth running the universe, and not even the flaming backdrop of the world on its way to destruction can give it the breath of life.

The story is basically that of Alexander Hazen, a diplomat who espoused the wrong cause and the wrong woman, was never wholly happy, and lived to see his son maimed in the war he might have helped to stop at one of its many sources. He learned compromise when Mussolini marched on Rome, and he knew more about appeasement in the early days of the German pogroms and Chamberlain's visit to Munich. He meant well, but emerges in the play as a blurred figure regarded rather contemptuously by the old newspaper publisher, who had done a bit of backing down himself at Rome, and by his son, who means to change things, but doesn't yet know how.

Obviously Miss Hellman means the two women to be symbols, but she has forgotten to make them interesting people. Cornelia Otis Skinner, handkerchief to face, plays the rich daughter of the newspaper publisher, and lures Hazen [Dennis King] from Barbara O'Neil, whose severe manner is evidently intended to suggest that she would have spurred him to higher things. Hard to tell. I never saw two duller women on one stage in all my days of playgoing.

Mr. King is Mr. King, nice if you like him, and I do. Dudley Digges plays a stock role in rather more of a stock style than such a fine actor should. Henry Barnard plays the son as if the director had told him to be taut, and there are a lot of comic opera foreigners scooting thru the scenes in Rome, Berlin, and Paris, not to mention the caricature of a refugee Walter Kohler makes of the Hazen's butler. One authentic character, however, is Sophronia, the Negro servant played by Mercedes Gilbert. Only a southerner could have written that role with its native dignity, and one of the most charming touches in the play is Sophronia's smile when the son, who has loved her since childhood, kisses her gently on the cheek.

Mr. Shumlin's direction is not his best, and tho Mr. Bay's settings are good, either some of them are dirtier than they ought to be or ambassadors don't keep a very clean house.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Break It Up, Girls.

One of the objections men raise to girl employees in place of men is that girls throw an office into cliques. "They clack in cliques," an employer remarked the other day, stressing women's tendency to gather in small groups and talk.

Gossip is a fairly universal failing. But when an office is divided into cliques, when there is the question of being "accepted" into this or that group—like a sorority—then you write your own description!

An office isn't an exclusive club. It's a place of business. Those who work in it may or may not be your personal, close friends. But you accept them as associates along with your job.

Bright and discerning as most white collar girls are, this one fact they seldom get thru their pretty heads: Men don't like cliques in an office. When they see the new girl, standing apart, an outsider, ignored by others, employers want to say, "Break it up, girls!"

One of them suggested this column say it for him.

Still Sorting Replies.

I have been waiting for somebody to tell you about Easter Sunday. The most recent year of coincidence of Easter Sunday and All Fool's day was 1934. It happens again in 1945 and in 1956. It happened in 1923, too.

In the 19th century the "lucky years" were 1804, 1866, 1877, and 1888.

THE REAL WORD EXPERT.

Answer to Yesterday's Quiz.

The faults in the business letter printed yesterday are these:

Unnecessary abbreviations—Dec., Gro., Co., St., Pa.

Title "Mr." omitted.

Antiquated salutation.

Trite opening—"This will acknowledge . . ."

Superfluous wording—"Attention," "under date of."

Ugly wording—"you complain," "you failed."

Gloomy wording—"unfortunately," "impossible."

Bewhiskered wording—"the writer," "advise," "thanking," "favors," "we remain."

Foolish wording—"in advance for past favors."

Trite complimentary close.

Damsel Enchanting.

Shake thy hair out, darling;
The soda fountain's just
The place whereat to shake it;
And no one ever fussed

Because of curls aflying
About the drink and food;
O, woman is enchanting
And never, never crude!

SCOUTER.

Our Big Lawsuit.

I've been wondering whether there are any further developments in the initial borrowing case of W. C. Gloer [W. C. G.] versus the White Collar Girl [W. C. G.] or is Bill unwilling to admit that he and his attorney now will settle for six medium sized cigaret butts.

Business Men's Orchestra Does Sibelius Work

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

The Chicago Business Men's orchestra, with 100 members on its rolls, gave the second concert of the season before a sizable and friendly audience in Orchestra hall last night. George Dasch was as usual the conductor, and for a soloist the Chicago soprano, Marjory Hess, whose debut with the Chicago opera occurred during the past season, had been engaged.

Music is a business with Mr. Dasch, but it is a pastime and, one judges, a pleasure for the eager business men who play under him. In the course of their many seasons these amateur musicians have disposed of most of those symphonies which are generally considered to be within the province and ability of the amateur, and to maintain the interest of his group the conductor is now obliged to comb the byways of the literature for his programs.

This time his choice fell upon the Second Symphony of Sibelius. Its technical difficulties, except for the scherzo, are not enormous, but adequate performance demands resources of expressiveness and tonal variety which have been known to tax the abilities of more than one professional orchestra. The pleasure of last night's interpretation, therefore, resided largely with the performers, for altho the effort was brave, only brief flashes of the typical Sibelius gloom or his soaring emotionalism carried over to the audience. Even the majestic peroration, in which there is little for an orchestra to do but play loudly, fell flat because of the conductor's hasty tempo.

Miss Hess began her contributions to the program with the aria "Divinities du Styx" from Gluck's "Alceste." Nothing therein caused her undue vocal concern, but a genuine style for such music, which must have dramatic breadth combined with classical repose, had not entered deeply into the singer's strategy. Santuzza's "Vol lo sapete" from "Cavalleria Rusticana" suited her far better, for it permitted her to display effectively the brilliant upper register which is the best part of her voice, and to give free rein to rampant emotion without worrying about matters of style or taste. Following intermission Miss Hess reappeared to sing three trivial ditties by Charles, Scott, and Hageman, which proved as unimportant in performance as in content.

Piero Pierotic, a Dalmatian baritone built on the Abe Lincoln model, made his debut in recital in Kimball hall last night. He is plainly a routined and experienced artist, with a voice of resonant power that can be reduced at will to a veiled half voice of expressive quality. His manner was a bit too free with classical arias by Gluck, Handel, and Carissimi to satisfy orthodox standards of style, but what Fauré's "Après un Rêve" lacked in subtlety it made up in smooth vocalism, and Grieg's "Ein Schwan" and "Im Kahne" betrayed a definite feeling for poetic interpretation.

'Private Investigator Maclain' . . . . . By Baynard Kendrick

(Copyright: 1945: By Baynard Kendrick.)

INSTALMENT XXXIX.

DUPLICATE COLLECTION.

"I'm driving at the fact that that Buchel pistol might have been set in place two hours, or two days, or a week before it killed Troy, so long as it was left uncocked and Larmar didn't miss it." Maclain said. "It would have been there then, ready and waiting for the murderer to cock it by setting the hair trigger. That wouldn't take five seconds."

Paul said, "She was killed by some one who knew that Winnie was scared of those church chimes and that he ran thru that small opening in the bushes and back of Larmar's desk and hid there every time they rang."

The captain nodded. "Let's go into the gun room and take a look at the catalog."

They sat at the table and the secretary rustled leaves. "Neither the Stotzer nor the Buchel are listed in here. They aren't really a part of the collection."

"Is a Japanese dirk with the name Osaki stamped on the back of the hilt listed there?"

"Yes. What about it?"

"I'd like to examine it."

The captain waited while Paul slid back his chair. A cabinet door creaked. A dagger clunked softly on the table in front of Maclain. He reached out and gingerly picked it up as Paul resumed his chair.

"Where did you find it?" Maclain finally asked.

Paul turned and pointed, forgetting that Maclain was blind. "It was in its usual place right there."

"Show me, please." Maclain got up.

Paul led him to a cabinet and placed Maclain's hand on the dagger's empty bed.

With agile precision, the captain's fingers moved away to scan other weapons in the cabinet, making a detailed audit of their shape and present position.

Paul asked, "Is anything missing?"

"The reverse," said Maclain. "That dagger you just put on the table shouldn't be here. Unless I'm mistaken, it should be down at police headquarters. I felt it the other night when I was in here. Of course, the sense of touch is far from being infallible, but I think that was the dagger that was plunged into Gallagher's stomach today. I'd better make sure, altho I'm certain it was in the same spot in that cabinet the last time I felt it."

He started a tour of the gun room, taking his time, using methodical care to check the weapons along the wall. He quit abruptly and said, "Do something, Paul. Put in a call to Long Island and get Daniel Pine. Call me when you get him. I want to check some more."

He stood where he was until Paul went into the living room, then sat down at the table. When Paul called him, he went out to talk to Pine.

"Did you buy anything else beside that Harper's Ferry pistol from Troy Singleton?" the captain asked without preamble, and added sharply, "You're dealing with a murder, Mr. Pine."

"You're dealing with something that's none of your business," said Pine.

"The police know that Troy sold you that pistol."

"I don't give a hoot what they know," said Pine. "My collection's handled for me by accredited agents. I pay for everything I get, and it's mine."

"You paid a lot too much for that Harper's pistol," said Duncan Maclain.

"What do you mean by that crack?"

"I mean you got stuck." The captain gave a crafty grin. "You could have probably bought it for half the price if you'd dealt thru one of your accredited agents. You paid a fat price for the beauty of the seller, Mr. Pine."

"What do you know about weapons?"

"You might be surprised. I can tell you where you can get some nice ones cheap."

"Such as what?"

The captain reeled off a description of six of the pieces he had just examined in Larmar's collection. "Would those appeal to you?"

"Not at any price."

"Would you mind telling me why?"

"I already have them," said Pine.

The captain said, "I'm sorry I bothered you. I seem to have wasted your time and mine."

Paul gave a low whistle. "What was the idea of mentioning that Osaki dagger?"

"I was interested in hearing what he'd have to say, Paul. There was one of those daggers in Pine's collection."

He touched his Braille watch. "It's a little past 11. The Globe-Tribune's a morning paper. Call their office for me, will you, and see if Bob Morse is there?"

Paul took the phone, and after a moment got the city desk.

"Morse is out." He covered the mouthpiece with his hand. "Will any one else do?"

"Ask them when he'll be in."

Paul asked and said, "He won't be in again tonight. He leaves Sunday nights at 9."

"You can hang up," the captain told him. "I found out what I want to know. I'm going down there. That's perfectly fine."

You notice things that others miss when you live in a world of sound. Equally, you might miss things that others notice. Those were axioms which Duncan Maclain had found.

You were walking in the footsteps of a man who had lived that morning. He had closed that same door behind him, trod that same carpet. His thumb had rested where your thumb was, pushing the elevator marked "Down."

What had he heard? Had the radio been playing in the morning? Had he heard the same laughter of happy people? Had he heard the bell ring 14 floors below as Maclain could hear it?

Maybe he'd never gone to see Sarah Hanley. Maybe, as you did, waiting in the hallway, he'd heard another sound. Well, dead men give no answers, but that man had eyes; the sharp, trained eyes of an ex-policeman.

Had the dead man ever read Shakespeare? Had he ever muttered, "The readiness is all?" Or had he become the stalker, and followed the stealthy footsteps himself because he knew who owned them?

Or perhaps he'd pushed the button again and heard it ring far below him. He could have told by looking whether or not he stood alone in the hall.

It was doubtful that hearing the bell ring far below him he had thought it might be like the carillon, no more than a death knell.

"The bell invites me.

Hear it not, Duncan; for it is a knell

That summons thee to heaven.

Or to hell."

The most effective lotion for rough dry skin, chap, cracks, soreness, itching hangnails or skin discomfort 25¢–50¢ dame nature

ORPHAN ANNIE

Thru the Looking Glass

The lesson today is purely elementary, but from some of the letters and telephone calls we have received lately it would seem it either hasn't been absorbed too well or we haven't stressed it enough. So now we will be exact about saying that if you go to the expense of buying a hand or body lotion or lubricating cream, then take the trouble to use it—regularly and consistently.

We gals are a funny lot—we know enough to buy the proper kind of remedy when our skins show signs of being dry and chapped, and then we're apt to turn right around and use the stuff haphazardly. It's almost as if we expect some sort of magic to transfer the stuff from the bottle or jar to our skins without our having to go thru the motions. But not so. The only way the preparations can do their job intended is by faithful use, day in and day out.

Regularity of use is particularly important in hand preparations. Skip a day or two in using your hand cream and you'll notice the skin is rough and reddened. And we'd be willing to say that about half of us would blame the condition on the lotion we left sitting in the bottle, never realizing that no preparation, be it ever so excellent, can tide hands over two or three days in this kind of weather. It's the unfailing application after each hand washing and the thoro massage before retiring at night that keeps hands looking white and pampered regardless of work or weather.

This same consistent care is imperative if you want to get the results you dream of with your face creams. If you think this is a lot of superfluous talk, just check up with yourself and see whether the shoe fits. If it does, then take heed and give your beauty preparations a fair trial before you condemn them as ineffective. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Junior League Hears of Dire Nursing Needs

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The need for nurses to serve overseas and for volunteer workers in hospitals here was driven home doubly at the Chicago Junior league's winter meeting yesterday morning in the Woman's Athletic club. There was not a sound in the ballroom as Maj. Floramund Fellmeth of the army nurse corps told of her experiences in the Philippines following the attack on Pearl Harbor and of how overworked nurses in inadequate numbers with no help struggled to care for the wounded.

"The nurses are supposed to number 15 per cent of the number of patients, and we didn't even have 10 per cent," she said. "Should an epidemic break out now overseas it would be terrible." Speaking of the early attacks around Manila, Maj. Fellmeth said: "Just one bombing raid brought 500 casualties in need of operations to our hospital. You should have seen the hospital porch. We didn't know where to start."

When the outlying hospitals were brought into Manila, as the Japs approached, nine hospitals were set up in nine days, Maj. Fellmeth related. She was the last army nurse to be evacuated. She left with Gen. Percy J. Carroll, now commanding officer of Vaughan General hospital, in an inter-island cargo boat [capacity 20 passengers] loaded with 236 desperately wounded and ill patients bound for Australia.

"It was the American sense of humor that kept us going time and again," Maj. Fellmeth said. She told of the following incident when the improvised hospital ship caught fire amidships on the way to Australia: The wounded men waited tensely on the back decks, in complete silence, while Gen. Carroll and the crew fought the flames. Finally the silence and the tension were relieved when one G. I. declared solemnly: "I regret I have but one life. Period."

Maj. Fellmeth told of another occasion when humor relieved the situation during the first Jap air raid near Manila. She and three nurses with whom she shared quarters were awakened in the middle of the night and huddled together in fear. A prayer was suggested, and after the nurses repeated it Maj. Fellmeth looked at her companions and burst out laughing to see the clothes they had put on. They turned the tables by suggesting that she examine her own dress. She was wearing a blue nightgown, a helmet, and a gas mask, and had one white stocking on and one in her hand. Maj. Fellmeth did not get completely undressed again excepting to bathe until she reached Australia.

How women can help as volunteers in hospitals was illustrated in a radio script, similar to the Junior League radio programs heard every Saturday afternoon, in a simulated broadcast following Maj. Fellmeth's talk. As Mrs. Conrad, Miss Priscilla Blackett of the league's radio department told of a typical day as a volunteer—not a Red Cross worker—in a hypothetical hospital.

Members were impressed with the smoothness of the performance and the acting ability of Miss Blackett, whose smart green wool dress and matching hat consisting of one huge flower added dramatic glamor to the "studio," and of Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr. and other members of the cast. Mrs. Gambrill, a long time league radio worker, appeared in her Red Cross uniform and spoke her lines in the quavering voice of an old and ailing woman.

Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, president of the league, introduced Maj. Fellmeth, and Miss Beatrice Lindsay, head of the radio department, introduced the cast.

Scholarships Offered

All-expense scholarships subsidized by the United States public health service are available to 250 women between the ages of 18 and 35 who enroll in spring training classes of the cadet nurse corps in 17 Illinois hospitals, Miss Mary E. Falk, the corps' recruiting chairman, has announced. The procurement program will continue thru March.

"Civilian hospitals depend upon student nurses to take the place of graduate, registered nurses leaving in increasing numbers for duty with the army and navy," Miss Falk said. The cadet corps also provides a pool of senior students from which five federal hospital branches can draw a supply of trained personnel.

Applicants for the scholarships, which include tuition, uniforms, board and lodging, and minimum personal expenses, may obtain information at headquarters of the Illinois Nursing Council for War service, 8 S. Michigan av., or at the following hospitals: County, Henrotin, Mercy, Michael Reese, St. Joseph's, University, and Women's and Children's in Chicago; and major hospitals in Freeport, Galesburg, Jacksonville, Normal, Rockford, Rock Island, Springfield, and Sterling.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Betty Deckelmeyer, 6618 Kimbark av.]

THE QUESTION.

What amusing or unusual experience have you had riding in a taxicab with a mixed load of passengers?

WHERE ASKED.

Insurance Exchange building, 175 W. Jackson blvd.

THE ANSWERS.

Mary De Smedt, stenographer, 28 N. Waller av.—Another passenger and I were in a cab going north on State st. The driver picked up a soldier. He got into the cab and the driver started up before the soldier could sit down. He was thrown off balance and fell right into my lap and was so embarrassed all he could say was, "O, golly!"

John Dowling, boxing promoter, 6349 Blackstone av.—I was the second to enter a cab which was occupied by a man. About five minutes later a squad car pulled us over to the curb and took the other man and me to the police station. My share-the-cab partner had just stolen a bracelet and other jewels. They thought I was an accomplice.

Robert Little, musician, 6751 Cornell av.—At 12th st. five strangers and I caught a cab headed south. I was going to 93d and they were going farther south. When I arrived at my destination I discovered my billfold was gone. They took up a collection and paid my fare. It was lucky for me they didn't get out first.

Edward Ballard, musician, 6717 Kenwood av.—Another passenger and I had an argument over who should be taken home first. The cab driver agreed with me. We started talking and discovered we were both interested in music and knew some of the same people. He invited me to a party that night and I had a swell time.

Harriet Pogorzelski, pay roll clerk, 1003 N. Ashland av.—Another girl and I left our soldier friends at the railroad station. We were going to take the same cab home, so stayed in it. A man decided to go to another station, so he got in. Then at the next station we picked up six marines. I didn't think we were ever going to get home.

Parisians Make Nightgowns to Match Lingerie

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Leading Parisian lingerie designers are matching beribboned, lace trimmed, and hand embroidered nightgowns with princess slips and combined pantie and brassiere sets.

A sherry amber chiffon nightgown, trimmed all around with vertical stitches on a plaited skirt and a horizontally plaited bodice, is fastened at the waist with a band of sky blue venetian lace covered with silver stars and tied with a large bow in front. This model, created by Anne Comex, comes with a matching one piece pantie and brassiere garment and fitted slip.

Suzanne Joly has designed a cyclamen pink mousseline lingerie set with circular flounces, and each article is edged with oval "point de Paris" lace. Tiny, cut-out flowers form puffed triple sleeves of the nightgown, the waist of the slip, and the whole brassiere.

Two inch wide bands of night blue "filajour" lace alternating with half inch wide rows of gathered yellow tulle form a bed gown created by Olga Hetrova.

Tiny embroidered corn colored flowers on lavender blue satin fashion a nightgown designed by Cadolle. The same flowers form long, full sleeves with tight wrist bands of satin. Parallel rows of stitching, gathered at the waist, cause the skirt to flare out.

Yrande outlines the bust and borders the hem of pink crepe de chine lingerie with the same color bows formed by embroidered lace created by Dognin. Hundreds of these bows also encircle the waist.

Fashion flashes: For the first time since the war started Ascott displays custom made shoes, including stilt-like models mounted on three inch high cork, wooden, or glass soles, priced from $100 to $200. . . . Six inch wide suede belts covered with intricate, multicolored embroidery, representing bird's eye views of French show places, are featured by Vera Borea, with large detachable pockets to match. . . . Lucile Manguin encircles a black box calf handbag with a yellow, red, and blue scarf tied into a double knot on top to serve as a handle.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 20.—Warners is now dickering for Betty Hutton in exchange for Jane Wyman, whom it loaned to Paramount for "Lost Weekend." It has some big musicals coming up and would like Betty for one of 'em. . . . George Cukor tells me his next picture may be "Green Dolphin Street." Another thing he'd like to do is the original version of "Carmen," not as an opera, but using the story it was taken from, with Bizet's music as background. He would not, however, let us look at the singers singing it, because he believes that's what makes opera seem so false. The minute they start to sing, the action stops. Well, in "Oklahoma!" one girl comes on stage, falls asleep; then another girl comes on and does the dancing for her while she's dreaming. Why couldn't the same method be applied to music? . . . Bing Crosby asked Leo McCarey if he could read the story of "Bells of St. Mary's." Leo said, "It isn't finished yet." "Well, can you tell me what I wear? Do I wear my hairpiece?" Leo said, "That you do." "Do I wear the same robe I wore in 'Going My Way?'" "That you do." "Okay," says Bing, "but if I had to do my fittings, you'd have had to find another boy."

Home, Sweet Home.

George D. Smith, of the Mark Hopkins hotel in San Francisco, is feeling very much at home on the set of "The Well Groomed Bride" where they have copied the hotel's sky room to the last detail. Director Sidney Lanfield turned to Smith and said, "Well, at least we won't kick you out of here after five days." . . . Thomas Mitchell is certainly mixed up with crime this week. He's playing a keeper of criminals in "Within These Walls," and the father of one in "John Barbey and Son" on a suspense show. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Roger Fawcett, of the Fawcett publications, watched Deanna Durbin and Elizabeth Patterson do a scene for "Lady on a Train." Elizabeth had to slap Deanna's face about 20 times before they got the scene. . . . Bruce Bennett, Joan Crawford's leading man in "Mildred Pierce," doesn't lead the life of a motion picture star. When he goes home, he has a washing machine to cope with, as well as some other household duties. His wife is ill, and there's a young baby to be considered. . . . in "Tomorrow is Forever," Director Irving Pichell and Claudette Colbert are working together for the first time since 1934, when, in "Cleopatra," Irving picked up Claudette and carried her over his shoulder to Caesar. . . . Nora Martin will teach singing to any of the boys at Birmingham hospital who need to limber up their vocal cords.

Thomas Mitchell. Deanna Durbin. Nora Martin. Bruce Bennett.

We Knew 'Em When . . .

Georgie Jessel would have you believe that Betty Grable and June Haver are the spitt'n images of the Dolly Sisters. He must think folks have awful short memories. The Dolly Sisters didn't have a blonde hair on their heads, and for no one would they use peroxide. They were mighty cute, and two better business women never lived, aided and abetted as they were by their mamma. We used to bet from day to day as to the color of their jewelry the following day—whether they'd wear their diamonds, emeralds, or rubies. Sure, they had 'em 'way back then. I think the studio would be mighty smart getting Harry Pilzer to do a sequence in the picture, 'cause he worked out many of those routines, and he looks like his own son.

Old Mother Necessity.

Charles Laughton can't get over how times have changed since he did "Mutiny on the Bounty." For that one the whole company went out on the ocean, everybody got seasick, and one man was killed. But now, for "Captain Kidd," they're doing all the ocean scenes on a sound stage. Since war restrictions ruled out picture making on the high seas, technicians have made such advances that they can make the sea look more natural than the sea itself, and right in their own back yard. . . . Bob Cummings sent the new Johnny Farrow baby a war bond two hours after it was born. All he knew was that it was a girl, so he had it made out to Marie Farrow. He guessed the right name, because that's what they had named the baby a few minutes before the bond arrived. . . . Roddy McDowall went to a lot of trouble to buy his little girl friend a big box of candy for St. Valentine's day. Then it turned out that her father was a big candy manufacturer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, queen of spades.

It is fortunate for the game of bridge that however scientific we may make it, the element of chance cannot be eliminated, and on a given number of hands the veriest tyro might well outguess the superexpert.

While there are certain fixed principles for the management of various combinations, the play of the hand can never be reduced to an exact science. Which finesse to take, or what suit to develop many times will be a sheer guess, one offering as good a prospect as the other. If, however, you find that you are guessing wrong in a majority of the cases, there is a strong suspicion that your technique has been faulty.

Where two courses are open to you in the play of the hand, obviously you should select that which offers the better chance. To be sure, the average player cannot go into the study of mathematics of card combinations, but there are a number of principles which he can easily learn and which require no special mathematical talent.

Today's hand provides a very simple illustration of this principle. Against a contract of four hearts, West opened the queen of spades, which was won with the ace in dummy. Declarer was faced with the choice of taking the heart finesse or the club finesse and in his anxiety to get the trumps out, elected to lead the five of hearts. The finesse succeeded, but when the trumps failed to break, he was obliged to lose one trick in each suit. "It was a tough guess, partner. If I had taken the club finesse, I would have made the hand."

"There was no way for you to tell, partner," was North's gracious reply. It is true that South's play might have worked, but he did not adopt the best course. The location of either king was a 50-50 chance, so that the club finesse in itself offered as good a prospect as the heart finesse. There was, however, this consideration, even if the heart finesse succeeded, that was not the end of declarer's troubles, because in addition, the hearts would have to break two and two, which was less than an even chance. To put it in simple terms: A straight finesse is a better chance than a straight finesse plus a suit break. The club finesse, therefore, would have been the proper play.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

Some Children Are Naturally Small Eaters

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"It seems reasonable to me, and it ties up with what my book says, that Marylin should eat a certain amount of food and drink a certain amount of milk each day. But she doesn't; she always leaves something on her plate, no matter how much I urge her and no matter how appetizing it is. It just worries me to death. And see how slender she is! I can't put any weight on her." So a friend of mine expressed her concern over her little daughter.

I happen to know Marylin. Also I've known many other "Marylins," and incidentally this worry arises more often over girls than boys.

In each instance, the little girls were well, full of energy and good spirits, and always were given "a clean bill of health" by their doctors when they received their regular checkup. From my experience, the morale of these cases is as follows:

First, some children are simply not meant by nature to be plump or stocky. Their build of bone and flesh, their temperament [physical and psychological], the use their bodies make of food, the rate at which they burn it up, all these things are individual. You can't make them over.

These children who are small eaters, and yet are well, often eat like that all their lives, and usually nothing can be done about it, altho sometimes we see a change in adolescence, when food and sleep are suddenly consumed in larger proportions.

Mrs. Ed W., Chicago—I add two tablespoons of vinegar to hot, soapy water when I'm washing tins in which odoriferous foods have been cooked. This will do the work.

Hazel J., Des Moines, Ia.—We lost a knob from a cooking utensil cover. I needed that cover, so I slipped a screw thru the hole and attached a sizeable cork to it. This cork makes an excellent knob, since it is a nonconductor of heat.

Mrs. Amy H., Chicago—When I want to put raisins or figs thru my food chopper, I first squeeze out a little lemon juice and run this thru the chopper. Raisins and figs come thru more easily after this, and of course the same is true for dates.

LOS ANGELES PICKS STRONG GLOVES SQUAD

NAME WIDDOES FOOTBALL CHIEF AT OHIO STATE

Godfrey and Bixler Stay on Staff.

Columbus, O., Feb. 20 [Special].—Carroll C. Widdoes, 41, today became Ohio State university's head football coach when the athletic board approved a recommendation of Athletic Director L. W. St. John. The group took only a few minutes to make the decision.

Carroll Widdoes.

Paul Bixler and Ernie Godfrey will continue as Widdoes' chief assistants, also according to St. John's recommendations. Widdoes, who also was raised from the rank of acting professor to a full professorship, succeeds Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, who recently resigned to become coach and general manager of Cleveland in the new All-America conference.

As acting coach last fall, Widdoes received the "Coach of the year" award after the Buckeyes won nine straight games and the Western conference championship. Widdoes' previous experience included assistantships at Massillon High and Ohio State. He's an Otterbein college graduate.

Salary Not Announced.

No salary was divulged and one year contracts will be maintained, according to university procedure. However, Widdoes' rank of professor carries with it a tenure of office understanding. His contract will be renewed March 1 at what is understood to be a boost in pay.

Bixler has been elevated to the rank of associate professor from an instructor and Godfrey retains his rank as associate professor.

"I am happy for the opportunity to continue as head coach at Ohio State and also that I will have Paul Bixler and Ernie Godfrey working with me in the same capacity as before," Widdoes said following his appointment. "We intend to continue with the same philosophy and the same general style of football that we had last fall and in previous years under Paul Brown."

Aids Praise Widdoes.

"I am happy to continue to work with 'Wid' in whatever capacity he chooses to use me," said Bixler. "His fine work last fall warrants his promotion."

Godfrey added, "Carroll Widdoes' success as acting coach merits the athletic board's decision. I pledge my 100 per cent support."

In answering rumors that the Ohio State coaches might be signed by other schools, St. John stated, "All three men expressed themselves as satisfied with the terms given them.

EARNED JOB, SAYS BROWN.

Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, football officer at Great Lakes, last night said he was happy to learn that Carroll Widdoes had been named head football coach at Ohio State.

"He certainly has earned the job with his fine record last year," said Lt. Brown. "I hope he has a long and happy career at Ohio State."

When Widdoes was football coach at Longfellow Junior High school in Massillon, Brown brought him to Massillon High as his assistant. That was in 1934. They had been continuous associates until Brown joined the navy.

Foreclosure Sale.

A crowd assembled but what could they do
Against the law, against the sheriff's men.

All things he loved were gone. The old man cried

BY DAVID CONDON.

The Marshall junior basketball team won its sixth consecutive west section City league title yesterday and its 55th sectional contest without a defeat, by beating Tule,, 47 to 38, at Marshall. The Commandos' ninth straight league victory stretched their season record to 15 victories in all games.

Carl Kuppersmith of Tuley gained scoring honors for the game with 17 points, two more than the total scored by Howie Duman, who led Marshall.

The game was tied, 15 all, at the half.

Austin Also Qualifies.

The loss left Tuley in second place in the section, while Wells, despite an upset 43 to 40 loss to Austin, finished third. Austin, by virtue of its victory, finished fourth. Austin is tied with Foreman and Crane in the number of games won and lost, but qualified for the league play-offs by defeating Crane which in turn beat Foreman in league games.

The highest score of the season was made by Gage Park as it routed Harrison, 97 to 20, to close the central section campaign for both teams. It was Gage Park's eighth victory, with John Fencik and Frank La Porte establishing themselves as two of the outstanding individual scorers of the year. Fencik collected 42 points; La Porte, 40.

Senn Wins No. 10.

Tilden, Phillips, and Farragut also qualified for the playoffs as west section representatives.

In the north section, Senn completed its season by defeating Sullivan, 52 to 28, for its 10th victory. Von Steuben beat Waller, 85 to 40, as it finished in second place.

The defending City league senior champion, South Shore, defeated Hirsch, 43 to 34, for its ninth victory in the south section.

The Weber juniors gained a first place tie with Leo in the south section Catholic league basketball race last night by defeating De La Salle, 27 to 25, on the Weber floor. It was the seventh victory in eight games for Weber.

St. Ignatius Wins, 59 to 26.

Weber trailed, 23 to 25, late in the final quarter, and a free throw by Milt Mayer and field goal by Walt Pokoj moved the Red Horde to the front, 26 to 25. The final point was added by Richard Zaleski on a free throw.

In the north section junior race, St. Ignatius remained in the running for the title by beating St. Patrick, 59 to 26, at St. Patrick. It was the visitors' eighth triumph in nine starts.

Both Catholic and City league teams will play in important games today, while the Private School league will center interest on its fifth annual tournament opening this afternoon in the University of Chicago fieldhouse. Wheaton will play Concordia in the first game. Todd School of Woodstock, defending champion, will oppose North Park in the second contest.

These district events are a prelude to the 60 regional meets next week, followed by sectional and ultimately the state finals in Champaign, starting March 15.

Two other Chicagoland quintets, Morton and Waukegan, both of the Suburban league, also have been considered as possible title winners, but will remain idle until regional play starts.

Riverside Takes Early Lead.

Riverside lost no time in establishing a lead over Lemont, having a 19 to 3 advantage at the end of the first period and leading 41 to 4 at the half. Winner of the West Suburban league championship with 12 straight victories, Riverside did not allow Lemont a field goal during the first half.

Hawks Battle Bruins; Cup Hopes at Stake

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Back there in 1927 the Boston Bruins, long among the sharpest shoppers in the National Hockey league, cast their eyes upon a stalwart young man named Aubrey [Dit] Clapper, who was playing a spot of defense for the Boston Tigers. Lest any other seekers lay designing hands on him, they slipped a fountain pen into his hand, pointed at a dotted line, and he affixed his signature thereto.

Master Clapper, then a 20 year old out of Newmarket, Ont., came to work for the Bruins in the 1927-'28 season. The Bruins liked him and the feeling must have been mutual, for tonight he will lead the Bostonians against the Blackhawks on the Chicago Stadium ice with a couple of unique records. Not only is he the only playing coach in the league, but he now is in the process of tying the 18 year record of play established by old Hooley Smith of the Montreal Maroons.

A Tough One

CHICAGO.		BOSTON.
Karakas	G	Bibeault
Field	L. D.	Crawford
Simon	R. D.	Clapper
C. Smith	C	Cowley
McDonald	L. W.	Jennings
Mosienko	R. W.	Cain

Hawks Must Win This One.

Clapper's responsibilities as a working coach will be trebled tonight, for he and his Bruins are one party to a most vital game of the league stretch in the Stadium. The other party, of course, is the Blackhawk troupe. Boston now holds fourth place, last designated role in the Stanley cup playoffs. It has a four game lead over the Chicagoans. If the Hawks are to crowd into the select cup quartet, they must start with a victory over the Bruins this evening, before going into that troublesome week-end double header against Detroit.

The Hawks also will play the Bruins in Boston on March 11 and at the Stadium in the season's home final on March 15.

The Hawks may have gotten just the tonic they needed in Sunday night's scoreless tie against the champion Montreal Canadiens, altho Manager Paul Thompson has spent every hour since reminding his lads of the remaining 11 games.

Here's Clapper's Record.

The Bruins bring with them two of the ablest forwards in the league in Herb Cain and Bill Cowley. Last year, Cain set a league point record of 82 with 36 goals and 46 assists. Whereas Herb required the entire 48 games to assemble this total, Cowley, working in only 36, made 30 goals and 41 assists for an aggregate of 71.

Clapper, who passed his 38th birthday on Feb. 9, started out as a defense man, but his speed and agility, surprising in a 6 foot 1½ inch, 195 pound frame, soon moved him up to forward, where he spent nine seasons before returning to defense in the 1937-'38 campaign. His league record for 18 years follows:

	*G.	A.	Pts.
1928-'29	9	2	11
1929-'30	41	20	61

1931-'32	17	22	39
1932-'33	14	14	28

1942-'43	5	18	23
1943-'44	6	25	31

This performance gives the Boston veterans a lifetime total of 226 goals and 242 assists for a total of 468 points.

BASEBALL MEN HOPEFUL AFTER MEETING BYRNES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Baseball's two man diplomatic team, Will Harridge and Ford Frick, saw James F. Byrnes today and came out with big smiles.

Clark Griffith.

"As we remarked to Mr. Byrnes, any statement on our talk will have to come from him," Frick, president of the National league, stated.

Reporters met the major leagues' head men as they were leaving the war mobilization director's office at the White House. The conference lasted less than half an hour. They parried questions as to whether they had talked about the future of baseball in the light of more stringent man power restrictions.

Describe Byrnes as Friendly.

"We merely laid our problems before him," Frick said.

Asked if he considered the interview encouraging, Frick replied, "Mr. Byrnes was very friendly and courteous."

But they looked as tho they thought the conference was satisfactory.

Byrnes had no comment.

Frick and Harridge were asked about other appointments they may have here. They plan to see Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of defense transportation, tomorrow, and this may wind up their official business in the capital.

Griffith Better After Attack.

Before going to see Byrnes, the game's representatives spent most of the day at Griffith stadium, briefing baseball's case for presentation to the mobilization director.

Clark Griffith, Washington Senators' owner, who had planned to accompany the league president to the White House, was unable to do so because of illness. He fainted from an upset stomach shortly after arising this morning. Griffith was improved tonight and his physicians canceled plans to remove him to a hospital for observation.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Los Angeles sends a warning, couched in no uncertain terms, to Chicago and all the other cities in THE TRIBUNE'S great Golden Gloves territory, which reaches into the deep south and southwest, the Atlantic seaboard, and up to the Canadian border, that this year's squad is good enough to take the team trophy back to California.

Jim Jeffries.

The Los Angeles Times came into the Golden Gloves organization in 1944 and, under the direction of Sports Editor Braven Dyer, held a highly successful tournament and sent a hard hitting group into the Tournament of Champions. Now, 12 months later, the Los Angeles sponsors have put another tournament away, raising $22,900 as compared to $16,000 in 1944, and coming up with a group of experienced amateur boxers.

Back Mexican Light Heavy.

Whereas last year the Times provided a Chicago and Intercity champion in Ragon Kinney, a heavyweight, this year it puts a lot of faith on three lads being in the running after three nights of the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium, next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

One is Adolfo Quijano, a light heavyweight, who won his three fights by knockouts in the second round. The boys he eliminated were better than average battlers—Bud Thomas of the Northup aviation center and Sam Stupar and Johnny Spurlock of the Santa Ana air base.

Quijano hails from Muroc army air base and his home is in El Paso, Tex. He's a Mexican, 23 years old, has been boxing three years.

Two Are Jeffries' Proteges.

Another is Middleweight Johnny Garcia, and his triumph in the Times' show was the most popular of all. He boxes regularly at Jim Jeffries' Barn, the city's leading boxing arena, and seldom has turned in an uninteresting fight.

Last year Garcia was eliminated in the semi-finals by Johnny Crane, who later was disqualified from participating when it was learned he had fought professionally. Garcia works at Lockheed, is 26 years old, and has been boxing two years.

The third member of the threesome is Roscoe Scally, a lightweight, and also a product of Jeffries' Barn. He is 23, lives in Pasadena, and works for an engineering company.

Heavyweight Packs Punch.

Sgt. Jimmy Williams from Lemoore army air field, the heavyweight champion, may surprise the fans and the other heavies in Chicago. He is 27 years old, has been fighting eight years, and packs a terrific punch. But Jimmy weighs only 180 and will face bigger men in the Stadium.

The welterweight champion is Marcos Diaz, who is stationed at the Las Vegas army air field. He's a Mexican and 27 years old. Another Mexican won the featherweight title. He's Felix Miramontes, 25, a truck driver who has been boxing for five years.

Then there's Antonio Rivera, the bantamweight king. A native of Puerto Rico, Antonio has been boxing two years, is 22, and a member of the 891st anti-aircraft battalion at Burbank. The flyweight is Aldo Lu Pari, a member of the maritime service at Catalina. He's an Italian, born in Rochester, N. Y., 25 years ago.

Eight Basketball Players May Miss Last Game.

Northwestern university will bid farewell tomorrow to 25 members of its athletic teams who have completed their training in the Naval R. O. T. C. and the Navy V-12 training programs. Most of the group are included among the 120 R. O. T. C. men who will receive ensigns' commissions at convocation exercises in Cahn auditorium tomorrow afternoon.

Eight of the departing athletes are members of the basketball team, which still has two games to play. They are expected to be available for the Illinois game in the Stadium Saturday night but will miss the season's final with Notre Dame next Tuesday. The departing players include four regulars, Capt. Ben Schadler and Frank Clawson, guards, and Duane Sickels and Fred Johnson, forwards, and Reserves John Rothrock, Scott Welch, Bob Funderburg, and John MacGregor.

Altepeter Among Graduates.

Two trackmen, Hank Altepeter, the Big Nine's leading quarter miler, and John Kroeger, star shotputter, will receive their commissions and will be lost for the remainder of the season. The swimming team will lose Bob Tribble, conference back stroke champion; Robert Tillman, breast stroke, and Russell Attridge and Arthur Luers, free style.

The football team, which had already lost 11 of last fall's lettermen to the military services, will lose 10 more. They are Funderburg, Clawson, Altepeter, Schadler, and Larry Savage, backs; Ray Justak, guard; Kroeger, tackle; Erwin Grimes, center, and Sickels and Dick Leicher, ends.

Lose Five in Baseball.

Five baseball players, the last of 16 who received letters last spring, will receive commissions. The other 11 previously had departed. Those leaving after tomorrow are Savage, third base; Jim Homco, short stop; Schadler, first base, and Don Trompeter, pitcher.

Other graduates include: Golf—Dan Fargo, Robert Alexander, and Milt Kuehn; wrestling—Frank Jaegels, and tennis—Lane Fortinberry and Clawson.

Nickell May Get Tourney Ticket Woes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of public instruction, said he was not interested in the job when a group of legislators proposed today that he take over management of state high school athletic contests. Nickell made it clear that he didn't want any part of the headaches that go with distribution of tickets to the state basketball tournament.

The bill giving the superintendent of public instruction supervision over all extracurricular activities of public schools, both elementary and high school, was introduced by Senators Miller [R., Hillsboro], Dick [R., Quincy], and Van Hooser [R., Metropolis]. Under it the superintendent would control the scheduling and officiating and have general control of high school sports.

"I know nothing about the bill," Nickell said.

Secretary Albert Willis of the Illinois High School association now is arranging for the basketball tournament in the men's gymnasium on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana. The seating capacity of 6,500 always is far short of the demand for tickets.

CHICAGO PLANS SCHEDULE FOR BASEBALL NINE

The University of Chicago plans to field a baseball team this spring even tho competition will be outside the Western conference. Games will be scheduled with college and service teams in this vicinity plus any Big Nine teams which may have an open date in Chicago.

Coach J. Kyle Anderson announced yesterday a squad of 15 men had begun practice. Five letter men are back from last year's team which lost all 10 games in the conference. They are John Cooperider, third baseman; Fred Cimmerblatt, center fielder; Jim Servies, short stop; Jack Steele, outfielder, and Lefty Harck, pitcher.

Squirrels Get Scabies from Big City Life

BY BOB BECKER.

Some of the gray and fox squirrels which live in Chicago suburbs are anything but healthy looking individuals these days because of a skin disease called scabies. This is practically the same type of skin trouble that is known as mange on dogs, so dog owners in the suburbs may be wise to keep these mangy squirrels away from their pets.

For the last three months we have noticed around our home a number of gray squirrels which looked as if they had been partially plucked. A few days ago we saw one specimen had practically no hair at all from the middle of its back up to its head.

Caused by Skin Mites.

Last week we asked Dr. Lee Yeager of the Illinois Natural History Survey for further information about this condition among squirrels. He says that without any question it is due to an infection of skin mites or scabies. He adds that he has noticed squirrels' down state similarly infected.

Dr. Yeager says scabies among squirrels is not as prevalent in wild populations. It is more common in cities and suburbs due to the fact that the population of squirrels is very heavy and because the animals do not have good living dens. Weak and old animals also develop scabies.

Some Control Needed.

These conditions fit the village in which we live where the squirrel population is way above normal as far as food and dens are concerned. In fact, with no control or check on the animals, they are something of a nuisance. Dr. Yeager points out that in any locality where squirrels show pronounced symptoms of scabies, there are just too many for the food available.

Swing Shift Bowlers Hope to Carry On

Chicagoland bowling proprietors, among the first sports officials to be affected by the midnight curfew order of War Mobilization Director Byrnes, yesterday afternoon were given a vestige of hope in an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. In this story a war mobilization source said "no specific interpretation of the order, as applied to bowling and billiard establishments has been made," adding "that machinery to pass on such 'borderline' cases probably will be set up right away."

Lyman Bolger, president of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of Chicago; Roy Davis, secretary of both the Chicago and Illinois Bowling associations, and Louis P. Petersen, general chairman of the bowling division of the Auditorium Service Men's center, agreed that the biggest sufferers of the ruling would be the numerous war workers, who maintain leagues after their swing shift duties. A number of these do not get under way until midnight at the earliest, and several start as late as 2 a. m.

Bowling Lanes, Cascade, Bowlium, the Howard Bowl, the Dearborn-Jackson Recreation, Gateway, Marzano's, and Twentieth Century are among the Chicago establishments which provide facilities for these after-midnight leagues. The proprietors pointed out that all of such leagues carry season long contracts, and that provisions for pin boys and other employes were made before the season began to meet the late hour schedules. The war mobilization ruling would automatically eliminate such leagues at a time when they are nearing the end of the 1944-'45 season.

Gunder Hagg at Sea, but So Is A. A. U.

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—Gunder Hagg and Haakon Lidman, Sweden's track stars, are at sea—and so is the A. A. U.

War time secrecy envelops the two athletes who left their homes Feb. 2 by air for London. They were visible to Londoners for five days until Feb. 7.

Dan Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U. and manager of the national indoor championships in Madison Square Garden Saturday night, has made tentative entries for each, Hagg in the mile and three mile and Lidman in the hurdles.

Swedish Legation Not Excited.

The Swedish legation in London said today that there was no reason for anxiety. The diplomats pointed out that they represented a neutral nation and weren't provided with any specific information on allied shipping.

The athletes at first were to come here by air, but were unable to get priorities.

In New York, Swedish government officials and track followers think that both Hagg and Lidman made contact somewhere with the Gripsholm, exchange ship, which is due at Jersey City tomorrow.

The athletes would not be allowed aboard as passengers, but there would be nothing to stop them from signing on the Swedish liner, granted safe conduct by all nations, as members of the crew.

256 to Compete Saturday.

Ferris, who has made almost daily sojourns to the New York docks in hopes of encountering the pair, says the indoor championship meet will be a success even if the Swedes fail to arrive. He has received 256 signed entry blanks, a record number.

Basketball in Big 9 Follows Old Pattern

BY WILFRID SMITH.

One point victories by Illinois and Iowa Monday night over Minnesota and Wisconsin, respectively, have prepared the stage for the kind of a finish fans have come to expect in Western conference basketball. Iowa currently leads by a half game with three games to play while Illinois, also defeated once, has four games.

Ohio State, which meets Illinois in Columbus Friday night, has won eight and lost two conference games and has high hope of jumping from third place to at least a tie for the championship it won last season.

Iowa Faces Stern Opposition.

The Ohio State-Illinois and the Illinois-Iowa games, the latter scheduled March 3 in Iowa City, long have been considered the decisive contests in the stretch drive but Wisconsin and Minnesota, by virtue of their splendid performances Monday against these leaders, are capable of upsetting all predictions. Wisconsin, for instance, defeated only 54 to 53 Monday at Iowa, meets the same rival Saturday in Madison. And on Monday the Hawkeyes travel to Minneapolis to play the Gophers, who were beaten by Illinois Monday night in Champaign, 49 to 48. Thus, Iowa's concluding three games threaten title aspirations.

Illinois plays four games away from home. After Friday's contest at Ohio State, which possibly will eliminate the Buckeyes if they are defeated, the Illini come to the Chicago Stadium Saturday for the annual battle with Northwestern. The Wildcats, a much better team than its won and lost record shows, conceivably may whip Illinois. Illinois finishes with Indiana at Bloomington Feb. 28 and the Iowa contest March 3.

The double header Saturday night will conclude the Stadium season. The proposed tournament March 2 and 3, sponsored by De Paul, will not be held, Rev. Joseph Phoenix, chairman of De Paul's athletic board, announced yesterday.

Hermsen Leads Gopher Attack.

Minnesota's attack centers around Clarence Hermsen and his 17 points at Illinois has lifted him to second place in individual scoring with 126 points. The leader is Max Morris, Northwestern center, who has scored 169 points in 11 games and concludes the season Saturday in the Stadium. Morris has a game average in excess of 15 points.

EXCESS PROFIT TAX URGED ON SPECULATIONS

Inflation Peril Real, Eccles Warns.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—A war time excess profits tax on gains from speculation in stocks and real estate was recommended today by Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board.

Marriner S. Eccles.

In a general discussion before the senate banking committee, Eccles said inflation is the "real danger" in the first two years after the war.

He suggested these preventive measures:

1. A balanced federal budget immediately after the war and measures for full employment.

2. Continuation of price controls, material allocations, and export restrictions.

3. The gains tax which he said should be designed to eliminate the speculator. Asserting these fields are not reached by price control, Eccles said prices of farms had increased 60 per cent during the war, urban homes 40 to 50 per cent and stocks 80 per cent.

The present capital gains tax is only 25 per cent, he remarked, altho the excess profits tax on corporations goes up to 95 per cent and levies on individual incomes up to 91 per cent. He mentioned no specific figure for a speculation tax.

Held Aid for Servicemen.

The G. I. bill of rights has led millions of servicemen to look forward to buying homes or farms with government aid, Eccles said, and congress has a duty to see that they do not have to pay inflated prices.

The banking committee has no authority to propose tax legislation which must originate in the house. Eccles was drawn into an economic discussion during testimony in behalf of a bill to reduce the required reserve of federal reserve banks to 25 per cent in gold certificates against combined note and deposit liabilities.

At present, the banks are required to have a minimum reserve of 40 per cent in gold certificates against federal reserve notes in circulation and 35 per cent in gold certificates or other lawful money against deposit liabilities.

Sen. Murdock [D., Utah] suggested that rather than reduce the gold reserve it might be advisable to raise the price of gold.

Rejects Gold Price Boost.

Eccles, in a series of rough calculations, figured that to accomplish the same result, so far as gold reserves are concerned, it would be necessary to raise the gold price from $35 to $50 an ounce.

"This would give the rest of the world a profit of 8½ billion dollars immediately on the gold they hold," Eccles commented, adding that even talk along that line could lead to withdrawal of foreign bank balances and their investment in gold.

He contended that the question of the gold reserve had little if any relation to inflation. What inflation there has been, he said, is caused by increased business and the war time government deficit of 50 billion dollars a year.

The inflation threat, he said, could be attacked by a further increase in taxes and getting people to put more into government bonds instead of keeping it in cash. It may be a "little late" now for higher taxes, he added.

IGOE INDICATES EARLY APPROVAL OF RAIL'S PLANS

Indicating he would approve the program soon, Federal District Judge Igoe yesterday took under advisement the modified plan for reorganization of the Milwaukee road.

His decision was expected after March 12, the date he set for hearing arguments on a petition of the so-called university group of bondholders urging immediate repayment of a $10,400,000 obligation to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The petition, however, would not interfere with final confirmation of the plan because it offers an alternate provision to pay the debt in new bonds instead of cash.

The court was informed that nine classes of creditors had approved the plan, leaving only the Darrow Park group in disagreement. Atty. Irving Herriott contended this group should receive 100 per cent on its investment because of improved economic conditions, instead of the 60 per cent allotted. The Illinois commerce commission ratified the plan Jan. 6.

Post-War Tax Ideas of Small Business Told

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—The house small business committee today released a summary of proposals for post-war taxation, including a graduated corporation income tax with lower rates for small enterprises. Chairman Patman [D., Tex.] announced the committee will open public hearings March 13 on small business tax relief proposals.

A digest from approximately 350 letters from small businesses proposed graduated rates adjusted to post-war budget needs from 15 per cent on taxable corporation income under $20,000 up to 40 per cent on income more than $100,000. The present combined normal and surtax rate is 40 per cent.

Source of Reserves Sought.

"Such graduation is designed to permit smaller enterprises having no access to the capital markets to expand and build reserves from earnings in a period of necessarily heavy taxation," said the summary.

After the Washington hearings a subcommittee will take further testimony in New York City, Cleveland, St. Louis, and Springfield, Ill. Patman said the committee then will submit a report to the house ways and means committee.

A digest of other suggestions from the letters:

1. With the first important cutback in government war expenditures, probably after the European war, excess profits tax rates should be sharply reduced to a maximum of 60 per cent, compared with 95 per cent less a 10 per cent refund after the war. The specific $10,000 exemption from the excess profits tax then should be raised, perhaps to $50,000.

Oppose Double Taxation.

2. As soon as possible after the war the excess profits tax should be completely repealed.

3. Double taxation of corporate income—first on the corporation and again on stockholders' dividends—should be eliminated as soon as revenue needs permit.

4. The capital stock and declared value excess profits tax should be repealed immediately.

5. The loss carry back principle should be incorporated in the renegotiation act, extending back to April 28, 1942, and continue thru the transition period. Many small manufacturers said they had suffered more thru arbitrary renegotiation procedures than from the excess profits tax.

METROPOLITAN'S INSURANCE TOPS 30 BILLION MARK

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—Metropolitan Life Insurance company issued $2,064,042,459 of life insurance during 1944, bringing the company's total in force to more than 30 billion dollars for the first time, the company reported today.

Assets Dec. 31 were $6,995,450,571, largest of any corporation in the world. The increase over 1943 totaled $531,647,020.

Metropolitan increased its investments in United States and Canadian government securities by $713,070,098 during 1944, to a total of $3,066,455,698.

People and Events

A. C. Richmond, chief of the inspection branch, and Jack Benns, chief of the artillery branch of the Chicago ordnance district, have received the war department award for meritorious civilian service, Col. John Slezak, district chief, said yesterday.

Anton P. Nelson, president of the Star West Cartage company, was elected president of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association. James A. Hannah, president of the James H. Hannah company, was elected vice president and John Gray of Lasham Cartage company, secretary.

Frank T. Bumbaugh has been promoted to sales manager of the alloy division of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, subsidiary of United States Steel corporation. He succeeds the late Frank L. Gibbons, whose assistant he had been for three years.

Directors of the Northern Trust company elected Fred T. Smith an assistant secretary. Smith for the last 10 years has been head of the trust accounting division and has been associated with the bank since 1916.

The office supply store of Horder's, Inc., on Wabash av. near Randolph st., closed for several weeks while it was enlarged and remodeled, will reopen tomorrow, said F. P. Seymour, vice president.

LEND-LEASE AID RISES ABOVE 35 BILLION IN 1944

Not Scarcity Cause, Says Crowley.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Congress was told officially today that lend-lease aid has reached $35,382,000,000 but that its importance in civilian shortages at home has been "greatly overstated in numerous false rumors."

Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, in the 18th report on lend-lease operations, denied that shipments to allied and friendly nations caused the cigaret and beef shortages.

Some Kinds of Aid Doubled.

He disclosed that:

1. Lend-lease goods and services totaled $15,400,000,000 in 1944, compared with $11,700,000,000 the year before. Munitions increased very little from 1943 to 1944 but all other kinds of aid nearly doubled. Eighty-four per cent of munitions production during the war has been kept for United States forces.

2. Lend-lease reached an all-time high in the first half of 1944 [in preparation for D-day in Normandy and the great soviet winter offensive]. In December lend-lease aid again rose to $1,319,000,000, highest month since last July.

3. Russian armies, with lengthening supply lines, had received a total of 362,000 motor vehicles thru Dec. 1, 1944, compared with Britain's 80,000, and 12,000 planes compared with Britain's 8,500. On some parts of the eastern front, "American vehicles are carrying more than one-half the supplies moving up to the soviet troops." Britain, however, has received 43.3 per cent of all lend-lease aid with Russia getting 28.4 per cent.

More Supplies to China.

4. "China can look forward to a steadily increasing stream of supplies," now that the Ledo road is open. A fleet of 15,000 American trucks will be delivered to China.

As for civilian shortages, Crowley said the three main factors have been [1] actual war induced shortages of materials, plants, or man power; [2] requirements of United States forces; [3] abnormal civilian demand, caused by increased incomes.

He said lend-lease has been a fourth factor but its importance has been exaggerated.

Mentioning rumors that lend-lease has caused the cigaret shortage, Crowley said that in 1944 lend-lease took 1¼ per cent of cigaret production.

Less Beef Shipped Out.

The report said the severest meat shortage in this country has been in beef, yet lend-lease exports of beef in 1944 were only 0.7 per cent of supply. In 1943 they were 1.7 per cent.

The last lend-lease report, issued Nov. 23, gave total lend-lease aid as $28,270,000,000 thru June 30. Today's report brought the total forward to $35,382,000,000 thru Dec. 31.

Crowley said "reverse lend-lease"—materials and services loaned to this country—was $3,938,123,000 to Oct. 1, 1944.

INCREASE IN HOG SUPPLY FAILS TO EASE SHORTAGE

A slight increase in hog receipts at principal packing centers yesterday brought no easing of the tight supply situation in pork and hogs. Distribution authorities in the Chicago stock yards said requirements had expanded much faster than supplies in the last two weeks, and that demand was much larger than six weeks ago when production was substantially heavier than now.

Buyers paid ceiling prices for nearly all hogs offered. The $14.75 per hundred pounds top was paid for all good stock weighing 140 pounds and more, and all sows and stags sold at $14, their ceiling.

Lambs sold steady to 10 cents higher. Cattle were generally steady.

Civilian Soft Drink Total May Dip to 60% Normal

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—The American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages said today soft drinks for home consumption in 1945 would shrink to about 60 per cent of normal if industrial sugar rations remained at current levels thruout the year. The association said supplies would fall to about 5 billion 600 million bottles, compared with 8 billion 800 million in 1941 and about 800 million less than in 1944. Sugar allowances were cut to 70 per cent of pre-war levels for the first quarter of 1945.

Bell & Howell Plans to Buy Plant of DPC

Plans of Bell and Howell company to purchase from the Defense Plant corporation its Lincolnwood plant at 7100 McCormick blvd. were announced yesterday by J. H. McNabb, president, when he disclosed that stockholders will be asked at a special meeting next Monday to authorize 60,000 shares of cumulative preferred stock and an exchange of common stock.

Under the plan, which calls for the company's first public financing, the 60,000 shares of $100 per value preferred would be issuable in series, and authorized common stock changed from 20,000 shares of $25 par value to 1 million shares of $10 par value. Each of the 20,000 shares outstanding would be reclassified into 25 new shares, resulting in 500,000 outstanding.

Plan Inital 30,000 Shares.

If stockholders approve the plan, McNabb said an initial series of 30,000 preferred shares would be issued, and part of the proceeds used to purchase the Lincolnwood plant.

The company's program also calls for an addition to the plant soon, and any of the proceeds not required for its purchase from the DPC or to build the addition will be added to working capital.

Main operations of the company are conducted in the Lincolnwood plant, built for the government in 1942 and of modern architectual design. A photographic supply manufacturer, the company now is engaged in war production.

Some Holders Will Sell.

"It is also contemplated that at the time of the sale of the cumulative preferred stock certain persons and estates now owning substantial blocks of the company's common stock will sell a part of their holdings for distribution to the public," said McNabb, "but the sale of common stock will not involve any financing by the company."

He said the initial preferred series and the common stock to be sold were expected to be offered to the public by a group of underwriters headed by Harriman Ripley & Co.

U. S. FLOUR BIDS LIFT WHEAT AS CORN, OATS SAG

Announcement that the government was seeking flour for relief distribution in Europe lifted the nearby deliveries of wheat futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Other grains were easier. Wheat closed ½ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower. Corn and oats lost ⅛ to ¼ and rye and barley closed off ¼ to ⅜.

Ceiling prices on corn futures traded in on the Chicago Board of Trade will be raised ¼ cent next Monday to the basis of $1.18½ a bushel, directors of the exchange announced. The change is the result of an increase of ¼ cent in the commission charge on cash corn, authorized by the office of price administration.

Ceilings on oats and barley were lowered 1 cent each to 81 cents and $1.22½, respectively, because of revision of an OPA order providing that deliveries on oats and barley futures are to be made on an "in store" basis, with buyers paying the elevation and loading out charges.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—6.

Personal exemptions and tax rates applicable to income tax returns for 1944 and later years have been changed in some respects from those prescribed in earlier years.

The new normal tax, at a flat rate of 3 per cent, replaces the former Victory tax in effect. The new graduated surtax combines the old normal tax and surtax rates, but in a manner which increases the combined tax on the first surtax bracket from 19 per cent to 20 per cent. On the brackets above $12,000 there are increases of 1 to 4 per cent in the surtax rate, compared with the former combined normal tax and surtax. The surtax rates range up to 91 per cent on incomes above $200,000.

The exemption from the normal tax is $500 if the return is for only one person. In filing a joint return, husband and wife, if married at the end of the taxable year, are allowed a combined normal tax exemption of $1,000, except that if one has less than $500 adjusted gross income the combined exemption is $500 plus the smaller of the two incomes. Thus if one has no income, the joint exemption is only $500. Exemptions are subtracted from net income before applying the tax rates.

In computing the surtax, the following exemptions of $500 each are allowed: [1] One for the taxpayer; [2] one for the taxpayer's husband or wife; [3] one for each dependent, as defined by law.

You can claim the surtax exemption for husband or wife—that is, the combined exemption of $1,000—if a joint return is filed. However, in a separate return, a husband can claim exemption for his wife, or vice versa, only if the other had no gross income and did not receive her chief support from another person closely related to her.

These exemptions relating to married couples are different from those in effect under prior law. For 1943, the combined $1,200 exemption then allowed could be deducted from their combined incomes in a joint return, deducted in full by either in a separate return, or divided between the two in any proportions they might choose. Now each can claim $500 exemption individually, but the married couple's exemption cannot be divided in any other manner in separate returns.

You can claim a relative as a dependent only if you provided more than half of his or her support during the year and the relative had income of less than $500. The former "head of family status" has been abolished for tax purposes.

Close relative of the taxpayer is defined as his child or the latter's descendant; legally adopted child, the same as if he were a blood relative; stepchild [but not his or her descendant]; brother or sister, half-brother, half-sister, stepbrother or stepsister; parent, grandparent, or other ancestor, stepfather or stepmother; uncle, aunt, nephew, or niece, but not their husbands or wives; father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, or daughter-in-law.

A citizen of a foreign country cannot be claimed as a dependent unless a resident of the United States, Canada, or Mexico. You cannot claim exemption for any relative who files a joint tax return with another person [the relative's husband or wife].

[Capital gains and losses will be discussed in Thursday's article.]

OPEN CAMPAIGN TO BETTER NEAR NORTH SECTION

Broad Co-operative Effort Sought.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans for a big coördinated campaign to make the near north side a better place in which to live and work were outlined yesterday by the North Central association.

Randolph Bohrer.

Objectives of the program are elimination of slums and blighted areas by making more and better housing available, more modern school facilities, cleaner streets and alleys, one-way thorofares to relieve traffic congestion, elimination of fire hazards, increased police protection, more recreational facilities, enforcement of zoning laws, and improved street lighting.

Other neighborhood organizations will be invited to join the campaign. Both groups and individuals will be asked to help conduct an immediate survey of the entire area bounded by Diversey pkwy., the north branch of the Chicago river, Randolph st., and the lake.

Appoint Steering Group.

Atty. Randolph Bohrer, a vice president of North Central, presented a report to its board of directors and obtained the appointment of a steering committee of five to guide the improvement program and make it effective.

Selected to work with him were John W. Cameron, Kellogg Fairbank Jr., Dr. A. J. Lendino, and Maj. Robert H. Reed. The association met in the Hotel Sherman.

"In the north central territory, which is second only to the loop in its taxable values, are the world's largest business building and the world's largest one-purpose exhibition building," he said.

"It also contains one of the world's biggest mail order firms, one of the world's best known parks, one of the most magnificent boulevards, a world famous shopping avenue, and the greatest concentration of tall apartment buildings in the city."

This Is the Other Side.

On the other hand, Bohrer said, it contains some of the city's most wretched housing, dilapidated public schools, trash filled and rat infested alleys, hundreds of fire hazards, poor street lighting, inadequate police protection, and traffic congestion.

"The question of housing," said Bohrer, "deserves the best thought and efforts of the association. Our district contains some of the world's finest and some of its worst housing. Large areas are suffering from a creeping blight and some are badly run down. Many families in such areas own their homes and prefer to remain in the familiar territory, near people and institutions they cherish.

"Some are anxious to occupy new homes, but individual financing in such areas is exceedingly difficult to obtain. What greater contribution could this association make to the future of the community than to assist these people to formulate plans and obtain financing to rebuild their areas?"

Pennsy Road Earnings Fall; Gross at Peak

Altho the Pennsylvania railroad in 1944 did the largest volume of business in its almost 100 years history, its net income of $64,720,431 showed a decline of $20,698,053 from 1943, M. W. Clement, president, reported to stockholders yesterday.

Operating revenues for the first time passed the 1 billion dollar mark, exceeding it by 10 million in 1944. They showed a gain of $30,242,757 over 1943, but operating expenses increased $72,808,034. The increase was the result of higher wages, higher prices for materials and fuels, and additional costs incident to handling the larger traffic.

Taxes Top 152 Millions.

Clement said that taxes, including unemployment insurance and railroad retirement, totaled $152,838,409, taking about 70 cents of every dollar remaining after paying operating expenses and other charges. Taxes have reached a point where it has become almost impossible to create reserves "that should be provided—in fact, should be required—for rehabilitation after the war," he said.

Because of scarcity of man power and materials deferred maintenance continued to accumulate, he continued. He said the railroads had been unsuccessful in obtaining necessary tax legislation to make effective deferred maintenance reserves which might have been accumulated to repair the wear and tear caused by heavy war traffic. Such work after the war would help provide jobs, he said.

Continues Debt Reduction.

Clement said that despite the urgent need, it was impossible during 1944 to acquire any new passenger equipment. He expressed hope that at least moderate additions could be made this year.

The road continued its policy of reducing its debt in 1944, with a net reduction in debt held by the public of $31,283,927. In the last five years the total has been reduced 138 million dollars. Refunding operations in 1944 and so far this year retired four issues of bonds totaling $140,735,000. New issues totaling $129,735,000 and bearing lower rates of interest helped provide funds for the redemptions.

United Merchants Votes Dividends in Stock, Cash

Directors of United Merchants and Manufacturers yesterday ordered issuance on March 7 of one additional share for each common share held as of record Feb. 28, putting into effect a two for one split authorized by stockholders Feb. 14. A quarterly dividend of 30 cents was declared payable March 13. Fifty cents was paid in each of the 1944 quarters on the smaller number of shares.

GAS COMPANY PROFIT DIPS TO $4.67 A SHARE

Operating Revenue Gains in 1944.

Peoples Gas Light and Coke company had 1944 net income of $3,064,876, equal to $4.67 a share, compared with 1943 profit of $3,685,888, or $5.62 a share, George A. Ranney, chairman, yesterday told stockholders in his annual report.

Gross income was $221,609 below the preceding year's gross. This and a non-recurring refinancing expense of $392,065 incurred in 1944 accounted for most of the decline in net income, said Ranney.

Volume Sold Up Slightly.

Total operating revenues rose to $43,088,396 from $42,782,322 in 1943. Sales of the utility, which supplies the entire gas requirements of Chicago, increased .27 per cent in the number of therms sold to all classes of customers. Revenues from gas sales increased $471,044, or 1.12 per cent.

Gas consumption by residential customers increased slightly. Ranney said the gain was small because of unusually low consumption for home heating resulting from generally higher temperatures thruout the year and response to the company's appeal for conservation.

Therms sold to commercial customers increased 1,000,582 largely because of increased demands by service enterprises such as hotels, laundries, restaurants, and cleaning establishments. An increase in industrial sales of 13,615,478 therms was attributed to war activities.

Taxes Rise, Expenses Dip.

Operating expenses and taxes totaled $37,686,931 against $37,066,114 in 1943. Increased provisions for federal income taxes more than accounted for this increase and were offset by decreases in some expense items, Ranney said. Maintenance expenditures in 1944 of $1,155,093 approximated those of 1943, he said.

Gross additions to the company's utility plant amounted to $2,939,338 in 1944. To provide needed additional capacity for the system, natural gas was made available to the company's Division, South and 22d st stations by installation of a pipeline from Crawford station at a cost of $1,466,226.

Ranney said the company has complied with the government's request in accumulating coal inventories sufficient to insure protection for peak demands, but present inventories are much less than adequate.

STOCK MARKET SETS NEW PEAK, ENDS IRREGULAR

Light Selling Pressure Reduces Gains.

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—The stock market climbed to another 7½ year peak today despite light selling which put a crimp in many leaders and restricted most gains to fractions.

Investment demand, based on inflation psychology and income prospects, remained the principal buying influence. Good war news also was helpful. Caution was a bit more pronounced, however, as analysts held a "technical correction" of the long rise was to be expected.

Dealings were the most active and prices near their tops in the forenoon. Activity then tapered and the close was irregular. Transfers of 1,770,000 shares compared with 1,800,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite held a net advance of 0.2 at 62, a top closing figure since Sept. 4, 1937. In a broad market of 994 issues, 432 rose, 339 declined and 223 were unchanged.

BOND PRICES UNEVEN.

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—The bond market developed irregularity today as recently strong issues encountered selling altho numerous favorites were strongly supported.

The 20 rails in the Associated Press averages edged to a new peak and the 10 foreign bonds made a new top on robust gains in some of the South American and Nazi occupied European countries' issues. Transfers of $11,635,000 compared with $12,170,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO PRICES MIXED.

Prices were mixed and volume declined to 65,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Leaders included Armour, up ¼; Chicago corporation common, up ⅛; Admiral corporation, up ⅛ to a 1944-'45 high of 14⅛, and Central and South West Utilities common and Asbestos Manufacturing, both unchanged. Also at new peaks were Central and South West Utilities preferred, up 3, and Parker Pen, up 1.

EXPAND TRANSIT DISTRICT PLAN, DURHAM URGES

Wants Three Inter-County Systems Included.

Objections to the transit district plan of Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green on the ground that it does not take in enough territory were voiced yesterday by Frank J. Durham, insurance executive and president of the Citizens Transportation association.

He said the plan should include the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin, and the North Shore railroads, both of which use the tracks of the elevated company in Chicago, and the Chicago and West Towns railways, which serves the west suburbs, and has a line that runs into Du Page county. The Kelly-Green plan would not cross the Cook county line.

Congratulates Two on Pact.

Durham, who filed a petition for a comprehensive transit district with the Illinois commerce commission several weeks ago, congratulated the mayor and governor on their agreement to work for a better local transportation system. He added, however, that several points must be cleared up by legislation to make the scheme fully feasible and just.

Among these points he and his attorney, William R. Morgan, listed the importance of obtaining fair valuations on the street car and elevated systems, the only properties slated for immediate acquisition and municipal operation. Such valuations are needed to determine fair prices to be paid the present owners and should be based on original cost, minus depreciation, Durham said. All property that must be retired should be given a zero mark for worth, he asserted.

Modernization Needs Stressed.

Durham also urged that plans for financing the purchase of the L and the surface lines include provisions that would assure further borrowing for modernization, which will cost upwards of 100 million dollars. He said that if any compensation is paid to the city by the proposed municipal transit corporation for use of streets, the amount should be moderate and should be forgiven until the company is on a sound financial footing.

The traction scheme is to be discussed Friday afternoon at a meeting of village officials to be held in the offices of the commerce commission, 160 N. La Salle st. Evanston, Wilmette, Skokie, and Maywood are among the municipalities that will be represented.
